Letting Convicts Read
Taking Babies Away

The Man Without a Car

WARDEN LAWES of Sing Sing prison, wise man, says, "I shall let my convicts read newspaper accounts of the outbreak in the Auburn penitentiary. There will be a good deal of buzzing when they read them. But the effect on their morale of withholding the newspapers would be worse than allowing them to see them."

That's an intelligent man. The czars might be ruling yet had they known enough to let the people know the facts.

Information and discussion supply a great safety valve.

The warden of Auburn prison, captured by convicts in rebellion, said the convicts, of whom many are dead, were made desperate by the knowledge that if they failed they would surely go to the electric chair. In this case, at least, capital punishment did not deter men from murder.

On the other hand, in Britain, where crime is diminishing and many prisons are empty, burglars and other criminals do not even take pistols with them, fearing they might use them. They know that to use them means hanging within a few days.

An "expert" of the Russian government proposes that all babies be taken from their mothers "immediately after birth," and brought up by the state. He wouldn't even give them time to be weaned.

Somebody should tell that gentleman the difference between mother's milk and other milk.

Also somebody should tell Stalin, Russia's real leader, that while human beings will stand much regulating, women rule in the end and will not allow their children to be taken from them.

Sparta tried that, although it didn't take unweaned babies from their mothers. Sparta did not live.

Ignorance unfortunately accompanies the raising of children in spiritual and material things.

An able physician says, "99 per cent of families are ignorant of the proper care of children."

Nevertheless, an ignorant mother is better for the child than the most scientific and cold-blooded government institution.

The Duchess of Athol, who goes to and fro on the earth and up and down therein, and sits in the House of Commons, asks the imperial government to interfere with frightful cruelties inflicted upon native girls before marriage and during marriage ceremonies in Africa.

Atrocities committed could not be printed. They are, however, not confined to Africa, or any particular savage race or tribe. The history of human marriage proves it.

In one place in South America when a man marries a woman he stands her with the back of her head against a tree and knocks out her two upper middle front teeth, to show that she is married and belongs to him, and that's a comparatively mild form of brutality.

Primitive savages are afraid of woman, superstitious about her strange powers, and other things concerning her.

Among certain savages it has even been the custom to compel a girl, before marriage, to consort with four or five men of the tribe, including her future husband, that husband feeling himself inadequate to the occasion. It will take a long time to uproot those ancient superstitions and brutalities.

Somebody, supposed to be an expert, says the United States will manufacture in 1930 one million fewer automobiles than in 1929.

That prediction, probably mistaken, is not creditable to the people's intelligence.

Many things a family can do without, but no family is properly organized without a good automobile.

When one is worn out it should be replaced. When a better automobile appears, and a family can afford a better one, it should be got.

Automobiles mean saving time, consequently longer real life. A man who can "get along without an automobile" is one whose time and life are not worth much.

Former Governor Smith, who got 15,000,000 votes for President on the Democratic ticket, about twice as many as any other Democrat ever got, makes this interesting announcement.

In the center of the 85-story building, with tower 1100 feet high, that he is erecting on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria in New York city, Governor Smith plans a mooring mast for Zeppelin airships.

Air passengers will come down from their ships, landing at the corner of 34th st. and Fifth ave. in a few minutes, instead of coming all the way in from Lakehurst, N. J.

If Governor Smith puts that through he will contribute something to transportation progress.

GOVERNOR IS BOOMED FOR SENATE

Rumor Says G. O. P. Leaders May Draft Him to Run for Gillett's Seat

Already a bit distraught over the Senatorial situation, Bay State Republicans became somewhat more confused today when a report was circulated that G. O. P. leaders are considering drafting Gov. Allen as party candidate for Senator Gillette's seat.

If this should occur, it was pointed out, there would necessarily be staged a battle for the Republican nomination for governor, with Lt.-Gov. Youngman, ex-Gov. Fuller, Mayor Nichols and Gaspar G. Bacon, president of the Senate, as leading contenders.

However, none of those concerned in the two affairs—or rumored to be concerned—admitted today having been approached.

BROWNING-KING BURNED OUT IN PROVIDENCE

$145,000 Loss in a Three-Alarm Fire That Sweeps Christmas Stock

Providence, Dec. 13—Ruining Christmas stocks and threatening a conflagration in the business district, fire today swept through the Browning-King Clothing Co. building with a damage of $145,000.

Three alarms was sounded for the blaze, believed to have started through spontaneous combustion in oil rags on the fifth floor of the five-story brick building at Eddy and Westminster sts.

Painters had been at work on the fifth floor for several days.

Flames were shooting 25 feet in the air when the first apparatus, in charge of Fire Chief Frank Charlesworth, reached the scene.

Chief Charlesworth, fearing a spread to other large buildings nearby, ordered a second alarm and then a third.

Within a few hundred yards of the Browning-King building are three large department stores, two banks and the City Hall.

By fast work the fire fighters halted the flames as they ate downward to the fourth floor.

Thousands of gallons of water poured into the building, combined with heavy smoke that rolled downward in the damp, murky atmosphere, ruined practically the entire stock of the store, however.

The store had only recently ex-

2 WOMEN AND MAN DROWN IN BRIDGE CRASH

Two Bodies Recovered, but No Trace of Third Victim Has Been Found

Rockland, Me., Dec. 13—Two women and a man went to their deaths today when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on the Warren toll bridge, crashed through a wooden abutment and plunged into the Georges river.

The victims were Mrs. Snow Hall, 22, and Mrs. Harold Kenniston, 24, both of Rockland, and Earl Murphy, 30, of Stonington.

Harold Kenniston, husband of Mrs. Kenniston, following in another car with Robert Brewer, made an attempt to rescue Murphy who appeared above the surface but the rapid current carried the man away.

The body of Mrs. Kenniston was recovered when the car was raised, and Mrs. Hall's body was found with grappling irons some 50 feet away, but no trace could be found of Murphy.

The Kennistons had been married seven years and had no children. Mrs. Hall leaves a husband, Albert, 25, and a daughter, Grace, three.

According to Kenniston the party was returning from a dance, with the two women riding in the coupe of Murphy, Kenniston's partner in a Rockland antique business.

Kenniston said the coupe struck a bump on the drawbridge, shot two feet into the air, swerved, ploughed through the abutment and dropped 15 feet into the river.

The stream is some 20 feet deep at this point, with a rapid current.

Kenniston leaped out of his car dragging a towrope and ran to the river bank beside the bridge. He said Murphy's face, blood covered, appeared above the surface and he threw him the rope, but the swift current bore him away downstream. Apparently he had fought his way out of the car.

Some hours later Fred Blackington of Rockland rigged a derrick on the bridge and raised the coupe, in which the body of Mrs. Kenniston was found. Deep lacerations on the face and head indicated she was probably dead when the machine

Philip Wadsworth to Wed Mrs. DeFriez

Philip Wadsworth, wealthy Boston architect, and Mrs. Thaddeus C. DeFriez of Boston and Manchester-by-the-Sea, filed marriage intentions today.

The couple, who were severely burned in an explosion on Wadsworth's new yacht Nadringa at Marblehead last June, went to Municipal Court later today and obtained a waiver of the five-day law by Judge Joseph P. Zottoli. They planned to be married immediately.

In the marriage intentions Wadsworth gave his as 48, and his address as 116 Charles st., Boston. He was divorced in June, a week before the explosion, from Mrs. Constance Amory Wadsworth on grounds of utter desertion.

The bride to be is a widow, 41 years old, giving her name as Grace C. DeFriez, and her address as Beacon st., Boston.

The fact that the Wadsworths, prominent in Boston and North Shore society, had been divorced, was revealed publicly following the explosion which sent Wadsworth, Mrs. DeFriez and David Abbott, captain of the yacht, to a hospital.

The craft, a 50-foot ketch recently acquired by the architect, was anchored off the Eastern yacht club pier at Marblehead, with Abbott on deck and the owner and his guest below, when the explosion shattered the quiet of the harbor.

All three persons on board were blown into the water to be picked up by launches, while the flaming yacht sank to the bottom. The explosion was said to have been caused by a gasoline camp stove in the galley.

Mrs. DeFriez was the former Miss Grace L. Croll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll. She has a daughter, Pauline.

BEAR RAID HITS PRICES A JOLT

New York, Dec. 13—After scoring a good rally at the beginning of trading today, industrial stocks were given another dose of rough bearish handling and many of the speculative favorites dipped below the lowest prices reached in yesterday's raid.

The bears scrambled for cover when the opening gong sounded, but outside demand for stocks was so small that the bulls were able to keep the early rally in motion. Late rallies appeared in pivotal issues.

The market was in a turmoil as high-priced stocks rushed up and down the price scale. U. S. Steel, opening at 167½, rose to 172, dropped back to 164½, and rallied a few points. General Electric old stock was again under fire and at 220 the stock was down 37 points from the high of the move a 12

Washington Crowds Cheer 'Al' Smith

Washington, Dec. 13—Amid scenes reminiscent of his political campaign last year, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York arrived at the Navy Department today to discuss with Secretary Adams the feasibility of placing a dirigible mooring mast on the 85-story building Smith's company is constructing in New York City.

Virtually the entire personnel of the Navy Department lined the corridors of the huge building and gave the former Democratic presidential candidate a tremendous ovation.

With shouts and cheers ringing in his ears, "Al," smilingly as usual, and accompanied by several guards, literally had to fight his way up the steps to the secretary's office.

He found the experience gained in pushing through mobs of people from the Atlantic seaboard to the Rockies today was much to his advantage. Hundreds, mostly women, crowded about him endeavoring to shake his hands.

The shout of "Hello, Al," once given by thousands in the cam

Captain Ross Resigns as Inquiry Is Ended

In a surprise move and as a board of inquiry's findings were about to be announced, Capt. Donald T. Ross, commanding Co. A, 182nd Inf., M. N. G., resigned his command today.

Announcement of the resignation and of Gov. Allen's approval was made by Adj.-Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, in the following statement:

"Investigation of conditions at the Haverhill armory was closed this afternoon when the resignation of Capt. Donald T. Ross of Co. A, 182nd Inf., was approved by Gov. Allen.

"Capt. Ross resigned during an investigation by a court of inquiry appointed by this office to look into an affair at the armory about Oct. 19.

"The board was empowered to make a complete investigation and recommend any disciplinary or other action considered necessary. Such a board is provided for in regulations to safeguard the best interests of the National Guard in all such routine affairs."

The board of inquiry was composed of Col. Daniel Needham of the 101st Field Artillery, Maj. Kenneth McKillop and Maj. Thomas Moran, both of the 101st Infantry. The nature of the charges never was revealed.

Immediately after the adjutant-general's announcement, Col. George G. Moyse of Waltham, commanding the 182nd Infantry, stated that First Lieut. Walter S. Brock would command Co. A until a successor to Capt. Ross can be named.

LA GUARDIA CALLS ON LIBERALS TO WAGE WAR ON VOLSTEADISM

MEETING IS CALLED FOR TOMORROW

Gathering of House Members Will Be First in More Than Two Years

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

Washington, Dec. 13—Liberals in Congress who favor modification of prohibition laws have been called to attend a meeting tomorrow for the purpose of mapping a vigorous drive.

Rep. F. H. LaGuardia, Republican of New York issued the call, with Reps. Harry L. Englebright of California and John C. Schafer of Wisconsin, both Republicans, joining him.

It will bring together the first conference in more than two years of the unofficial committee of Liberals on prohibition in Congress. The committee numbers about 60 avowed modificationists.

Some surprise was expressed when it was learned LaGuardia had issued the call. Rep. J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat, of Maryland, was elected chairman of the former unofficial committee. It was pointed out, however, Linthicum had failed to call a conference in more than two years, despite important developments in the prohibition situation.

Linthicum was not at the Capitol when LaGuardia's call was made known, though a few of the liberals may not attend Saturday's meeting on the ground that LaGuardia should not have issued the call, it was said on all sides that they would work together in the common purpose—modification of Volsteadism.

"We have not met for over two years and it is time we got together and made a survey of the situation, with a view to mapping a program of action," said LaGuardia.

He did not indicate any desire to oust Linthicum as spokesman. Englebright and Schafer also declared that Saturday's meeting was not for the purpose of sidetracking the Maryland Liberal.

"We want to get together and discuss the prohibition situation, so that we can work more effectively for modification in the House," said Englebright.

JOHN PUTS HIS CASH IN BANK

Lowell, Dec. 13 (AP)—John Buckley, who works on the railroad up around Lincoln, N. H., was given a lesson in thrift today by Judge Frederic A. Fisher.

John had grown weary of driving railroad spikes and that sort of thing and came down to Lowell to relieve the monotony. The police found him as he was about to be "rolled" by some chance acquaintances after his celebration had left him contemplating the world through a roseate mist.

When John appeared before Judge Fisher today, $144 of his holiday fund remained. Judge Fisher thought it would be a nice idea if John started a bank account. John thought he could do with his money as he pleased.

Judge Fisher thought of several things he could do with John. John thought perhaps the judge was right. A patrolman saw him deposit $125 in a local bank and board a Lincoln bound train.

points for the day. Westinghouse and other high-priced specialties roamed around in a wider price range and new losses of a point or two were recorded for a number of the moderate-priced industrial shares.

Fox Film A dropped about 8 points to a new low of 34 on rumor of dissatisfaction with the position occupied by the holders of this stock in the capitalization plan of the company.

The new selling wave in this stock, together with the weakness in New York Central and other high-grade rails, went a long way toward unsettling the whole list and in frightening off the timid bulls who might otherwise have been tempted into the market.

An increase of $33,330,000 in brokers' loans as reported last night by the reserve board was conclusive evidence of the return of margin traders to speculative ground.

Personal Study of Teachers Is Urged

"In order to determine whether married women or single women make the best teachers, we must study the emotional life of the teachers themselves, and since there is no definite standard of measurement as yet, it is difficult to say which group is superior." This statement was made by W. Linwood Chase, professor of education at Boston University's school of education, in answer to the startling statements made recently by Dr. Bernard Glueck, who declared that married women make the best teachers.

'King' Booze Rides in Pomp to Portsmouth

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 13 (AP)—A total of 320 brine-soaked sacks, known to the trade as "cases" of European liquors in three trucks were escorted to this city today with all the extravagant pomp and majesty becoming an Asiatic potentate and were placed tenderly away in the customs storehouse.

The liquor, the property of unidentified rum-runners, was dragged up from its watery cache off Rye Beach by coast guards and is valued by customs officials at $20,000. It was found in approximately the same spot where 139 casse were found last July. It will remain in storage until a federal court decides as to its disposal.

The cache was discovered after a few cases were found on the beach. Coast guards, profiting by their experience of last summer, began dragging the waters off the beach. The spot, it was believed, was chosen as a permanent cache by rum runners, who drew from it as occasion required.

The three truck loads were escorted to Portsmouth today by an array of state and local police, coast guards from two stations and customs officials.

POSES FOR PICTURES.

After his conference with the secretary, at which Assistant Secretaries Jahncke and Ingalls and Rear Admiral Moffett, in charge of navy aeronautics, were present, the former governor said Mr. Adams had indicated a desire to help and had turned technical consideration of the proposal over to Moffett for sutdy.

Smith said he did not plan any political conferences today, although he intended to look up Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York.

"I am interested in constructing buildings and landing airships now and not politics," he said.

Once the conference was over Smith and Adams posed for photographs. Adams every moment or so glanced at his watch. The secretary already was late for a Cabinet meeting at the White House because of the tardiness of the governor. One picture was taken of the governor sitting at a desk in Adams' office.

Next Smith and Moffett posed for pictures.

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The pages of the Senate have formed a Boy Scout troop, to emphasize the citizenship section of the organization's program and assist their brother Scouts throughout the nation in this subject.

The troop committee includes, in order that no party partiality should be shown, a Republican and a Democratic member of the Senate, Couzens of Michigan and Brock of Tennessee. Senator Moses of New Hampshire has arranged that a basement room be turned over to the troop for headquarters.

NEW BOARD FOR 'DRY' REPEAL

Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook today was notified of the organization of a new political committee to work for the repeal of the "Baby Volstead Act."

The committee, to be known as the Constitutional Liberty League Political Committee, is composed of these members:

Charles S. Rackemann, chairmann; Julian Codman, treasurer; Alexander Lincoln and Francis Bangs, all of Boston, and Donald Moffat of Brookline.

Senate Will Put Tariff Bill Ahead

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Assurance was given in the Senate today by Sen. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, that he would favor consideration of legislation for disposition of the gigantic Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power plant after the Senate finishes the tariff bill.

Watson made this statement on the floor to Sen. Black, Democrat, Alabama, who previously had blocked consideration of the tax reduction resolution until he had an agreement for a palce on the calendar of the Muscle Shoals legislation.

HOOVER LAWYER GOT $75,000 SUGAR FEE

Walsh Charges Cuban Company "Bought" Shattuck to Influence President

Washington, Dec. 13 (INS)—Edward P. Shattuck, President Hoover's personal attorney, was paid a fee of $75,000 to represent Cuban sugar interests in this country, it was revealed today at the Senate's lobby inquiry.

This provoked a charge by Senator Walsh (D.) of Montana that the Cuban sugar interests had bought Shattuck's services for the purpose of "influencing President Hoover."

With Herbert C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Company, again on the witness stand, the lobby committee brought out Shattuck's activities in behalf of a low duty on Cuban sugar imports. Most of the revelations came from letters Lakin had written to President Machado of Cuba or members of his cabinet.

In one letter Lakin said he "couldn't put the source of our information in writing."

In another he wrote: "We must not dictate to Shattuck how he shall handle this matter."

Shattuck held several conferences with Mr. Hoover, Lakin asserted in his correspondence. He wrote the President had directed Shattuck to hold a conference with Senator Smoot (R.) of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, on Cuban sugar rates. It was explained this conference was over the famous "sliding scale."

One of Lakin's letters to President Machado attracted the commitee's special interest.

ALLEN SPIKES HULTMAN TALK

The guessing contest now on as to who is going to be appointed to what, received a jolt today when Gov. Allen emphatically declared he is not considering Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman as a successor to Civil Service Commissioner Elliott H. Goodwin.

"I am not considering Mr. Hultman for that position," he stated, and indicated that no other names are under consideration as successors to Goodwin.

The governor's flat-footed declaration, made in response to an equally pointed question, considerably upset the "dope," but speculators turned cheerfully to City Hall.

There was the rumor that Charles H. Gow, prominent Republican, would resign as postmaster to be appointed superintendent of construction by the newly created schoolhouse commission, to be succeeded in the Federal position by Mayor Nichols.

There was also the report that Fire Commissioner Hultman would succeed Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, who, the dopesters believe, may succeed Civil Service Commissioner Goodwin. Wilson's name has also been mentioned as a possible superintendent of schoolhouse construction.

In the case of the fire commissionership, the rumors had it that Chief Fennott was to be promoted to that post.

Hoover Will Pass on His Own Caricature

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Arts Club seems unable to decide whether a certain caricature of the United States is in good taste, and Mr. Hoover himself may pass upon the question.

The drawing, a caricature in oils by Charles Dunn, Washington artist, along with caricatures of Calvin Coolidge, Andrew Mellon and Alfred E. Smith, was on exhibition at the Arts Club. It was simply another exhibition until some women members of the club dropped in. They did not seem to mind the emphasis put on Mr. Coolidge's nose by the artist nor the exaggerations of certain features of Mr. Mellon and Mr. Smith, but they stopped before the Hoover caricature and pronounced it "disrespectful."

Removal of the drawing was demanded and removal followed. Now rumor has it that the President has heard of the furore through his secretary, George Akerson, and that, somewhat amused, he has expressed a desire to see the caricature.

FILES OLD AGE AID MEASURE

A bill to authorize the State Department of Welfare to establish bureaus of old age assistance to take care of needy old age cases was filed today at the State House by Rep. Albert W. Bullock of Waltham.

The bill was defeated at the last session of the legislature after it had been attacked by Wendell W. Thore of Squantum as a "charitable" measure. Thore, foremost advocate of a non-contributory old-age pension, argued that needy aged citizens should have the pension as a right without any taint of charity.

INDOOR GOLF RUINED.

No one was in the building at the time the fire was discovered, the first employes being due half an hour later.

Included in the heavy damage area was a new indoor golf course, recently installed on the fifth floor by the company.

Benjamin C. Hall, Providence manager for the clothing concern, estimated damage to the building itself as $20,000 and to the stock at approximately $125,000.

200 Harvard Students Flee Caverly Hall Fire

While a score of wealthy Harvard students, living in Caverly Hall on the Harvard Gold Coast, Mt. Auburn st., Cambridge, fought a fire on the fourth floor of the building pending the arrival of firemen 200 others were forced to flee in night attire to escape the acrid fumes of thick smoke.

The fire was discovered early this morning when most of the students were asleep, by a late arrival at the dormitory. Summoning 20 of the men living on the fourth floor to battle the fire the youth, whose identity is unknown, then rushed through the building to warn other occupants.

When the firemen arrived they found the quickly-formed fire fighters waging a desperate battle to keep the flames in check. Fireman said that their efforts had undoubtedly saved the building one of the most famous on the Gold Coast from destruction.

TAX SLASH BILL IS TAKEN UP BY SENATE

Tariff Debate Is Sidetracked Over the Protest of Senator Blaine

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—After once taking up the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution today, the Senate later was forced to make a record decision between consideration of the tax cut and the tariff bill, and voted overwhelmingly to go ahead with taxes.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, refused to permit the tariff bill to be laid aside temporarily for consideration of the tax resolution when the tarif measure automatically came before the Senate.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, thereupon moved to go ahead with the tax resolution and his motion was carried, 60 to 15, Democratic and Republican leaders joining in its support.

LEADERS PRESS FOR VOTE

The vote was believed indicative of the measure of strength for the tax resolution in the Senate and leaders were pressing for an early decision.

Those voting against laying aside the tariff for immediate disposition of the tax resolution were:

Republicans — Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Cutting, Frazier, LaFollette, Norris, Nye, Norbeck, McMaster and Schall—11.

Democrats—Blease, Connally, Thomas of Oklahoma, and Wheeler—4.

The Republican Independents, led by Senators Norris, Nebraska, and Borah, Idaho, assailed the proposed cut in the corporation levy on this year's income, contending the corporations already had passed their taxes onto the consumers and the tax cut would amount merely to a bonus.

SMOOT DEFENDS BILL

Norris argued it would be better for the country, anyway, to apply the $160,000,000 treasury surplus to the reduction of the war debt.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee rushed to its support and Senators Simmons, North Carolina, and Copeland, New York, both Democrats, joined him.

Simmons said it was his understanding the tax resolution was proposed in the thought that "if this surplus was returned to the taxpayers it would tend largely to remove a psychological situation that threatened serious consequences." He argued that this purpose would be defeated if the proposed cut for the corporations was eliminated.

REPORTER DIES BY CYANIDE

Worcester, Dec. 13—Francis P. Horgan, 24, a Worcester Gazette reporter, committed suicide today in Hotel Portland by swallowing cyanide of potassium.

Horgan had notified colleagues earlier of intention to take a "cyanide cocktail." He left a note asking that his brother, John, fire department clerk, be notified.

Mother, father and brother survive him. They live in Vernon st.

Horgan reported for work as usual today and received his customary assignment to police and fire headquarters.

He had coffee with other reporters in a restaurant, and it was then he spoke of a "cyanide cocktail," which the other newspapermen took as a joke.

Leaving them, he went to fire headquarters, then to the hotel and was found unconscious in a basement washroom. A pound can of cyanide was in his possession.

Horgan was a graduate of Classical High School, where he had been a star football and basketball player.

COURT REFUSES TO BAR RUSSELL FROM CAMBRIDGE MAYORALTY

Bleachery Workers Happy as Settlement of Strike Vanishes Vision of Being Homeless at Christmas

Selina Rhodes and Anna Hutchins, 17-year-old employes of the Bradford Dyeing Association, were among the 350 employes who went on strike. Now the strike is all over and they are glad.

A joyous Christmas is made possible for these two families, among the many who were threatened with the loss of their homes before the holiday season came around, as a result of a strike of 350 dyehouse and bleachery workers at Bradford, R. I. In the group are William Waltzencroft and William Addison with their wives and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cabral and their one-year-old baby and young son were among those who had received notices to vacate their homes just before the strike was settled. (All staff photos.)

Court Refuses to Bar Mayor-Elect Russell

The move for a new mayoralty election in Cambridge was denied today by Judge Cox in equity motion session of Superior Court.

Without comment the judge denied the petition brought by six residents seeking leave to file an election petition on the grounds that Mayor-elect Richard M. Russell spent between $50,000 and $100,000 defeating Mayor Edward W. Quinn, whereas the statutes allowed him to spend but $1400.

Neither the petitioners nor their counsel was in court when Judge Cox handed down his decision through the court clerk.

Atty. Thomas H. Mahoney for the petitioners later appealed to Judge Cox to reopen the case, declaring that he wanted to cross-examine a defense witness and also summons Russell. Judge Cox refused to consider his plea.

John Bates, editor of a Cambridge newspaper, was present, prepared, he said, to deny testimony that he entered into an arrangement with Russell for the latter to pay for the paper stock of special editions printed in behalf of the mayor-elect.

The six petitioners were Edna Lawrence Spencer, John J. Walker, Robert H. Ambrose, Margaret A. Sears, Daniel O'Brien and Frank J. Lehan.

Mayor Quinn had denied any connection with the proceedings and any sympathy with them.

Russell, son of the late Gov. William E. Russell, will assume the mayoralty Jan. 6.

Harold Crowley, proprietor of a Cambridge gasoline filling station, was the one witness who appeared before Judge Cox yesterday. He voluntarily appeared in the equity session and requested Judge Cox to allow him to give testimony repudiating certain testimony given by another witness the previous day. Permitted to take the stand, Crowley testified:

"I wish to repudiate the testimony of Frank J. Lehan in which he said he talked with me and said I had cashed checks of Russell. The truth of the matter is that I was away and my man at the filling station cashed one check signed by Russell and no more. I never cashed any and never talked with Lehan about it."

Lehan, a Cambridge politician, and cousin of City Treasurer Henry F. Lehan, had testified he had talked with Crowley and that Crowley had told him that 10 or more persons had come to him with checks signed by Russell, each of the checks being for $20 and some odd cents and that the persons had told Crowley the checks were given for their services for Russell at polling places.

NEPONSET ASKS BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Business men and property owners in the Neponset section of Dorchester are demanding better fire protection for that district.

Spurred to action by the $100,000 three-alarm fire at the Lawley shipyards Tuesday, they signed a petition to the City Council calling for a change in the runing card of Engine 20, which will, at least, insure some fire protection for the section at all times.

Under the present schedule, Engine 20 is called into other sections to cover for other apparatus, and on second alarms goes to Meeting House Hill to cover for Engine 17.

It is pointed out that had engine 20 been away from Neponset at the time of the Lawley shipyard fire, the blaze would have spread through the entire section with disastrous results. The crew of engine 20 held this fire down until other apparatus arrived and brought it under control.

City Councillor Al Fish will on Monday present an order to the council to remove the existing hazard by changing the schedule to permit engine 20 to remain in its own district.

Calls Corn Buying Motorists Problem

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The motorist who stops at a roadside vegetable stand to purchase a few ears of green corn is considered a major problem in the Department of Agriculture's warfare against the spread of the European corn borer.

A statement to this effect was made by Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chief of the bureau of entomology, in testifying before the House subcommittee on appropriations for the department. He argued for increased funds for the employment of quarantine inspectors.

South End Rum Case Reveals Woman as Informer 11 Years

For nearly a dozen years Mrs. Lizebeth Titarian, East First st., South Boston, has been informer for Boston and federal officers, but worked without publicity until today.

In municipal court she admitted that she had done much work for Sergt. Robert Caverly of police headquarters.

She was a witness against Marie Thompson and George H. Johnson of Albion st., South End, accused of selling half a pint of liquor for 50 cents.

She told Atty. Samuel Witkin she was a graduate nurse, but her husband objected to her nursing because it would keep her out nights.

She professed not to know amounts she had received for informing, except when she received $50 in a federal case. Today she signed a receipt for $3.20, witness fees. The case was continued to January 21.

FOES WARM UP TO GRUNDY

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The smiling and affable face of Joseph R. Grundy, the new senator from Pennsylvania, was one of the first seen in the Senate chamber today and its presence resulted in the Senate having its full membership of 96 members for the first time in three years.

It was Grundy's first full day as a senator. He apparently was giving no thought to the turmoil of less than 24 hours ago when a group of senators spoke out in his presence against his taking a seat because they said he had been connected with the now famous Pennsylvania senatorial campaign of 1926.

Grundy's colleague, Sen. Reed, was standing by to show him such matters of procedure as he was not acquainted with after his many months in the gallery observing the tariff debate.

More friendly than yesterday, a number of senators shook hands with him as they passed.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, one of Mr. Grundy's severest examiners on the lobby committee, crossed the chamber to greet him.

Holyoke Man Dies of Crash Injuries

Holyoke, Dec. 13 (AP)—Eugene Seney, 27, one of five men injured yesterday when a truck collided with an auto, died today of injuries, which included a fractured skull. Four men occupied the truck which crashed with a sedan and threw its occupant out.

SPEEDY TRIALS ORDERED FOR PRISON RIOT

Auburn, N. Y., Dec. 13—With State officials speeding plans to bring to trial surviving leaders of Auburn prison's second mutiny, search went on today for eight guns that disappeared.

Efforts were made to identify three convicts who took part in the riot but regained their cells in the excitement. Eight convicts died in the rioting after the chief keeper was slain.

Mayor Charles D. Osborne issued a statement denying that the Mutual Welfare League was responsible for the outbreak.

The statement, issued through the National Society of Penal Information of which he is president, said:

"It should be distinctly understood that none of the 15 involved in the attempted escape were members of the league. As a matter of fact, through the influence of league officials all inmates on the north cell block marched from the yard to their cells and stayed there quietly during the excitement."

Mayor Osborne has long been interested in the league. He is the son of the late Thomas Mott Osborn, who as Sing Sing warden led prison officials of the country in adopting lenient prison methods.

A special term of Supreme Court was ordered today by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

District Attorney Kenyon said prompt action would be taken to prosecute "every one concerned in the killing of the principal keeper."

A report that Steve Pawlak, Buffalo gangster, died of a bullet of small caliber, was expected to be confirmed or denied by an autopsy. If the bullet was of caliber smaller than those used in the guns of troopers and guards, it was to be assumed Pawlak, rather than be captured, had killed himself, investigators said.

U. S. Court Rules in R. I. Brokerage Case

Providence, Dec. 13 (AP)—Judge Ira Lloyd Letts in United States district court here today said if the state receiver for Mandeville, Brooks & Chaffee, brokerage house, which petitioned for receivership November 18, delivers securities which had been paid for in full by the firm's customers the federal court will not interfere if the bankruptcy laws are carefully observed. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the firm after receivership proceedings started in state courts.

'Friday, 13th' Bobs Up in Swampscott Fire

The "13's" figured prominently today in the lives of the Warrens of Swampscott.

Today, of course, is Friday the 13th. Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Warren live with their children, Dorothy, 8, and Fred, 6, at 67 Salem st., in the Phillips Beach section.

The number of their home, 67, adds up to 13. And the house was afire. It started in basement rubbish.

Warren was awakened by smoke and found his wife unconscious. He staggered with her to the street.

The fire spread to the first and second floors. Warren rushed back into the house, seized his daughter, carried her to safety, and then made a third trip for his son.

The family, after arrival of firemen went to the home of the children's grandmother, at 13 Sheldon st., Lynn.

Firemen succeeded in preventing spread of the flames from the Warren home to other structures in the neighborhood.

Eagle Scout Keeps Title Unsullied

New York, Dec. 13 (INS)—An eagle scout, like the king, can do no wrong in the opinion of County Judge George W. Martin of Brooklyn.

Junior Walker, 19, appeared before the jurist this morning on a charge of first degree robbery. Walker, along with another man still at liberty, was alleged to have robbed John Harrison, 18, of 25 South st., of $21.

After voicing a general denial of the charge against him, Walker declared, "I am an eagle scout, your honor. And I have never done anything to dishonor my standing as such."

"That's good enough for me," Judge Martin said. "I don't believe an eagle scout would commit a robbery. I believe you are telling the truth and I'm going to dismiss the charge."

The judge also obtained a job for Walker, who is a seaman.

WARD HOLDUP MAN IS FOUND AFTER 4 YEARS

Jeremiah Cappello, captured after a four-year search, was identified today as one of the trio that took part in the Ward Baking Co. holdup and murder in Cambridge in September, 1925.

The man accused of the same crime for which Jerry Gedzium ("Jerry the Pole") died in the electric chair a year ago, was picked out of a lineup of 11 men at Cambridge police headquarters.

Identification was made by an eyewitness to the murder. His name was withheld by police who said the witness feared bodily injury from underworld members.

The lineup was arranged by Actin, Patrick J. Hurley of Cambridge.

Cappello was captured by Patrolmen Hannebury and Luzinsky of the East Boston police station. After being quizzed for more than an hour in the district attorney's office at East Cambridge, Cappello was locked up at Cambridge police headquarters. Asst.-Dist.-Atty. Crafts said the good-looking, debonair prisoner had made "some admissions, but not much."

Edward C. Ross, 21-year-old messenger of the Central Trust Co., was shot dead in an automobile on Albany st., Cambridge, and robbed of the Ward Baking Co.'s $10,226.75 payroll by three highwaymen, Sept. 29, 1925.

July 13, 1928, Louis LaCedra, 24, of East Boston, was arrested on an indictment warrant charging him with being the third robber who took part in the hold-up and murder. Two months later Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell nol prossed the indictment and LaCedra was freed. Bushnell said witnesses could not satisfactorily identify LaCedra and that police had insufficient evidence to convict.

Reports that Cappello was the "stool pigeon" who had "turned up" Jerry Gedzium for the crime, and that action against him was not taken until after months of investigation by the slain trust company messenger's father, and strong pressure had been brought in influential quarters, were emphatically denied by Cambridge police.

Capt. Patrick Hurley, head of the Cambridge police detective department, declared he had been prosecuting a most energetic search for four years. He said that a year ago Cambridge rushed detectives to Newport, Vt., and missed Cappello there by a few hours.

Cappello admitted, it was declared that he had been interested in rum-running for some time and this activity often had taken him to the Canadian border.

4 BADLY BEATEN BY GLOUCESTER STRIKE MOB

Gloucester, Dec. 13—Four professional strike breakers at the Ipswich mills were badly beaten early today in front of a lunch room in Washington st., by a crowd of alleged strikers.

One of the strike breakers, Aaron Geary, lost all his upper teeth in the melee and suffered a severe cut on his forehead. An automobile bearing Wisconsin registration plates and alleged to have been used by the strike breakers was wrecked, the windshield and every window of the car being smashed and the engine badly damaged.

According to Gloucester police, the strike breakers, Geary, Thomas Skinner, Marian Kelley and Alexander Smith, have been working nights at the Ipswich Mills. They went to the Depot lunchroom for a midnight supper in an automobile operated by Kelley.

The car was parked in Washington st., outside of the lunchroom. According to police, a man said to be a striker was in the lunchroom at the time. He immediately left.

A few minutes later police were told the four strikebreakers were attracted by a noise outside. They rushed to the door and found a group of men smashing the windows of the car and doing other damage to the machine.

They ran to the car, but as they did the group of men attacked them, police said, and a free-for-all fight started. The four strikebreakers were thrown to the ground.

SHERIFFS TRAP 300 MINE PICKETS

Nokomis, Ill., Dec. 13 (AP)—Three hundred members of the striking National Miners' Union invading Nokomis today to picket mine No. 10 of the Illinois-Indiana Coal Corporation were "bottled up" down town by deputy sheriffs.

They were held prisoners while deputies from Christian County served warrants on 35, who were taken to Taylorville for arraignment.

Belleville, Ill., Dec. 13 (AP)—Four hundred miners at the No. 2 mine of the Lumaghi Coal Company failed to go to work today. They were turned back by a blockade of approximately 50 pickets of the striking National Miners' Union.

It is the first mine in the Belleville sub-district affected by the strike, and is one of the largest mines in this section. No violence was reported.

Wife Seeking for William Youngson

Mrs. William Youngson of Franklin st., Allston, today appealed to the Boston American to aid in finding her husband, for whom a search has been conducted since last August. She fears he may have met with foul play. Although she is working in an attempt to keep her home together she may be obliged to turn her two children over to the state to insure their proper care, she said. Youngson was employed as a chauffeur when he disappeared.

Tells How Lindbergh Raced With Antelope

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Here, as Col. A. J. McNab, Jr., former military attache of the American embassy in Mexico City, explained it, is the true story of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's 15-mile airplane race with a buck antelope in Mexico in October, 1928:

"We had not been in the air many minutes when we sighted the buck. We tried to drive him in one direction, but the beast would have none of it. The colonel would bring his plane down quite low in front of the antelope, but we could not turn his direction. The beast would stop for a moment, wait until the airplane had gone by and then go on the way in which he was headed. It seemed to know the direction he wanted to go and there was no stopping him. Later in the hunt the colonel put his ship down for a time and taxied over the prairie.

"He seemed to enjoy the chase like any American boy. I had the gun, but made no attempt to shoot from the plane. Sometimes we were so high the antelope looked like a jack-rabit, and then the colonel would bring his ship down near the ground and we could see it was an antelope, after all.

A. & P. WORKERS COME TO AID OF GOODFELLOW EDITOR

The Dressing Table Greets Yule With Myriad Gifts

"For he's a jolly GOODFELLOW . . ."

This familiar old song might well apply to several employes of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company working in the big warehouse in [illegible]ester.

This morning one of them picked up the Boston Evening American and read of some of the needy cases being helped by the GOODFELLOWS.

"Say, fellows," shouted the man, "let's be GOODFELLOWS!"

His comrades looked up, startled at what sounded like nonsense. This worker then explained that anyone who sent any contribution to this newspaper to help unfortunate adults or children in having a happy Christmas automatically becomes a "GOODFELLOW."

"O. K. with me," chimed in a listener.

In five minutes the sum of $31.25 was collected in a hat. When the money was brought in to the GOODFELLOW EDITOR, the committee started to apologize for what they thought was a small sum.

"See what you can do with it, anyway," said the spokesman.

The GOODFELLOW EDITOR thanked the men for what he considered a very generous and thoughtful contribution. This money will gladden many a child. Some of the cash will buy warm mittens for one or a sweater for another.

More likely a portion of the gift will buy food for families actually deprived of necessities.

Some ex-service men are likely to join the GOODFELLOWS when they read the following letter from the widow of a soldier who died from after-effects of gas.

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am appealing to your aid for my two children. Their father was a World War veteran and died from the effects of gas. I am getting town aid, and it is almost too small to live on but, nevertheless, I am thankful for all. All I wish is that you will remember my two little girls, ages 5 and 4.

MRS. B.

Arlington.

CAN'T AFFORD TREE

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

My mother is unable to work because she is sick. She told us children we could not afford to have a Christmas tree or presents. My sisters cried and I felt sad. One day I saw a piece in the paper about the Goodfellow Club. Oh, how I wish I could give something and be a member instead of writing for help.

My little sister will be 2 on Dec. 24. My other sister is 11 and I am 12. If you could only get something for us, clothes or anything, we would be so happy. My sisters do not know about my writing for I would love to surprise them. And if you don't mind please, if you could only get me something for my mother. I can just imagine how happy we all would be.

A very thankful child,

CLARA.

Chelsea.

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am a girl 10 years old and have a brother seven-years-old; we are both orphans and hope that you will not forget us this Christmas, as you know what Christmas is without a mother and father. We would like some clothes.

We live with an aunt and she is a widow.

South Boston.

ANNA.

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am a semi-invalid unable to earn anything to support my eight-year-old girl. Her daddy has been away from us for nine months, and it will be a very poor Christmas for us. I am writing for my child's sake and hope God will answer a little child's prayers.

Anything will be appreciated to show her Santa Claus has not forgotten her.

East Cambridge.

MRS. D.

PLEADS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am writing these few lines to ask you to please remember my two little girls. My husband left me two years ago and I was always able to work since that time, but now my health is gone and I have been in the hospital with heart trouble for three months. I am not able to work and my husband's people send me a few dollars to get along on. It isn't much but it is better than nothing.

My two little girls are always telling me what they want from Santa and I just have to fill up with tears. I hope you will remember them and send them some little thing that will cheer them.

My oldest girl is a victim of infantile paralysis and I hope she at least will be remembered and I will appreciate it very much. She was in the hospital last Christmas, so you can understand how anxious I am to have her made happy this year. I live all alone with the two of them.

MRS. F.

Charlestown.

If the heart appeal of these letters interests you, you may become a Goodfellow by writing to this newspaper.

The process is simple. You may ask for the name of some worthy case in your vicinity. Or, if you are busy due to the Christmas rush, you may send your contribution which will be applied by the GOODFELLOW EDITOR where the money will do the most good.

Perhaps it will be more convenient for you to telephone to the GOODFELLOW EDITOR, at Liberty 4000, and ask for further details.

URGENT CASES

Among the more urgent cases are the following:

CASE 1—Boy, 11, wants some little thing for his brother, 10, and his sisters, eight and three. Father lost his job when he had to stay home and take care of the children while the mother underwent an operation. Girl three has pneumonia. They all need warm clothing.

CASE 2—Three little girls, ages nine, five and seven, would like some warm clothing. Their daddy is out of work and can't buy them any.

CASE 3—A little boy, seven, would like some Goodfellow to give him some shoes, and if possible a few toys. His daddy is in the hospital.

CASE 4—Mother of two youngsters, one three and the other one and one-half years, asks for some warm clothing, such as stockings and underwear, for them. Father is in the hospital and won't be home for Christmas. Both children are boys.

CASE 5—Mother of three boys, eight, six and four, writes asking for some clothing for them so they will be able to go to school. Father had his foot broken and is unable to go back to his old work, and finds it hard getting another job. Anything will be appreciated.

Othello Will Change Color in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—Othello is to be a sun-burned Caucasian in Chicago, not a black as Shakespeare had him. Charles Marshall of the civic opera, Louis Leon of the Civic theater, Othellos, and Cesare Formichi of the Opera and Fritz Leiber of the theater, have so decided in conference.

Fire Puts Shaw's Scheme to the Bad

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A fine scheme of George Bernard Shaw has gone askew. He signed five blank sheets for Sava Botzaris, Greek artist, telling him to draw sketches of him on them as Americans would pay more for them if autographed. The sketches have been burned in a hotel fire.

GIRL WHO FIRED AT PRIEST HELD DERANGED

Vatican City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Marguerite Gudum Ramstad, who attempted to shoot Mgr. Smit in St. Peter's Cathedral on Nov. 24, is now on her way back to her native Sweden.

Charges of attempt to kill and carrying concealed weapons were dropped "because she acted in such a state of mental infirmity as not to have the liberty of proper acts."

A lengthy finding of the Vatican's "tribunal of the first instance," just made public, says nothing appeared in the course of a long examination to cause any one to believe that Mgr. Smit, while apostolic visitor in Norway, "had overstepped the limits assigned him in the dutiful care of his congregation."

The inquiry revealed that Miss Ramstad let a year elapse after the departure of Monsignor Smit before coming to Rome, where the monsignor is now Dutch canon of St. Peter's. During that time there was no communication between them.

The finding says that the woman, who was described as a "religious paranoiac" by the director of the Vatican City sanitary service and the director of the Hospital of St. Mary of Piety, stayed three months in Rome without visiting Monsignor Smit, after which she approached the door of his residence and received a refusal of entrance.

DEATH RATE IN U. S. TAKES A BIG JUMP

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The mortality among life insurance policy holders in the United States indicates that 49,000 more persons will have died this year than in 1928, Dr. Henry W. Cook, vice-president and medical director of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., told the convention of life insurance presidents today. The natural increase in population accounts for only 15,000 of the number, he said.

Dr. Cook's statement was based upon mortality records of 52 leading life insurance companies for the first 10 months of 1929.

"It appears," said Dr. Cook, "that the death rate among policy holders increased from 822.0 per 100,000 in 1928 to 840.7 in 1929. This means that there will be 18.7 more deaths among each 100,000 insured persons this year than last year, an increase of 2.3 per cent.

"The application of this percentage of increase to the population death rate for 1928 indicates that the total deaths in the United States during 1929 will approximate 1,491,000, as compared with 1,445,000 during 1928, an increase of [illegible].

"If last year's death rate had been maintained, there would have been 15,000 more deaths because of the increase in population. The increased death rate of this year, therefore, will result in the death of 34,000 more persons during 1929 than would have occurred if the 1928 death rate had continued."

Paris, Dec. 13 (AP)—The big three of the French government are all bachelors: Gaston Doumergue, President of the republic; Andre Tardieu, premier and minister of the interior; Aristide Briand, foreign minister.

"What chance have I got to put through a tax on bachelors?" wailed Henri Cheron, married, minister of finance.

Englishman Lauds American Cooking

New York, Dec. 13—Matthew Anderson is an Englishman who is grateful for American cooking. In disproof of gloomy predictions on the other side, he says our cooking never gave a chronic dyspeptic like himself a single twinge of indigestion. As a representative of the city of Liverpool he has been touring making speeches to Chambers of Commerce.

Los Angeles, Dec. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Nanoh H. Wilson today held a decree of divorce from Carey A. Wilson, wealthy scenario writer, and a promise from him that he would pay $500 a month alimony and $250 a month for support of their two children as well as turn over to her their $100,000 home and $15,000 motor car. The divorce was obtained on grounds of desertion.

CHURCH DRAMA ASSOCIATION DROPS HAYS

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and Carl E. Milliken, general secretary of the same organization, have been dropped from the board of directors of the Church and Drama Association, the Rev. George Reid Andrews, executive secretary, announced today.

"It was deemed wise," he said, "not to have representatives of the motion picture industry on the board of directors. A committee appointed to look into the matter decided six months ago that it would be best not to re-elect Mr. Hays and Mr. Milliken to the board."

The Church and Drama Association was formed last September by a merger of three organizations, the central body having been launched in 1926 by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is president.

Although Mr. Andrews would not admit there were other reasons for the removal of Mr. Hays and Mr. Milliken than that given, the Herald-Tribune said it had learned from a member of the association that Hays had attempted to draw the Church and Drama Association into a film propaganda scheme by sending out publicity and propaganda material from his own office on the association's letterheads.

Du Pont Advocates Study of Life Span

New York, Dec. 13—The Association of Life Insurance Presidents was urged at its 23d annual convention at the Hotel Astor to develop the world's greatest research organization to study methods of prolonging the average span of human life. The proposal was made by Irenee du Pont, vice-chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and a director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Du Pont proposed that the life insurance companies finance such a fund with one-eighth of 1 per cent per annum of their trust funds.

Spend $246,000 on Beauty, All in Vain

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—It cost Mrs. Frederick Courtland Penfield $246,500 before she became convinced that Dorothy Knapp, who once won an Atlantic City beauty contest, could not sing, dance or act. Testimony has been given as to the amount Mrs. Penfield invested in Earl Carroll's show "Fioretta." Dropped from the cast, Miss Knapp is suing Mrs. Penfield, Carroll and others for $250,000.

CHELLIS AUSTIN NEW YORK BANK HEAD DIES

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Chellis A. Austin, recently elected president of the Equitable Trust Co., died this morning.

Mr. Austin, who was head of the Seaboard National Bank until it was taken over by the Equitable Trust a few months ago, was born in West Berkshire, Vt., in 1875. He was educated in the public schools of Canton, N. Y., and received degrees from St. Lawrence University in that town, and from Columbia University.

Shortly after leaving Columbia in 1898, he began work as a messenger in a broker's office and then entered the employ of the Erie Railroad as a clerk in the president's office. From the Erie he went to the Lehigh Valley Railroad as trainmaster of the Jersey City terminal division.

Mr. Austin entered the banking field in 1901 as a solicitor of new business for the Columbia Trust Company. He became president of the Mercantile Trust Company in May, 1917, and when that institution was merged with the Seaboard National Bank in 1922 he became president of the consolidated institution.

During the recent crash in stock prices he was a member of the New York banking group organized by J. P. Morgan & Co. to assure an orderly market for securities.

Edward W. Barstow of Rice st., Middleboro, Mass., and Thomas J. Dunn of Camden, N. J., were the victims. Barstow was driving the car. John J. Hid From Husband 20 Years to Cure Him

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 13 (AP)—For 20 years Mrs. Katherine McCormick denied herself a view of her husband, Stanley McCormick, in an effort to bring him back to mental health, she testified in Superior Court today.

McCormick, a son of the late Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago, harvester magnate, was adjudged incompetent in 1908 and later placed in custody of a personal board of care.

The witness told of her husband's breakdown, soon after she, herself, had been graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and related that, at the suggestion of her physicians, she had not attempted to see him again for 20 years, fearing that a visit would cause undue excitement.

FORD'S YACHT SKIPPER NEAR COLLAPSE

Providence, Dec. 13—Manifestly under an intense strain Capt. Oscar Anderson, skipper of Edsel Ford's new $200,000 yacht Sialia, broke down today at the hearing of charges of negligence on his part in permitting the craft to go ashore in Buzzard's bay December 5.

After admitting he had made an error in charting his course, Capt. Anderson's condition was such that the hearing was postponed three weeks.

The hearing was before U. S. Steamboat Inspectors Robert B. Clark and Richard L. Bailey. Anderson was represented by Attorneys Abbott Phillips and Harold J. Andrews.

Capt. Anderson, with drawn face and head sunk on his chest, sat slumped in a chair, apparently overcome by remorse.

Frequently he apparently failed to hear questions addressed to him, and Attorney Phillips requested Capt. Clark to be lenient with him.

"I'm trying to be lenient," replied Clark. "I'm simply asking questions I am obliged to ask in a hearing of this nature. If Capt. Anderson is not in condition I think it would be best to grant a continuance."

The question: "How did you get on the rocks?" asked by Capt. Clark, went unanswered by the defendant, as did others concerning navigation.

Attorney Phillips said the continuance would afford his client an opportunity to pull himself together, and also to discuss the case with counsel.

CALLES FACES ARREST IN U. S.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP)—Sheriff A. J. Condren of Webb county today held a warrant for the arrest of Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, charged here with conspiracy in the murder of Gen. Lucio Blanco and Col. Aurelio Martinez seven years ago.

Calles is expected to pass through Laredo en route to Mexico in the near future, following a trip to Europe.

State District Attorney John A. Valls, who charges that Calles was implicated in the deaths of the two Mexicans, announced that the former Mexican President would be arrested if he comes to Laredo, unless he carries a certificate from Secretary of State Stimson, attesting diplomatic immunity from arrest.

End of De Rivera Regime in Spain Seen

Madrid, Dec. 13—The dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera will soon be at an end, it was learned on good authority in state circles here, and Spain will again return to constitutional government.

The definite announcement of when the new constitutional government will assume force is looked for shortly, and in the meantime the approaching municipal elections will serve to test whether or not national elections later will restore the constitutional government and put an end to the troubles which last year disrupted Spain.

This dispatch is the first uncensored communication to leave Spain under Primo's new ruling of complete freedom for foreign correspondents, although rigid censorship still holds locally.

May Star Plates Over Six Figures

As soon as the number of registered motor vehicles in Massachusetts reaches the million mark, a star or letter may be used on all registration plates above the six-figure limit, according to Capt. George A. Parker, state registrar of motor vehicles.

He wishes to avoid the number plates of seven figures if possible. In Washington, D. C., a letter appears on each plate beside the numerals, which are limited to four figures.

Alleged Violator of Dry Law Taken

After an automobile chase along South Huntington ave., Roxbury, followed by a dash on foot through an alley, Federal Agents Spaulding and Donnellan finally caught a man who gave his name as John Toma, 23, of Endicott st., and placed him under arrest on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

The officers claim that they discovered 15 one-gallon cans of alleged alcohol in the automobile which they say Toma was driving.

William S. Vare Again Stricken

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 13—Dr. Elwood Kirby was summoned from Philadelphia to the home of William S. Vare, Philadelphia Republican chieftain.

COAST GUARDS SALVAGE 200 MORE CASES

Rye Beach, N. H., Dec. 13—Salvage of the off-shore liquor cargo destined for holiday trade was continued here by Coast Guardsmen despite the bitter cold.

Chief Boatswain C. A. Bryant, in command of the local station, together with members of the crew and additional Coast Guardsmen from the Wallis Sands and Salisbury Beach stations, worked five hours at low tide and brought up by grappling approximately 200 additional cases. To date about 300 cases have been secured.

The truck from the Salisbury Beach Coast Guard station conveyed five loads of the contraband, averaging 40 cases to a load, to the Rye Beach Coast Guard station, where it was stored for the night.

As the news that the off-shore cache was being salvaged by the Coast Guard became generally known, a large number of automobilists arrived to watch the work from advantageous points.

One week ago in the adjoining town of North Hampton, authorities of that town came across a truck with Massachusetts registration plates and containing 12 men, four of whom had on rubber boots. There was also a dory on the truck.

Inasmuch as the police could find no violations by the occupants of the truck, no charges were brought. However, the officers apparently frightened the party from making an attempt to load up the contraband, which it is believed was dumped overboard by a rum boat last month.

Frederick W. Mansfield, defeated in the recent mayoralty election, admits he is considering seeking the Democratic nomination for Unites States senator.

MANSFIELD OUT FOR SENATE

Frederick W. Mansfield confirmed a report in circulation that he may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

"Yes, I am considering it," said Mansfield, when asked about a possible senatorial candidacy, "but further than that I do not care to discuss the situation at the present time."

The only other man in the State who has been willing so far to admit that he is seriously contemplating a campaign for the Democratic nomination for Senator is Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg. Coolidge has made no formal announcement, but his closest friends say he has really made up his mind to go after the party nomination.

ANY LANGUAGE AT HUB "Y"

Declining to follow the example of Lowell Y. M. C. A. officials in prohibiting the use of foreign languages in association rooms, Boston "Y" heads announced that Y. M. C. A. members here can converse in any old tongue which suits them, be it Chinese, Choctaw, or hog Latin.

"We couldn't make any rule requiring English to be spoken exclusively on our premises," the secretary in charge of the Boston Y. M. C. A. headquarters said.

"We have between 20 and 30 nationalities represented among our members, and a large percentage of the men of foreign origin have insufficient English to express themselves freely.

"We would not think of trying to regulate men in their choice of the tongue in which they talk among themselves. English, of course, remains the language in which all association activities are conducted."

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

DOHENY BRIBE TRIAL SET FOR MARCH 10

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Th date for the trial of Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, on a charge of bribery was set for March 1 today by Justice Hits in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Doheny's attorney, Frank Hogan, had asked that the trial begin on March 17 and Government attorneys requested Jan. 13 as the date.

MEXICO SHRINE DRAWS 200,000

Mexico City, Dec. 13—Worshippers estimated as numbering nearly 200,000 thronged through the Villa Guadalupe to honor "Our Lady of Guadalupe," patron saint of the republic.

This was the first time since the trouble between the church and government in 1926 that priests have been permitted to officiate at the annual services.

The first mass started shortly after midnight and one celebration of the rite followed another for more than 12 hours. Scores of police were on duty at the church.

Several hundred other officers were on duty along the four-mile route from the National Cathedral in Mexico City to handle the emergency traffic. Many of the devout made the pilgrimage on their hands and knees.

Officer Nordgaard raised his shotgun and pulled the trigger. The hammer fell on an empty chamber. The robber escaped with $50.

TOSCA NEXT PUCCINI FEATURE

The second in the series of Puccini operas will be heard over the coast-to-coast red network on Saturday, December 21, from 7 to 8 p. m. "La Tosca" is the choice.

Stars heard innumerable times in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York will bring this favorite to the nation's homes.

Frances Alda as Floria Tosca, celebrated singer; Chamlee as her lover, Mario Cavaradossi, noted painter; Amato as Baron Scarpia, cruel chief of police, will sing the roles of this trio of characters around whom Victorien Sardou's story and Puccini's music have created the opera.

The radio arrangement of the score has been completed by Gennaro Papi, musical director; Robert A. Simon, of the Judson Radio Program Bureau and Deems Taylor, who will narrate the operalogue.

"We have retained all the beauties of the music," said Mr. Papi. "Mario's solo in the first act where he dwells on his love for Tosca; the quaint loveliness which picturizes the sacristan; the duel between Tosca and Mario with its love and coquetry, the chorus of the sacristan and the choir boys; the religious processional—we have them all.

"In the second act Scarpia's monologue, the music of the news of battle, Tosca's exquisite prayer, the music of Scarpia's brutality to her and of her murder of him—it is all there. In the last act we will broadcast it practically complete; Mario's farewell to Tosca; her message of deliverance; their duet of hope; then the crash of guns; her frantic efforts to awaken her dead lover and her despair as she throws herself from the battlements."

Tosca, said Mr. Papi, will create a new standard of radio enjoyment.

Frozen Golf Balls Pelt Ship's Crew

Portland, Me., Dec. 13—Hailstones as big as golf balls rattled on the deck and pelted the crew during the second of a series of storms encountered by the American-Scantic line steamship City of Fairbury in a 15-day battle with the elements from Gothenburg, Sweden, to this city, according to Captain F. J. O'Brien and his officers.

One officer received a handsome black eye when a frozen "golf ball" hit him. Captain O'Brien declared that his ship lived through the two worst winter hurricanes he ever has experienced on the Atlantic.

WORK URGED AS ANTIDOTE FOR PRISON RIOTS

Washington, Dec. 13—Constructive prison reform methods were advocated by Samuel Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, as a means of protecting the public.

In a radio address prepared before the outbreak at the Auburn prison in New York, in which nine were killed, Bates said public interest required that prisons attempt to improve those men incarcerated. This could be accomplished, he said, "not by coddling, not by favoritism, not by an early release, not by senseless cruelty," but by removing physical handicaps, teaching a trade to eliminate pressure to commit crime, education and by release on parole under supervision.

He attributed the increase in the number of federal prisoners to recently added offenses against the federal law, in which he included those under the narcotic, prohibition and automobile theft laws.

Bates said that the best solution of disciplinary problems was to keep the prisoners at work. It reduces the cost of maintaining the prison, he said, and makes the problem of rehabilitation easier.

CHARGE LAXITY TO EVERETT FIREMEN

Lack of co-operation at the fatal explosion in the Trimount Oil Co. several days ago was charged to Everett firemen by Commissioner James F. Reynolds, who was scheduled today to severely censure the entire department.

The officers of the department were scored by the commissioner for failing to make the men obey them. Commissioner Reynolds charges that at the fire he noticed privates in the department giving orders.

"This will stop, or action will be taken. I know the story. It is all politics, but it will have to come to a close in the fire department," Commissioner Reynolds stated.

His letter follows closely on the heels of the transfer of every captain in the department, including an acting deputy chief and the assistant chief. Commissioner Reynolds stated that the reason for his transferring of the captains was to increase the efficiency of the department and last night it was learned that the poor work at the Trimount Oil fire was also a contributory cause for the transferring the captains.

The scheduled suspension of two well known police officers and the transfer of two lieutenants and several patrolmen failed to materialize. Chief William E. Hill stated that he had received no notice to suspend any of his men and neither did he receive orders to transfer any of the department members. Mayor Roche, whose defeat at the polls is blamed for upheaval in the municipal government, is silent on the police department charges.

The appointment of a new city auditor, the swearing in of a new city treasurer, the resignation of a member of the board of public welfare were other items on the list of changes.

The new city auditor is Thomas J. Crowley of 61 Lyman st. Mayor Roche was to appoint Miss Elsa Dearbon, a bookkeeper in the auditor's office, but did not do so, at her request.

Attorney Ralph M. Albert, a former Malden Councilman, who resides at 20 Summer st., Everett, took the oath of office as city treasurer, and assumed the duties this morning. He is under a $60,000 bond, filed with the commissioner of corporations and taxation at the State House.

The member of the welfare board who tendered his resignation to Mayor Roche was Michael Mercurio. Mercurio asks that the resignation take effect at the expiration of the department's business on Jan. 6, 1930. Mayor Roche accepted the resignation.

Asa Spades Safe at S. P. C. A. Quarters

"Who lost the Asa Spades?" is a query which remained unanswered as officials of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals searched Brighton, Waltham, Brookline, Lexington, Concord and Lincoln for the owner of a stray dog, brown, mongrel, and female, whose collar bore her name and the words "Hilton Farm."

Telephone company officials and police were asked to aid in the search, but were not able to locate the supposed owner. The dog was locked up in Brighton.

Heiress' Father Not Forgiving Wedding

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 13—If the millionaire father-in-law of "Cowboy" George Gillespie has forgiven him for marrying his young daughter, the former Katherine Thorne of Chicago, he has failed to notify Gillespie.

There were rumors that Robert J. Thorne, former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., had come West and placed a fatherly arm about the broad shoulders of his son-in-law and made peace.

Gillespie says, however, that he was not aware of any such procedure.

Suit Dismissed

New York, Dec. 13. The suit of the United States Navigation Company, Inc., against the Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd., and 12 other lines, for an injunction restraining them from attempting to monopolize the carriage of general cargo by vessel, was dismissed by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

DENIES COTTON DEPRESSED BY COMBINE

Washington, Dec. 13—The law of supply and demand is the cause of the depressed cotton market, the Senate agriculture committee was told in opening its probe of cotton exchanges.

The testimony, which was given by Gardiner H. Miller, president of the New York Cotton Exchange, met vigorous opposition from two Southern Democrats on the committee, Senators Heflin of Alabama, and Smith of South Carolina.

They sought through an all-day session to determine what they said was the "real cause."

Both senators frequently asserted they believed a "sinister influence" was at work, but Miller reiterated repeatedly that he believed only economic laws entered into the situation and said he knew of no outside influences.

Heflin alleged that Anderson, Clayton & Company, Houston, Tex., cotton brokers, were exerting what he described as an "overshadowing influence" on the cotton markets. "This, he said, made people afraid to invest."

Frequent controversies with Miller developed as the two senators pressed the cotton exchange head for answers to their question, but Miller insisted that no "single individual, interest or aggregation can influence the market."

In recent months, Miller said spinners had not been buying because they had been unable to sell their goods, asserting that the "condition in the cotton market has been the most appalling I have ever seen."

Took Him 20 Years to Make This Cane

George E. Cornforth, an employe for many years of the New England Sanitarium, in Melrose, is the possessor of a handsome cane which required 20 years of patient application in securing the material, though the actual work of making it required only a nominal amount of time.

The cane is made entirely of postage stamps, which Cornforth obtained by ones and twos from any source which he could procure them, principally cancelled stamps on letters.

"I WAS ALWAYS BELCHING GAS," SAYS THIS LADY

"But My Stomach Is Now In Good Condition—All Thanks to Bon-Tone"

Mrs. Melanie Vachon of 97 Marcella Street, Roxbury, Mass., is another of the thousands who have placed their names on the list of Bon-Tone boosters. Mrs. Vachon states,

Mrs. Melanie Vachon

"For two years I suffered a great deal with my stomach. After eating I would always have a bloated and very much distressed feeling, and a sort of acidy taste in my mouth. I was always, it seemed, belching gas. I had an awfully tired feeling—after doing a little work around the house, I would have to sit down and rest awhile. I was forever taking laxatives—it seemed that I never had a bowel movement without taking pills; and my tongue was always coated. I guess I was in a general rundown condition.

"I started using Bon-Tone when my husband brought home two bottles of this remedy, which he had purchased at Epstein's in Scollay Square. And the results almost immediately justified his expectations. On those first two bottles I began to get good results; and my husband, who was not feeling well either, started using it. Between the two of us, we have now used seven bottles; and the results have been fine. My stomach is in good condition, and I am able to do my housework without sitting down every few minutes. I never have to bother with laxatives now, as my bowels move regularly; and my tongue is clear. I hope that anyone having any of the same troubles as I had will try a few bottles of Bon-Tone, as I am sure he will get good results."

Call on Mr. Ryan, the Bon-Tone man, who is meeting the public daily at Epstein Drug Co., Inc., Scollay Square, Boston. Have him tell you why this medicine has become the sensation of the drug trade and a household word all through New England. Bon-Tone is also for sale in Cambridge at Cole Drug Store, 636 Mass. Ave., Central Square, and in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, 436 Broadway, Perkins Square.

Middlesex Court Has Patrick Kelley Day

"A Patrick Kelley Day" was held in the Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge.

The Patrick Kelleys, all of Somerville, and all [illegible] on one automobile at the same time were involved.

One Patrick Kelley was the defendant, and was found not guilty of drunkenness but guilty of operating so as to endanger the lives of the public, and guilty of operating while under the influence of liquor.

He drove the car on November 11, when it sideswiped another car parked at the curb in Somerville, as a result of which a second Patrick Kelley, who was riding on the right running board, was killed.

The third Patrick Kelley was a witness for the government against Patrick Kelley, the defendant.

Patrick Kelley, the defendant, denied that he was under the influence of liquor. He admitted he had had two drinks, but that the last one was two hours before the accident. He said there were five men in the car and that that was the reason the Patrick Kelley, who was killed, was riding on the running board.

Patrick Kelley, the witness, testified he didn't notice any lights on the car parked against the curb.

DINNER GUESTS HIT BY POLICE

New York, Dec. 13—Magistrate Albert Vitale's "welcome home" dinner last Saturday night which was blighted by a holdup and the subsequent demotion of a detective who was one of the guests received further attention from the police department.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, in a statement announcing that the detective had been suspended, charged that seven men with police records were guests at the dinner. Magistrate Vitale emphatically denied the charges.

To Whalen's statement was appended a list of the seven men. The commissioner said one of them, a robbery suspect, was discharged by Magistrate Vitale.

The magistrate, in denying the charge, said that [illegible] court record will clearly show that the defendant was discharged at the behest of the arresting officer [illegible] the [illegible] district attorney who said he did not have sufficient evidence.

Lady 1837 Shunned H2O Expert Says

UNWASHED heads, which would shock the bobbed-haired miss of 1930 were quite the thing among Victorian belles of 1837, a study of 19th century beauty technique discloses. Although the young woman of pre-crinoline days spent hours learning how to hold a fan properly and how to make pretty speeches, she carefully avoided getting her head wet, says Nell Vinick, a radio speaker on the Columbia chain.

These facts are revealed in the pages of "The Toilette of Rank and Fashion," a fashion authority published in 1837 on which the beauty education of young girls of that time was based. Doctors warned against the use of water on the head in the belief that headaches, toothaches and earaches, to say nothing of colds and pneumonia, would be the inevitable results of such exposure.

Their recommendations were to "wash the hands often and the head never."

RUBIO ON RADIO PRAISES U. S.

New York, Dec. 13—President-elect Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, in his first public statement to the people of the United States, broadcast a good-will message a nation-wide radio network by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

"I have been for many years a sincere admirer of this great nation for the heights it has attained, which constitutes a pround accomplishment for all the inhabitants of this continent," he said in clear English.

"I believe it is indispensable for the prosperity of both countries to strengthen more and more the ties of friendship which unite us on a basis of mutual respect. I hope with all my heart that the prosperity of the United States continues its brilliant ascent because the prosperity of the United States contributes to the prosperity of America [illegible] the prosperity of America [illegible] sooner or later the [illegible] of humanity."

Wily Influenza Germ Trapped by Science

Chicago, Dec. 13—What is said to be the most important medical discovery made in recent years, the isolation of the germ that causes epidemic influenza, was announced by Prof. I. S. Falk of the University of Chicago in a lecture before the bacteriology class of the university.

Prof. Falk said his researches show that influenza is caused by a streptococcus, a species of bacteria of a particularly virulent nature.

The announcement came one year after isolation experiments began. More than 3800 different microbes were considered before the "plemorphic streptococcus" was convicted of spreading the "flu".

Dr. Falk is now able to produce the germ by swabbing the throat of anyone suffering with influenza. It has a mild and virulent form.

By spraying the throat of monkeys with the virulent culture he was able to develop acute influenza, exactly resembling the human disease. The influenza germ containing billions of bacteria turn the blood culture, in which they are kept alive, slightly greenish and have a rough, porus surface.

Seek Relatives of Dead Woman

Lawrence, Dec. 13—Police here have communicated with the police of Boston and Amesbury in an effort to locate relatives of Miss Margaret Gibbon, 75, who was found dead in the room of her lodging house on Lowell st.

Death was given as due to natural causes by Medical Examiner Reed. A small amount of cash was found in the room as well as bank books showing balances of $2000.

RELIEF CORPS CONDUCTS FAIR

Horticultural Hall is the scene of a colorful three-day fair being conducted by the 12,000 members of the Women's Relief Corps and allied organizations of Massachusetts.

In the dining hall holiday decorations were hung for the Christmas dinner which the women gave in honor of Edwin Foster, national commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. and Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Lena Snow, department president of the Women's Relief Corps, Department Commander J. E. Webb and Mrs. Webb and other department heads of the allied organizations in the State.

An entertainment followed the dinner.

Martha Lee Cooking School to Award 500 Diplomas

RUSHSTARTEDTO ENROLL NEW CLASSES

On Tuesday evening, January 14, at 6:30, and Wednesday afternoon, January 15, at 2 p. m., the mid winter classes of the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery will open.

A week or two ago these enrolments which are limited to [illegible] women at each class, were complete, but there have been a few [illegible] changes in plans, as is usual when enrolments are taken several months in advance, and as a result we have a very few vacancies in each class to offer early applicants who are members of the Martha Lee Woman's Club.

([illegible] a member? Don't you want Martha Lee to send you a free membership card and registered number? She'll be very glad to do this on request and feels sure that you will enjoy the privileges of this unique club of no dues but many advantages.)

The lessons given in the mid winter classes will be entirely different from those demonstrated in the fall school and will cover all steps in modern practical cookery, in addition to some of the fancier dishes that intrigue the ambitious homemaker.

Martha Lee shows you how to take the guess work out of cookery through reliable recipes, accurate measurements and the careful following of explicit mixing directions. The lesson sheets furnished free at each class form in themselves an invaluable cook book.

Please be advised that special admission tickets are necessary to secure seats in these classes. In applying for the class ticket, give your membership number in the Martha Lee Women's Club. (It appears on your club card.) And bring your ticket to each session. Visitors are admitted after the opening hours of 6:30 p. m. on Tuesdays, and 2 p. m. on Wednesdays, but we cannot always guarantee seats.

Each class will cover a two months' period, terminating on March 4 and 5, with graduating exercises on March 11 and 12.

The spring classes will open on April 1, and will continue to May 20 and 21, with graduation on May 27 and 28. So, if by any chance your application for membership in the January classes is too late for enrollment, kindly advise if you wish to be placed on the list for the spring classes.

Martha Offers Wax Paper Cabinet and Roll Free

Of course you have noticed in the Boston Evening American the announcement that Martha Lee is giving a beautiful white or colored enamel wax paper cabinet and a roll of Rapp-Wrap Wax Paper to her friends and readers.

This is a present from Martha Lee free and clear, without charge of any kind, to the readers of this paper. All that it is necessary for you to do to secure this gift is to have the series of six coupons numbered 1 to 6. The first of which appeared in this paper, Tuesday, December 10, the last appearing in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, December 15.

For instance, if you will look back at your papers and clip the Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and today's coupon, and add to it tomorrow's and Sunday's, on Monday you may take these to the dealer listed on the full page announcement which appeared in this paper last Tuesday. He will present you, with Martha Lee's compliments, a Rapp-Wrapp Wax Paper cabinet (50c value) and a full roll of Rapp-Wrap Waxed Paper complete with the tacks for installing.

MANY USES

You've probably seen Martha Lee's Rapp-Wrap Wax Cabinet on the wall of the Martha Lee Kitchen. She has found this so invaluable in her cooking demonstrations and lectures that she is happy to be able to make this arrangement to place a similar cabinet and supply of the paper in the home of each of her friends.

It's surprising how many uses you will find for this extra-heavy double waxed paper. As you know Martha Lee always sifts her combined flour, baking powder and seasonings onto a sheet of this paper in order to add the mixture conveniently and alternately with the liquid ingredients to her cake recipes. You notice too that it is used to cover open containers of food, being held in place with a convenient rubber band, and keeping the foods in perfect condition.

Steaks, chops and other meats that are to be kept in the electric refrigerator, as well as perishable vegetables, such as lettuce, celery, and parsley are wrapped in this splendid paper, which keeps them in perfect condition for an almost indefinite period.

Every cake pan used in the Martha Lee Kitchen is lined with this paper and you've seen how easily Martha Lee accomplishes this by laying the pan on the paper, tracing around it with a pencil and cutting the paper with the scissors to the exact size of the pan. The pan and paper are both thoroughly greased and there's never yet been a sticking cake seen at the Martha Lee School.

INDISPENSABLE

Rapp-Wrap Wax Paper is indispensable, of course, in school and business lunch boxes, and with a roll always on your wall, you can prepare sandwiches, cakes, etc. for evening refreshments early in the morning, cover them completely with the paper and be sure that they will be beautifully fresh for serving at any hour of the evening.

Numerous other uses will occur to you for this superior quality paper once you have installed your free cabinet on your walls, and Martha Lee urges you to act promptly if you wish to take advantage of this unusual gift.

Courtroom Shelf Outfitted as Bar

Fall River, Dec. 13—An assortment of bottled liquors and a number of "empties" decorated the shelf of the witness stand in superior court during the trial of Max E. Chapman, New Bedford, on the charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

Mrs. Sophie Chapman, mother of Max, charged with maintaining a disorderly house, was to be tried jointly with her son on the same evidence but a separate case was made of this matter at the request of the defendant's counsel, Atty. John Backus of Boston.

Mt. Holyoke Debate

South Hadley, Dec. 13—Mt. Holyoke opens its debating season tonight in a debate with Williams College on the subject, "Resolved, That the Time Has Come for a New Alignment of Political Parties in the United States." Mt. Holyoke will support the negative.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

P.O. Cornerstone Soon to See Light of Day

The cornerstone of the old Federal Building, laid October 16, 1871, by President Ulysses S. Grant in the presence of his cabinet and prominent Federal and State officials, will be reached and opened early in the new year, it was predicted today by the building's wreckers.

No ceremony has been planned to attend the opening of the copper box the stone contains. It is probable that only the workmen and a Boston representative of the Treasury Department will be present.

According to the records the box contains records of the Postoffice Department, acts of Congress pertaining thereto, a collection of coins of the Republic, and a collection of U. S. postage stamps.

A record of the ceremonies tells of the arrival here of President Grant, accompanied by his staff and a number of ranking officers of the army and navy; of the parade in which thousands of Civil War veterans participated; of the vast throng which crowded Boston Common striving for a view of the Chief Executive and his staff, and of the laying of the stone.

The record makes the following brief statement as to the latter ceremony:

"Hon. N. B. Shurtleff then delivered an historical address, closing by delivering the box and its contents to be placed in the cornerstone. Then followed the Masonic ceremonies of laying the stone. The grand master responded to the request of the committee.

"Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Cudworth, acting grand chaplain. Ceremony of depositing the box in the cornerstone by John Mc Clellan, grand treasurer. The grand master spread the cement beneath the stone, and requested the President of the United States to assist with the trowel."

They're a Good Fit Between Soup and Nuts

New Bedford Light Banned in Marion

The State Public Utilities Commission denied the New Bedford Gas and Edison Light Company authority to do business in Marion.

Funeral Honors for Noted Violinist

Havana, Dec. 13—The remains of Brindis de Sala, Cuban violinist, who died in want after a brilliant career, will be brought here soon and buried with full honors in the mausoleum of the revolutionary immigrants of the Cuban wars of independence.

The Association of Revolutionary Immigrants offered the burial place to the state department.

Toad Believed in Block Five Years

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 13—A common garden toad, described as being "a bit dull and drowsy," was removed from a tile block here after allegedly being imprisoned for five years.

THREE RARE DISHES IN TENTH LESSON

Planked Steak, Chop Suey and Crown Roast of New England Dressed Fresh Pork vied for honors in the Martha Lee Cooking School last week.

As usual, when a chop suey lesson is in progress, the tantalizing odors of the fresh pork, celery, onions, bean sprouts and zestful sauces that go to make up Chop Suey a la Martha Lee, drove many in the building at unseasonable meal hours in search of something to satisfy sharpened appetites.

There's no denying that there's nothing under the sun that smells quite so intriguing as chop suey in the process of manufacture. Unless perhaps it is the odor of a crisp, tender deliciously browned Crown Roast of New England Fresh Dressed Pork. Or maybe it was the steak!

The dressing prepared to serve with the Crown Roast was interesting in its unusual combination of spices and so was the preparation of the vegetables to serve with the planked steak. Glazed carrots and turnips in Hollandaise sauce sprinkled with finely minced parsley seem far removed from the ordinary plain-Jane vegetables. And then there were Duchess potatoes, canned peas, prepared in a way that made it impossible to tell them from fresh and peppers with flavorful stuffing.

Not the least interesting feature of the lesson was the instruction of how to properly broil a steak, so that not one drop of juice shall be lost.

All these suggestions and others are included in Lesson Sheet No. 10, which we will gladly send on request to members of the Martha Lee Women's Club, who will write Martha Lee, in care of this paper, giving their registered club number.

Snow Breaks Up Cold Weather

Lowell, Dec. 13—Snow started to fall early this morning bringing to an end the coldest spell of the season, which brought temperature of zero in the city and of several degrees below zero in Chelmsford, Westford, Tewksbury and other towns in this vicinity.

It started to warm up slightly yesterday afternoon and by last night the thermometer reading was 27 degrees shortly before midnight, about 20 degrees higher than 24 hours previously. Snow started to fall shortly before 1 o'clock and continued until 7 o'clock this morning, leaving a deposit of nearly three inches of heavy wet snow on the streets.

Erect Toboggan Chute at Lowell

Lowell, Dec. 13—Park officials are planning, with the co-operation of the weather man, to make this Christmas vacation a real holiday for those who receive gifts of either skates, sled or toboggans. At Fort Hill Park a toboggan chute has been erected and is now ready for use, while skating rinks at three playgrounds have been flooded and a fourth is being prepared for flooding. The school holidays start one week from today and park authorities hope to have the municipal sports arenas in perfect shape so that no children will be tempted to try out their skates on ponds and lakes in this vicinity.

Trees Butchered by Warden, He Says

"Tree butchery" is wholesale along the roadsides of Massachusetts because town-elected tree wardens take their pay from electric light and power companies to chop out lanes for wire lines, said Howard A. Reynolds, secretary of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, at the annual meeting of that body at the Twentieth Century Club.

"In many places," Reynolds declared, "the old trees are being cut down faster than the new ones are being planted."

$75,000 Fire Loss at West Haven, Ct.

West Haven, Conn., Dec. 13—Fire caused by an oil burner explosion resulted in damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

A one-story block containing seven stores, four of which were destroyed. The fire for a time threatened the postoffice adjoining the block.

N. H. Officials Probe County Farm 'Wreck'

Claremont, N. H., Dec. 13—Charges that the Sullivan county farm in Unity is "nearly a wreck," and demands that immediate action be taken to remedy the situation, brought members of the county legislative delegation into conference.

They will decide what steps to take to meet the situation arising from the blanket condemnation of the county institution by the state board of public welfare.

Would End Cruel Pre-Marriage Rites

London, Dec. 13—Native African marriage and pre-marriage practices were brought to the attention of the House of Commons by the Duchess of Atholl, Unionist member from Kinross and Western.

The duchess declared that certain African tribes inflicted cruel marriage or pre-marriage rites on young girls, and asked reforms.

THIS GIVES CLASS TO TURKEY

Monsieur Roger Cretaux, chef of the Hotel Roosevelt in New York city, has given up his marvelous recipes for turkey stuffing that will give a delicious touch to your Christmas dinner.

When the turkey is roasting it should be frequently basted with drippings, seasoned with 1 tbsp. of the original Worcestershire Sauce. (I need only whisper that the brand initials are L. & P.) Your soups and salad dressings too will have a finer flavor if seasoned with a little of this zestful sauce.

Here's the recipe for the Chestnut Turkey Stuffing.

Peel 1 lb. of chestnuts. Parboil and remove the second light skin. Cook thoroughly in water with salt and a little sugar. Let the water evaporate. When cold mix with 1½ lbs. of sausage meat, 1 chopped onion, cooked in butter, 1 handful of bread crumbs, 1 tbsp. of the original Worcestershire Sauce. Mix thoroughly, and allow one-half more than usual for the cooking of the turkey.

Quincy Firemen Decorate City Hall

Quincy firemen, who have been quietly chuckling at the nature of "police work" given Quincy patrolmen, such as running down library books and measuring snowfall, possibly laughed out of the other side of their mouths, when they were given a task that could not be classified exactly as fire fighting.

The firemen of Ladder 1, Central station, were assigned the task of putting up the Christmas decorations on the City Hall. The [illegible] firemen under the direction of Lieut. Anthony Kane, used a 35 foot ladder in stringing the multi colored lights.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

BIG GRADUATION TO TAKE PLACE NEXT WEEK

Over 500 New England homemakers, brides and business girls will receive their diplomas during the graduation exercises to be held in the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery, on Tuesday evening, December 17, and Wednesday afternoon, December 18.

[illegible] faithful attendance at a complete course of the Martha Lee demonstration lectures which cover [illegible] step [illegible] cookery from soup to nuts, not forgetting [illegible] art of [illegible] and biscuit making.

No [illegible] man will dare [illegible] the tenderness of biscuits made in a kitchen whose wall boasts one of these diplomas! And there'll be no more murmured allusion to the pies that mother used to make." In fact, the most carping culinary critic who is fortunate enough to be the "better three-fifths" of a graduate of the Martha Lee Cooking School is very apt to be found chanting paeans of praise with a chorus of "You know my wife's a swell cook."

And it's deserved praise too, for even homemakers of many years experience tell Martha Lee that they have learned many new, delicious and "different" dishes and cooking methods through attending her classes.

BIG PROGRAM PLANNED

Tuesday evening, December 17, at 6:30 p. m. the Brides and Business Girl C[illegible] will hold their graduation celebration and on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. [illegible] school will observe [illegible].

For both classes an [illegible] program of entertainment has been arranged. Through the courtesy of the H. P. Hood Co. and Lever Bros. two entertaining moving pictures will be shown and to the H. P. Hood Co. also we will be indebted for the Hood's ice cream which will be served accompanied by Loose Wiles Sunshine Biscuits.

In fact we will owe our best bow to many Boston merchants who are contributing to make these graduation exercises a real success.

Frank Archer, Sr., president of the Moxie Co. of America, is contributing 10 cases of Moxie (five to be awarded each day) as gifts to fortunate members of the graduating classes. He is also sending Moxie Lollypops and other souvenirs. Edward Oakes, New England distributor of La Choy Chinese Food Products is contributing two cases of complete assortment of the La Choy Sprouts, Chow Mein Noodles, Soy Sauce, and Brown Sauce.

There will be generous gifts of Pabst-ett, the "[illegible] than cheese," and other Pabst products from the Pabst Corporation in Milwaukee. (Remember Miss Snapper?) And the Northwestern Consolidated Milling Co., through the courtesy of the manager of the Eastern office, William B. Hanna, has sent a beautifully illustrated Ceresota Flour recipe book for every graduate.

SEATS RESERVED

J. F. Connolly of the Connolly Co. is contributing six Connolly ovens, complete with heat indicator and biscuit and pudding pans, for use on either gas, electric or oil stove. [illegible] samples of Cocoamalt from the R. B. Davis Co. [illegible] a thought [illegible] present time would be had by [illegible]

IMPORTANT NOTICE—Graduates are requested to bring their membership tickets as seats will be reserved for them until 6:30 on Tuesday and 2 p. m. on Wednesday. After these hours non-ticket holding visitors will be welcome to any vacant seat but we earnestly request non-ticket holders not to arrive prior to these hours as we do not wish to seem inhospitable in asking them to remain in the corridors until the opening hours.

If for any reason a member cannot be present at these exercises her diploma will be mailed to her.

The list of speakers included Lieut.-Gov. Youngman, State Senator [illegible], Augustus [illegible], Selectmen Henry [illegible] Pitts and John P. Clancy of Winthrop, Capt. Solon Deplores Tax Ignorance

Speaking on "Rational Taxation" before the [illegible] Men's Club of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Representative George H. Duncan of the New Hampshire Legislature declared [illegible] how little is known about taxation matters in general was [illegible] depicted at the recent annual convention of assessors of Massachusetts.

No one, he said, stood up when Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long asked for a showing of those assessors who believed that they had faithfully fulfilled their oath of office.

"Conscience Fund" Is Enriched by $14 at Lowell

Lowell, Dec. 13—The city's "conscience fund" has been enriched to the extent of $14 by the contribution of an unknown person, who signs himself merely as "A Citizen." According to the anonymous letter received by Mayor Thomas H. Braden with the $14 in crisp new bills enclosed, the sender received this amount of money illegally from the city because of "ignorance of a ruling by the civil service commission." Inasmuch as there was no information as to the department which paid the money, the mayor turned it over to the treasurer for the general treasury account.

Governor Aids Girl in Fight for Life

New York, Dec. 13—Fate, in the form of gubernatorial aid, intervened today in the eventful life of Leola O'Neill, 17-year-old North Carolina runaway negress, charged with first degree murder.

A negro envoy of Governor O. Max Gardner, Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, acting on orders from the governor, arrived here today to advise the girl in the legal tilt for her life.

Leola pleaded guilty of manslaughter in the second degree, in connection with the death of a 37-year-old Portuguese sailor, Manuelo Montera. She will be sentenced next Thursday, when it is hoped by officials here and in North Carolina she will be given a reformatory term.

Her defense is that the dashing sailor invited her to his barge and told her she would be "thrown overboard" if she refused his advances. All means of escape cut off, she said, she picked up a hatchet and beat the man's brains out.

Mrs. Adams in Hub

Washington, Dec. 13—Mrs. Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, left for Boston for a short stay. She will be sponsor of the V-5, a cruiser type submarine, in Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday.

Harvard's President 73 Years Old Today

No unusual observance occurred to mark the 73d birthday anniversary of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, who now is in the 20th year of his presidency.

The Harvard head was in his office in University Hall as usual.

JOY REIGNS AS BRITISH QUIT RHINELAND

Wiesbaden, Ger., Dec. 13—Scenes reminiscent of the first Armistice Day celebration were enacted here after the Union Jack had been hauled down from British headquarters and the last soldiers of King George had evacuated the Rhineland.

Residents of the city held their joy within bounds until after the troops were on their way. Then they cut loose.

Strangers meeting on the street clasped hands in congratulation and the cafes were jammed with celebrants who continuously toasted each other and the fatherland.

The union jack came down from its staff over the Hotel Hohenzollern. At the same hour another small British attachment was leaving Bingen on the Rhine.

Here in Wiesbaden the company of British Fusileers mounted guard at the approach of the color-bearers and the detachment then passed in review before Gen. Thwaites, British commander, for the last time on German soil.

There was a long roll from the drums and the military band struck up "God Save the King" as the British flag fluttered down the staff. Then the troops wheeled into column and marched to the station where they entrained.

Besides Gen. Thwaites and his staff, the ceremony was watched by Gen. Guillaumat, commander of the French troops in the Rhineland, and his staff. A detachment of French cavalry was drawn up before the railway station.

Elks Christmas Cheer Party Held

Lawrence, Dec. 13—More than 500 men last night attended the annual Christmas Cheer party of Lawrence lodge of Elks, the proceeds of which will be used to spread Yuletide cheer among the needy families of the city.

Milverton, Ont., Dec. 13—Louis Ernst, 25, son of John Ernst of Mt. Forest, Ont., and Frank Sean of Mt. Dennis, Ont., Aircraft limited pilot, were killed when their airplane crashed on the farm of George Roe, a mile north of this town.

Driver in Fatality Given Jail Term

Fall River, Dec. 13—John S. Collins of New Bedford was fined $200 and sentenced to one month in the House of Correction in Superior Court here.

Collins was charged with operating an automobile in a manner as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. Collins was in court as the result of an accident in Dartmouth in which Nicholas F. White, a New Bedford high school student, was killed.

Denies Plan to Change Charter

ICY BEAUTY IS NOW KITCHEN QUEEN

I've been standing in front of our brand new Model D-8 Kelvinator, wondering how I could give you a word picture that would properly describe its many points of beauty and efficiency.

As you first look at the [illegible] porcelain [illegible] trimmed exterior your first thought is, "What a beauty! Wouldn't I love to have this in my kitchen."

Then you open the right hand door and you see the six deep, generous wide shelves that permit the storage of almost a limitless amount of food and then you notice an electric light, with a push button, which [illegible] every corner of the [illegible].

Opening the [illegible] hand door with its [illegible] we find three [illegible] keep freezing tray [illegible] or frozen desserts and a large [illegible] defrosting [illegible].

One of the ice trays is fitted with a rubber mold which permits single cubes to be removed without taking out the entire tray of cubes. This tray is really the governor to the rest of the Kelvinator, for it is surrounded with the Ice-o-thermic Tubes, which permit extra quick freezing from this tray, and maintain a temperature of 40 to 50 degrees throughout the food chambers. This is a type of automatic performance that has never before been accomplished.

The food compartment door is extra wide, making it possible to put in an entire tray of food if desired, and the shelves have wire parallel bars which give the most satisfactory support to small food containers.

We shed a few salt tears when our good old Kelvinator model that has worked so faithfully for us for four years was trundled away, for it was giving 100 per cent service and had every day that it lived with us, but H. Troutwine, of the Kelvinator office, was anxious to have the very latest model on display in the Martha Lee School and I'm glad that this beauty has arrived in time for you to bring Friend Husband in to see it and egg him on to order one for you for Christmas.

The efficient and progressive housewife needs just as efficient and up-to-date tools as a master mechanic and we are bound to admit that the men folks are the first to realize the actual importance of an electric refrigerator in the home.

First, of course, because it protects the all-important food supply for the entire family, since bacteria cannot multiply in this temperature of between 40 and 50 degrees F. I have consumed glasses of milk that have been kept over three weeks in an electric refrigerator and in my smaller Kelvinator model at home have often left food for a period of 10 days to two weeks while away on vacation trips and have returned to find it in perfect condition.

Celery, lettuce, parsley and other perishable vegetables, wrapped in wax paper, keep all their original freshness for days at a time, and as for meats, their flavor improves the longer they are stored in this wonder machine. As for ginger ale, Moxie and other favorite beverages, they are chilled to perfection and seem to acquire even more delicious sparkle from storage in this friendly electric guardian.

Do drop in and let us tell you more about this newest member of the Martha Lee kitchen furnishing family or perhaps you'd like me to send you a descriptive booklet?

BRITISH LABOR PARTY FACES COAL CRISIS

London, Dec. 13. The Labor government which has managed to survive without a majority in Parliament since last May through co-operation of the Liberal party, is faced with possible defeat on the great coal issue.

David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberals, is scheduled to move for disapproval of the government's coal bill at its second reading in the House of Commons next Tuesday. The Liberals in Parliament have voted in favor of that step.

Under the leadership of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald the Labor government faces a crisis, in which case dissolution of Parliament and the calling of new elections may be expected.

Conservatives will vote against the coal bill if they feel it treats the mine owners unfairly. Even the Labor party itself has been divided on the [illegible] some of the left wingers feeling the measure for placing the industry on its feet does not go far enough.

HOUSE FAVORS DEBT PACT

Washington, Dec. 13.—Settlement of France's war time indebtedness to the United States was brought nearer consummation by the House, which voted 239 to 100 to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

The bill now goes to the Senate where the finance committee already has voted a favorable report on the companion measure introduced by Chairman Smoot.

The roll call vote showed numerous defections from the administration view presented Hoover in his annual message. Most of the opposition, however, was from the Democratic side.

Westinghouse Quits Radio-Talkie Field

New York, Dec. 13. The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has ceased production of radio receiving sets, talking movie equipment and other supplies used in the radio amusement field, according to an announcement by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of the company.

Westinghouse formerly manufactured and sold several millions of dollars in such equipment annually to the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiaries, which will now be manufactured by the latter organization in its plants at Camden, N. J.

Married Teacher Protests Ouster

Westport, Dec. 13 — Asserting that she was ousted from her position as a teacher in the public schools here without proper notice Mrs. Marion S. S. Reed has entered formal protest with Westport school authorities.

She requested a full time job on the town's teaching staff despite the ruling of the school committee that married women can only serve as substitute teachers and not as full-time teachers.

Lone Policeman Guards Art Works

London, Eng., Dec. 13—A lone policeman, armed only with a regulation nightstick, mounted guard over $15,000,000 worth of Italian paintings and sculpture, sheltered in automobile trucks in the courtyard of Burlington House.

The rest of the cargo of the steamer Leonardo da Vinci probably will be brought to Burlington House for the exhibition for which the paintings and sculpture were brought from Italy. The Leonardo da Vinci docked at Gravesend last night after a stormy passage. Its cargo was valued at $70,000,000.

Canoeists Near End of Long Trip

Hantsport, N. S., Dec. 13—Paul Paquin and Dick Lesage, two youthful canoeists, who paddled their way across Canada, are resting here after crossing the rough waters of the Bay of Fundy from St. John, N. B. The canoeists left the Pacific coast some months ago and journeyed over the Canadian lakes and streams to St. John. Their arrival here puts them on the last leg of their long journey.

GIVES FRANCE NAVAL PARLEY ASSURANCE

London, Dec 13—France was assured by Foreign Secretary Henderson, through the French ambassador here, that the understanding reached by Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover on naval disarmament did not mean that France would be faced with a "fait accompli" at the Five-Power Conference in January.

Henderson made this statement in a speech at a dinner given by the United Association of Great Britain and France.

"The understanding which the premier was happily able to make with the President of the United States does not mean that we will go to the conference with any rigid or cut and dried proposal," Henderson said.

WILL WORK TOGETHER

"On the contrary, we shall endeavor throughout by negotiation and operation to bring about the reduction and limitation of armaments which is in the common interest of us all.

"It is my earnest hope and belief that the other delegation will do the same and that they will eschew rigid principles and formulas and will come to the conference animated by the desire to arrive by the process of mutual conciliation at the greatest common measure of naval disarmament we can achieve.

"Neither in this nor in any other part of the world disarmament problem are we interested in theories. We are interested only in results. Other delegations will find that we are not making difficulties; on the contrary they will find that we will work with them in all sincerity to reach the best agreement."

Earlier in his speech Henderson made a great point of what he said had often been called the "traditional enmity" of England and France. He described how misunderstandings had been gradually swept away and declared that the two countries were now friends "who have proved that they can work together."

REASON FOR CONFERENCE

"We have to hold this conference for a simple reason there are five nations in the world whose navies are more powerful than the rest. Without their agreement about naval disarmament nothing can be done.

"But in the discussions of the preparatory commission at Geneva it was found that the delegates of these five nations could not agree. They differed not about the purpose, but about the methods by which naval disarmament was to be brought about.

"The preparatory commission, therefore, asked them to meet and discuss their differences among themselves, and that is why the conference is being held."

Japan Satisfied With Capital Ship Ratio

Seattle Wash., Dec 13. The time will come when humanity will see the abolition of all implements of warfare, Reijiro Wakatsuki, former premier of Japan and leader of the Japanese delegation to the London armament conference said here.

"Of course, it is not at present in the realm of reality but the conferences such as we have had at Geneva and Washington and now in London, are doing much to teach people the benefits of disarmament," the statesman declared.

"Japan is satisfied with much less Naval strength than other Powers. The five-five-three ratio of capital ships adopted at the Washington conference was satisfactory as far as Japan is concerned. However, my country desires to possess 70 per cent tonnage of auxiliary ships, including submarines as compared with the Powers having the greatest strength. We can not agree to abolishment of the submarine, as suggested by England and the United States."

The former Premier scoffed at the idea of war between the United States and Japan or that his country was desirous of obtaining the Philippine Islands.

MIGHTY SEAS POUND LINER

New York, Dec. 13—The Cunard liner Berengaria docked here from Europe two days behind her schedule after encountering heavy storms throughout her voyage across the Atlantic.

Sir Arthur Rostron, the ship's commander, said the Berengaria encountered a gale Saturday that had a velocity estimated at 100 miles an hour and waves ran from 30 to 40 feet high.

Several windows on the forward promenade deck were broken by the heavy waves and the water dashed in the Berengaria's forward deckhouse, injuring the galley cook, Tom Pierce.

Women Hear of Crime Toll

U. S. Heads World in Violence, States Judge Cochran

10,000 Murders in 1924; Criminal Law Obsolete

An enthusiastic and profoundly interested audience heard Judge Herbert G. Cochran of Norfolk, Virginia, evaluate the crime situation in this country in his talk before members and guests of the Women's City Club.

Judge Cochran said:

In crimes of violence, this nation leads the civilized world.

In 1924, 10,000 murders were committed in the United States.

The cost of crime to the nation is, at a conservative estimate, $6,000,000,000.

In criminal law, America still follows antiquated measures and methods and discarded ideas.

Scientific methods of prevention of criminal activity are nowhere effectively applied in this country.

Introduced by Judge Frederick P. Cabot of our own juvenile court and surrounded by prominent Bostonians on either side, including Judge Frank Leveroni, Mrs. Frederick Bagley, Miss Frances Curtis, president of the City Club, Mrs. Wenona Osborne Pinkham, Mrs. Everett O. Fiske and Mrs. Herbert H. Longfellow, Judge Cochran gave a detailed and scholarly paper on the situation in the South prefaced by general observations of the conditions in the country today.

Throughout the State interest is high in the establishment of a domestic relations court which would handle the family situation completely. Clubwomen are studying the recommendation of the children's commission and throughout the Commonwealth it is generally conceded that the prevention of crime must begin with the juvenile and that such prevention depends upon the scientific application of all the factors upon which the progress of human activity depends.

Judge Cochran extolled the possibilities of probation as a deterrent to the progress of hard and calloused criminality. He labelled it as "perhaps the most important and effective method of the court," a method, which he said, controlled the ideas and the conduct of the person guilty of unlawful conduct.

ALL IMITATORS

By probationary influence an offender would be introduced into the better influences of community life and divorced, literally from the evil ties which inevitably lead an individual into channels unhealthful legally and morally.

"Delinquency and crime are the product of the anti-social forces of the community and the volume and the amount of crime indicate with some degree of accuracy, at least, the extent to which the better social forces in our community and national life have not been the controlling factors, have not been able to meet and overcome the anti-social forces," he stated. "We are all imitators of what we see and too many are furnished with poor patterns to follow.

"In a society or community in which religious influences are weak, churches socially inactive, adequate education lacking, poor social standards prevalent, home life disintegrated and home ties weak, poverty and unemployment rife, housing poor, adequate recreation facilities lacking and where disreputable dance halls, houses of ill repute, bootlegging joints, transient lodging houses, tough pool rooms, with the type of persons who infect and frequent such places—in such a community does delinquency and crime flourish.

"Juvenile and domestic relations courts are a response to the demand for a more intelligent, a more scientific and a more effective dealing with the problem of crime. Their purpose is to prevent the young from becoming confirmed criminals and to protect children from neglect and other causes that produce crime.

OUR LAW ANTIQUATED

"We are in our criminal law, still following after discarded ideas and applying methods of past centuries. It cannot be contended that these methods are producing satisfactory results. All the world knows they are not.

"We face a serious situation in regard to crime in this nation today. It is a matter of prime concern and importance to the nation on account of its enormous economic cost and its tremendous social waste. Its social wastage in suffering, ruined lives, disgraced families and social disruption and turmoil of many kinds, is incalculable. Its economic drain is enormous. Conservatively estimated, crime costs the nation $6,000,000,000 annually. That is far more than the total annual revenue of the federal government.

"The total direct cost of public education is $1,000,000,000, only one sixth of the cost of crime. The intelligent application of twice this amount for public education, particularly in the field of greater diversification of method to the need of the individual pupil and the large extension of vocational training in the schools might possibly reduce the cost of crime."

Incidentally the General Federation of Women's Clubs, through its education department, has been stressing this particular point, adapting the educational needs of the child to the classroom.

"Far more is expended than should be in maintaining a veritable army, some 300,000 annually, in almost complete idleness at public expense in our jails," Judge Cochran continued.

Citing statistics, he said:

"In 1924 in this country, 10,000 murders were committed; in England, Scotland, in the same year, 151; and in France, 545. In Philadelphia in 1924 there were 50 more homicides than in all the Dominion of Canada. Burglars cost this nation an annual loss of $225,000,000. Bandits secure annually $50,000,000, and theft and embezzlement account for a further loss of approximately $300,000,000. Evidently our methods of dealing with crime have neither been adequately meeting nor solving the situation.

PUNISHING THE FEW

"One of the most important reasons is that in our criminal jurisprudence we have not kept abreast of the tremendous changes in other phases of human activity. We are merely attempting to punish a few of those who commit crimes, systematic methods of prevention of criminal activity are nowhere effectively applied. We are merely waiting until crimes have been committed; then catching a few of the criminals, placing most of those in penal institutions where they are kept at public expense in enforced and compulsory idleness for a period and then turned out embittered, degraded and schooled in crime, with far less chance of becoming decent or productive members of the community than before and far more likely and apt to continue in criminal careers than before.

"Those who have studied the problem have realized that crime is largely the result of defective personalities and of defective moral, social and economic conditions and that criminals are, to a large extent the product of such defective conditions."

Judge Cochran said that since the establishment of this court in Norfolk 10 years ago, the amount of serious crime in the city has been reduced to half what it was before, and that less than one per cent of those who have been in the juvenile court have persisted in criminal careers as adults. He was applauded on this statement.

He also told of hundreds of reconciliations that had been effected, apparently with permanence and satisfaction, since the inception of the Norfolk court.

He speaks before the Twentieth Century Club Joy st., on Saturday at 1 p. m.

MANNING SAYS MAYOR BAUER BROKE LAW

Continuing his attack on Mayor Bauer, Fred J. Manning, mayor-elect of Lynn, now charges that the outgoing administration bought automobiles and placed them in operation before the City Council voted to make the purchase, hiring architects for public buildings without consulting the building department and violating provisions of the Lynn city charter, for which penalties are attached.

The Lynn tercentenary committee, which conducted the city's observance, has become involved in the open break between the mayor and mayor-elect.

The latter charges that it exceeded its appropriation by $800, and furthermore he will hold up the publication of the official history of the celebration until all legal requirements have been complied with.

Benjamin N. Johnson, general chairman of the celebration and editor of the history, asserted that he thought there was a balance of at least $3200. "He won't stop the publication," said Johnson emphatically. "I'll pay for it out of my own pocket, if necessary."

Mayor Bauer, when asked to comment on the mayor-elect's charges, said that he didn't propose to answer the incoming "political administration."

"It's the same old gang coming back that I cleaned out four years ago," said the mayor. "I don't see the need of saying anything about the incoming political administration. I'm willing to let him have two years to demonstrate how much he doesn't know."

Grand Duchess Lands

New York, Dec. 13—The Grand Duchess Kira, 18 year old daughter of the present heads of the one-royal Russian family of Romanoffs, arrived on the Berengaria to see America "as an ordinary traveler." She was in the company of Mrs. Deming Jarivs of Washington, whose guest she will be while in America.

MAINE MOVES FOR SHARE OF FARM FUND

Augusta, Me., Dec. 13—Chairman Clarence S. Stetson of the Maine Development Commission says that preliminary steps have been taken to get Maine its share of the $500,000,000 Federal Farm Board fund.

A telegram, signed by Stetson as chairman of the commission, was sent to Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board in Washington, in which it was urged that some member of the board come to Maine at an early date to "tell the Aroostook potato growers and other agricultural producers what they should do to secure representation on the various commodity committees, and what steps should be taken to entitle them to their share in the benefits of this movement."

The message echoed addresses by former Governor Ralph O. Brewster and John E. Abbott, master of the Maine State Grange, at the annual grange meeting in Bangor. Both expressed the opinion Maine and New England would expend much more toward the relief movement than they ever would get out of it. Estimated amounts varying from $1,000,000 to five times that sum have been named as Maine's contribution to the relief program.

Stetson said the federal aid was to be distributed largely through farmers' and growers' co-operative agencies, and since there are few of these in Maine the State might not benefit thereby.

Chicago, Dec. 13. Love is all right, as far as it goes, but it also should be mixed with a liberal dose of common sense if marriages are to be permanent, Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis told the Presbyterian commission on marriage and divorce here today.

Dr. Davis of Erie, Pa., advocated "marriage study classes" in church young people's societies and public schools.

STARCH IS FINE FOR BEAUTY

Is there a beauty box on your pantry shelves? There certainly is, if you've taken the advice I've offered so many times and invested 10c in a package of a certain famous starch that brings back the 'new' to the most ancient cotton fabrics, and makes calico have all the appearance of linen.

The wonders it works in the laundry is certainly excuse enough for this starch having its being, but behold it appears to have also an important place in the world of beauty.

For several years Paris has known the marvelous [illegible] obtained from starch and cornstarch baths, but only recently have America's fashionables, actresses and picture stars adopted the habit, which by the way is endorsed by leading dermatologists. Starch in our food we may avoid as we do the plague, but starch in our baths is to be courted.

And for once, sisteren, here's a beauty hint that even the most economical budgeter can indulge in with a clear conscience. For there are three beauty baths in one 10c package of this starch -- yes, just plain starch in a neat blue and white package.

Two or more handfuls of this starch are dissolved in a half tub of warm water. It dissolves instantly—and that's all the mystery there is. The bath is ready, Madame! Go right ahead, just as usual, using your favorite soap. The sensation is akin to the effects of the world famous milk baths—usually the perogative of only the very wealthy.

The skin will be found velvet to the touch, and powdering entirely unnecessary. Just the right amount of powder will be found left on the skin, evenly spread, and without any excess.

Physicians recommend cornstarch for powdering the delicate skin of infants, but it certainly has been left for women of the fashion-world to discover equally valuable properties in the starch box for mother.

They even tell me that a thin starch paste puts a shiny nose to route for hours, and that a facial pack of starch mixed thick with cold water is the equal of an expensive session with a beauty specialist.

FROSTING JIG-TIME BY THIS

Some day when you haven't time to dash to the corner store for your favorite brand of marshmallow creme, yet need a hurry-up frosting or filling, try this recipe.

Beat the whites of two eggs stiff. Add one and one-half cups of confectioner's sugar, a tablespoon at a time. When it is all beaten in add one and one-half cups of crystal corn syrup, pouring it in a slow stream and beating constantly with egg beater.

This will give you one quart of delicious fluffy marshmallow cream for frosting or filling.

De Priest Urged for Haiti Commission

Washington, Dec. 13.—President Hoover has been urged to name either Oscar DePriest, colored member of Congress from Illinois, or Emmett J. Scott, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People, as a member of a special commission to investigate conditions in Haiti.

The recommendation was made by Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., New York, who said that such a commission should work out a plan for establishment of an orderly government and withdrawal of American marines by 1936.

Thousands Offer Name for Train

Not only John Coolidge, but hundreds of other people, including many who are not employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, have submitted names for a new de luxe fast train that is to be inaugurated early in the year between Boston and New York.

ALONZO TRIES TO GET RUTH AWAY FROM IT ALL

But Author of "Palaces of Sin" Sniffs Dark Plot

Yesterday [illegible] has even permitted Alonzo to tie her shoe [illegible] as she [illegible] places her foot upon his knee.

"I WAS disgusted and ready to leave," says the author, "but I was determined to stay until the 'debauch' was over in order to protect Ruth if possible. About 4 o'clock everyone but myself and the hostess was as full as "ticks," and Ruth not being used to this sort of thing, it had made her deathly sick, so I suggested to the hostess that she be taken home.

"'Never!' asserted Alonzo, 'in this condition.'

"'Why?' I remarked.

"'I want you to understand I am Ruth's escort,' says Alonzo. 'I will call my carriage and drive her around in the crisp air and she will be all right.'

"'No you don't,' I cried. 'You will not drive Miss Ruth for a few minutes or a few hours unless I am with you, as I know your motive!'"

Tomorrow we will publish the account of the terrible consequences of this hot exchange—the battle of wits.

REPORT SHOWS WARSHIPS IN GOOD SHAPE

Washington, Dec. 13.—[illegible] battleships of the American navy are on the whole in good [illegible] condition, according to Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, engineer in charge of the [illegible]

This condition has been achieved, Admiral Yarnell said, although [illegible] of the [illegible]

The destroyers in commission, the report [illegible] age and have served nine years or more of their [illegible] life, the amount that must be spent on these craft for upkeep of machinery installations will increase materially in the next few days.

Since the report was written the navy has arranged to decommission a number of old vessels and replace them with ships kept in reserve in laid up status since the World War. The latter are said to be in good shape.

Admiral Yarnell sounded a warning as to submarines. With the exception of fleet submarines V-1, V-2, V-3 and V-4, he said, all submarines in commission are of war construction and will require extensive repair and renewal of machinery in the next few years.

The difficulty in keeping the ships in proper condition has been due to a shortage of funds, and the age of the craft, the report saying that "the navy yards have continued to handle the engineering repair load and new construction in a satisfactory manner."

Stamford, Ct., Dec. 13.—A pair of youthful runaways, a boy of 16 and an 18-year-old bride of six months, who fled from their homes in Fall River, Mass., are under arrest here.

The boy, Wilfred Robichaud of Wiley st., Fall River, faces an additional charge of stealing an auto. His companion is Mrs. Dinantina Almedia of the same address.

"We love each other and were going to New York to start life all over again," explained the boy. "My other marriage was an awful mistake," the girl added.

Move to Boost Pay of Walker to $30,000

New York, Dec. 13.—Out of a clear sky and leaving no chance for finger pointing at Tammany, a move was launched to assure salaries of $30,000 a year to Mayor James J. Walker, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee and Controller Charles W. Berry for the new four-year term they begin January 1.

The only Republican member of the board of estimate, George U. Harvey, Queens Borough president, offered the resolution for the increase at today's meeting, with the announcement that he will sponsor the legislation necessary to bring in the new scale.

AUCTION BRIDGE

—by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD—

FORCING OVERCALL AT CONTRACT

The forcing overcall at Contract [illegible] in every way to the [illegible] bid. Each is a bid of [illegible] more than necessary and the requirements of each are [illegible] with the probability [illegible] tricks in hand in [illegible] 4 Quick Tricks, [illegible] high card strength being distributed in three or more suits. By reason of their very strength, each [illegible] a further bid in hand and therefore demands an assist or [illegible] partner unless holding an absolutely trickless hand.

The procedure of the West player [illegible] his deal will illustrate the sound [illegible] of the forcing overcall, as such [illegible] that West has a hand which with but average or less than average support from East, can produce a game.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction. South bids one Diamond [illegible] West overcalls with one Heart. There is no reason for a pre-emptive bid on West's part in this situation as he is prepared to rebid and rebid again regardless of adverse indications. North [illegible] supporting [illegible] South's Diamond bid. East passes. South has not the required strength for an unassisted rebid or a negative double of West's Heart overcall.

Contract. South bids one Diamond as at Auction. West makes a forcing overcall by bidding one trick more than necessary, two Hearts. It will be seen that he holds all the requirements for such forcing overcall: 5 Quick Tricks, the probability of at least seven tricks in all, and high card values in three suits.

North passes and East jumps the bid to a game contract in Hearts as, his supporting values while below those required for an assist of a one bid, are sufficient for a bid of four following partner's forcing overcall, particularly as he holds four cards of the Heart suit. It will be noted that had West been the dealer his preferable procedure would be an original two bid rather than a pre-emptive bid of three as he holds two side Kings.

Salient Points of Play

North, holding four of partner's suit to the Queen-Jack-Ten, leads initially the highest of the sequence, the Queen, which holds. South plays the encouraging 8 to the first trick and North continues with the Jack of Diamonds which Declarer trumps with the Heart 4.

Declarer now proceeds to exhaust trumps leading the Ace and King. On the lead of the King of Hearts North discards the Spade 2 which does not necessarily denote weakness. Declarer now crosses over to the Dummy hand in order to lead a Spade up to his King. The fifth trick therefore is as follows:

Fifth Trick: West, Heart 5, North, Diamond 10; East, Heart 7, South, Diamond 2.

Declarer next leads the Spade 10 from Dummy. South refuses to cover, and West goes up with the King. As a matter of fact West has a choice of playing the Jack or King of Spades but the King is preferable on the reading of the cards. North has already played the Queen-Jack-Ten of Diamonds and has also shown up with a singleton Heart. Therefore had North also held the Ace of Spades he would undoubtedly have assisted his partner's Diamond bid. And so Declarer figures the King of Spades as a sure trick whereas the Jack of Spades is problematical. Also, Declarer sees he will have to give up one Spade trick, but no more as there are but two Spades in Dummy. So figured West goes up with the King immediately which wins the sixth trick.

There are no more salient points to the play except that West must make all the remaining tricks except two, losing in all one Diamond, one Spade and one Club. While he can establish a long Club in Dummy, it does him no good as he has no worthwhile discard thereon from his own hand.

Mill Man Decries Move to Unionize

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 13—Any citizen has the right to join a union, but under present "depressed and complicated conditions," an attempt by "foreign influences and outside unsympathetic organizations to unionize" Southern cotton mills would be disastrous to both employer and employe, B. B. Gossett of Charlotte, a director of the Cotton-Textile Institute of America, told State officials, members of the faculty and student body of North Carolina State College.

PROBING DEATH OF HOMELESS WOMAN

An investigation is being made by the police into circumstances surrounding the death of an unidentified woman, about 40 years of age, in a South End house. Patrick Kelley, who is said to have invited the woman into the house, 43 West Newton st., after she had told him she was homeless, is being held in custody at the East Dedham st. station.

The body of the woman is at the Southern Mortuary and efforts are being made to find relatives. Pending the complete autopsy by the medical examiner, Kelley will be held by the police.

Kelley said he found the woman sitting on the steps of his home Wednesday night. He said that he told her she had better go home because of the intense cold and she said she had no home or friends. He said he then invited her inside and gave her lodging for the night. The next day she was found unconscious and was dead when taken to the City Hospital.

Suggests Bridge Instead of Tunnel

Editor Boston American:

I saw a cartoon by Franklin Collier in last Saturday's Boston Evening American which was a wonderful suggestion for the City of Boston. Put the bridge to East Boston over the harbor. It would be an ornament. Don't put $15,000,000 underground where it cannot be seen. Look at the bridge connecting Camden, N. J., with Philadelphia, costing $30,000,000. I was told by one of the officials there that they took in $3,000,000 in tolls the first year. I wish that your paper would suggest this proposition to the public and Finance Commission as it is a matter that is worthy of consideration and you are the logical medium to suggest it.

Tells What Brings Insanity to Men

Editor Boston American:

For a constant reader of your paper you might find space to publish the following.

Jealousy, ignorance and hoggism are the greatest menace in the occurrence of insanity. Psychology plays but little in the warfare against crime and criminal tendency. I therefore cannot support Prof. Eugene Bleuler, who declares alcoholism one of the greatest factors in the occurrence type of insanity and that psychology plays an important part against crime and the criminal tendency. This, even though he is ranked as one of Europe's foremost psychiatrists.

Psychology has been practised for centuries before Prof. Bleuler was born. Psychology is indeed a wonderful subject and it can only be appreciated by men of knowledge. It is difficult to grasp hard, to understand and only appreciated by men of intelligence.

Hoggism is a word originated by me (for I have never seen it used) to mean men who are never satisfied with what they've got.

Jealousy is shown where a man tries to get the best of the other fellow when he is at a disadvantage and cannot accomplish his desires.

Ignorance is shown by one who is unable to judge accurately from all angles.

Hopes Many Send Tobacco to Rutland

Editor Boston American,

The notice appearing in the Boston Evening American that the inmates of the Rutland State Sanatorium, would be grateful for tobacco, instead of candy for Christmas, rather touched me in a tender spot. I know something about that institution and if every smoker in Greater Boston or elsewhere, will send a package of tobacco to match the one he is buying for himself, he will bring joy to many a one in that institution. Send it to the superintendent, Rutland State Sanatorium, Mass. You'll enjoy your smoke better after thinking over what you've done. I'm doing it.

New Sleep Method of Killing Germs

Editor Boston American:

I have just returned from a Western trip selling goods. I heard the funniest thing out there in Chicago about fighting germs. The lecturer said "Always sleep on your face. When we stand up the germs we inhale go down into the throat, but when we lie down, they find their way into the eustachian tube, so the best way to get rid of germs is to sleep face downward.

I tried this new idea about sleep, but it did not work. I would like to know if any of your readers ever heard of this method, and if it is known in the East to any extent.

"Old Feather Store" Built of Bottles

Editor Boston American,

The query sent to your paper about what house in old Boston was in part [illegible] out of the fragments of [illegible] bottles doubtless refers to the Old Feather Store that stood on the corner formed by North st. and Market sq. It was built in 1680 and was in existence until 1860. It was a quaint wooden structure, covered with plaster and studded with fragments of liquor bottles. On account of its peculiar shape it was sometimes called "The Cocked Hat." It was once occupied by a druggist, whose medicines were largely herbs and no one suffered from appendicitis in those days, for they used herbs extensively.

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened

MARY PATRICIA DAWN beautiful, young brunette meets the lad of her dreams in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator. Guy is developing a perfect airplane in the plant of old William Bryce. Happy days follow with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce, young widow of Bryce's son, with her seductive lure.

Pat's father dies and Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest, but Guy gets them back. Bryce stops financing the plane factory. Suddenly three persons vanish, Guy, Pat and Mrs. Bryce's little boy. A note is received demanding $20,000 ransom for the boy. The place where the money is left is watched by the police, but is taken mysteriously, presumably by the kidnapers. Guy is found and arrested kidnaper of Bryce's grandson.

Now Read On

CHAPTER 35.

GUY looked with thanks into the clear eyes of Lee Templeton. The boy loved Pat. And he came to Guy, whom Pat had chosen above him; came and asked what Guy would wish, what he would do if free.

It touched Guy; he could have wept.

Lee's face—the face of a young god, had a white, anxious solemnity. "I read that you said you could find her."

Yes, Guy had said this. They used the statement against him. They said he KNEW where Pat and the child were hidden.

"I've a plane and an air-man pilot. We can start immediately. Which of all the rumors would you follow?"

Which indeed! Where in all the trackless heavens was the clue? Guy had torn himself to pieces with the harrowing query. All week rumors had flown about. From the south, from north, from the valleys and the mountains came hot tips of stranded planes and runaway planes.

The snow-capped Sierras were searched and a thousand miles of grazing land were combed because a cattleman had heard a plane flying in the dark that Monday night. All the airways of the skies were tracked. The lost girl and the kidnaped child were swallowed in impenetrable mystery.

Where now should one look? These two who would have given up their lives for Pat stood helpless staring into the bitter silence which had closed upon the girl.

Said Guy slowly: "I could only do what all the others have done. Fly blind and pray. I think I COULD find her. But it's madness—it's desperation that makes me feel that. There's one REAL hope. Pat could use the radio. Send a call everywhere. Ask if any remote station, if any amateur anywhere has picked up an S O S signed 'Pat.' I told them to be on the watch for this. They say no word has come. But try—try that again. If Pat is in the plane, if she can reach the radio, she's call. I KNOW she will!"

He leaned against the bars and watched Lee Templeton go with that young, boyish, reassuring smile. He looked so young, so beautifully clean and young. "God," whispered Guy, "let him find her!"

Again and again, Guy visioned Pat's face in that moment of terror when she would have learned that another and not he drove the plane. He grew weak, sensing her panic. Eight days she had suffered this. God, what those eight days might have meant!

How she must have watched the skies, how her heart must have jumped if she heard in the distance the whirr of planes. Had any of the hundred rescue ships flown near to Pat's prison? Had they, perhaps, sailed just overhead, and not seeing her, sailed away again?

This was another of his cruel torturing dreams. He lived in imagination the anguish Pat must be enduring.

Her actual fate was mercifully kept even from his ravaged heart.

In the moonlight's delicate silver, Pat had seen the treetops and the dim, blue outline of the hills. For a moment in this same poetic agony she had looked in a man's face. The next instant, the black pipe in his clenched fist whanged on her forehead.

A night in which she knew nothing; vague hours when she tried to beat a way up from this pool of throbbing unbearable pain.

Darkness, pain and a rushing undercurrent of fear. This fear, even in her semi-consciousness, came storming and warm against her mind. It sucked her down.

She felt herself struggling to get free. On the borderline of thought she kept dropping back; down and down into this black pool of fright.

Voices came to her and a muffled stirring to and fro—a vague commotion. Suddenly, with flaming panic, Pat was aware of herself and of others . . . of two men moving about very near to her.

A voice said: "Better give her another whiff."

"Don't need to. She's completely out."

Pat lay perfectly still. The men opened the door of the cabin. They brought in cans and stacked them. They went out.

Pat opened her eyes. There was a dim, nebulous light—the first light of dawn. She saw the men moving in this—swift, silent, ghostly.

STUDENTS TO BEGIN RUSH FOR HOME

Many Christmas Specials Due to Run Next Week on Boston & Maine

Beginning Tuesday, special trains carrying the homeward bound movement of students from New England colleges and schools for the Christmas vacation will begin to roll, it was announced today by the Boston & Maine railroad.

The movement, it is believed, will be a record-breaker over B. & M. lines, with girls from Smith College the first to start homeward.

On Tuesday three special trains will leave Northampton, one for New York, another for Chicago and the West and the third for Boston.

The next day boys from Exeter Academy, Deerfield Academy at Deerfield, Burnham school at Northampton and New Hampshire State University at Durham, N. H., will start their homeward movement.

Three more special trains will roll out of Hanover, N. H., on Thursday, when students from Dartmouth leave. One will go to New York, another to the West and the third will come to Boston. On the same day students from Abbott Academy at Andover, N. H., Andover Academy, Colby Academy at New London, N. H., and Proctor Academy at Andover, N. H., will move.

On Friday a Boston & Maine special from Concord, N. H., to New York will carry the students from St. Paul's School. Another special train will be run Saturday from Williamstown to the West.

Other B. & M. trains will be taxed on that day by the homegoing students from Amherst College and the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The double and triple sectioning of trains on the Boston & Maine lines to take care of extra travel will be in full swing commencing next Tuesday, with the peak of the load expected in a grand rush in the two days of the following week preceding Christmas.

Every available Pullman car will be in use and many extra chair cars and sleepers have been ordered for use on the Boston & Maine trains, to take care of the rush. Advance sales of Pullman tickets have already exhausted the regular trains on certain days during the remaining days before Christmas, but Boston & Maine officials announced today that extra sections are to be run to take care of the additional travel.

JEWISH FUND NOW $250,000

That the morale of the Jewish community of Boston has been remarkably revived as a result of the [illegible] meeting held at Temple Chabei Shalom was commented upon by Mortimer C. Gryzmish, captain of the trade teams at the meeting of the campaign organization of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies held at the Elysium Club.

A total of approximately $250,000 was reported as having thus far been pledged. This does not include those subscribers who ordinarily pledge substantial amounts.

In order to make sure that the campaign functions systematically a steering committee has been appointed which meets every day at luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, receives reports from various departments of the campaign and plans the program for the coming day. Robert J. Koshland is chairman of the steering committee. Other members are Sydney Dreyfus, A. A. Ginzberg, Casper Grosberg, Mortimer C. Gryzmish, Siman Hecht, Bernard W. Schariff, Dr. Ben M. Selekman and Henry Silberman.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Revere Uses Wartime Coal to Fix Streets

Citizens of Revere are too innately modest to [illegible] paved streets, but coal is another thing and today coal was being used to repair streets in the Beach City.

To offset any charges of extravagance it might be well to point out that the coal is useless for fuel inasmuch as it refuses to burn.

It is the "war coal" purchased by Revere in 1918, 25 to 30 tons of it, which was found to be painted rocks or something equally worthless as fuel. It was stored at the Center School in Winthrop ave., but at a recent meeting the school committee voted it must be removed. The public works department then stepped in and decided to use the alleged coal on the streets.

The break occurred just before the day shift were scheduled to go on duty. The nurses found the elevators were not running and after walking downstairs discovered the lobby and all the lower floor to be under water. Some of the food in the kitchen was spoiled.

Trap doors were opened, allowing the water to drain off, and the remainder was swept away when plumbers shut off the supply.

INDIAN GIRL IS CLUB'S GUEST

A new existence begins today for Miss Anna Williams, the 101 Ranch Indian girl known as "Little Smiling Flower," who lost a leg in a railroad accident.

Today Smiling Flower started a long visit at the Vincent Hospital in Huntington ave., as the guest of Vincent Club society girls who are interested in her case. Next spring she will be given a $150 artificial leg and sent to her home in Oklahoma.

The full-blooded Cheyenne has been at the Haymarket Relief Hospital for the past month and won many friends by her happy disposition.

NEW LAW TO EASE BOOK BAN HERE

Provides Volume as Whole Be Judged; Many Notbales Back Measure; Watch, Ward Won't

A revised book censorship law, having the endorsement of a committee of [illegible] citizens, [illegible] Legislature [illegible] James L. Shattuck [illegible]

It [illegible] study made by the Massachusetts committee for the revision of the book law and is designed to replace the present statute, enforcement of which in Boston has resulted in the heaping of ridicule on the Hub.

Its principal point of revision is the stipulation that every book, when judged by the court, shall be judged as a whole and not, as under the present law, by isolated passages that, when considered in relation to the entire text, may not be objectionable.

The Children's Welfare society, Bishop Slattery, Fr. Spencer Burton, Rabbi Henry Levi and men and women prominent in all walks of life indorse the revised law, which is designed to meet the approval of the public, the bookseller and the guardians of Massachusetts morals with the exception of the Watch and Ward society.

In clarifying its important change and emphasizing its strong points, Edward A. Weeks, chairman of the committee that drafted it, stated that the Watch and Ward society does not indorse the bill.

The proposed law reads as follows:

"Whoever imports, prints, publishes, sells or distributes a book, pamphlet, ballad, printed paper or other thing which, considered as a whole, is obscene, indecent or impure, or manifestly tends to corrupt the morals of youth, or an obscene, indecent or impure print, picture, figure, image or description, manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth, or introduces into a family, school or place of education, or buys, procures, receives, or has in his possession any such book, pamphlet, ballad, printed paper, obscene, indecent or impure print, picture, figure, image or other thing, either for the purpose of sale, exhibition, loan or circulation or with intent to introduce the same into a family, school or place of education, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than two years and by a fine of not less than 100 nor more than 1000 dollars."

In the words of Chairman Weeks it is felt that through the proposed revision "the distressing situation which has brought the ridicule of the entire civilized world upon Boston would be removed without weakening a law essentially necessary."

Defends Utility Stock Policy

A defence of the policy of allowing public utility companies to make improvements and extensions of property and later seek authority from the state department of public utilities to issue stock to meet the cost of such improvements was presented to the special commission which is studying the utilities situation.

The statement by Sheldon E. Wardwell, who is appearing as counsel for the Massachusetts Gas and Electric Light Association, came as a result of questions raised by Lewis Parkhurst and Arthur M. Huddell, members of the special commission.

Dr. Cushing's Little Girl Is Recovering

Barbara Cushing, 12, whose distinguished father operated on her last month at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, soon will be able to go home. Encouraging news of her recovery was made known at the hospital today, where the daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing is entirely out of danger.

She had glandular trouble. The father is one of the world's great specialists on gland diseases. He has been decorated several times by governments for amazing surgical feats. He recently cut a slice out of a man's brain—and the man lived.

Whalen to Oil Up City Machinery in Chelsea

After he takes office as mayor of Chelsea, John J. Whalen, who defeated Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley at [illegible] election, has proposed to [illegible] into municipal departments. Chief among these are the fire and police departments, which he characterizes as being "sore spots."

Other Whalen projects include a modern system of traffic control and improvements of a traffic artery from Boston to Chelsea. He intends to bring this about by the repaving of Marginal st. to relieve congestion on other streets.

[illegible] stops and the installation of traffic signal lights, he believes, will improve traffic movement. Street [illegible] service he feels [illegible] and he will work for [illegible]

He says [illegible] system will be [illegible] in an effort to modernize it and to bring to the pupils modern educational methods. The police department he hopes to place on a new footing by making wholesale changes by shortening routes to give better protection.

Hospital facilities will be enlarged. He hopes to establish a free public clinic and a health center for the poor. He will advocate a retail trade board as part of the local Chamber of Commerce to devise ways and means of aiding merchants.

WILL RENAME EXCHANGE ST.

Mayor Nichols has ordered the Board of Street Commissioners to change the name of Exchange st. to Congress st., so that the main traffic artery from Dock sq. to the New Haven Railroad yards in South Boston, across the new $1,000,000 Congress st. bridge, will bear the same name.

The Street Commission must first advertise a public hearing at which the people interested may express their favor or opposition to the change of name before the new sign posts can be erected. Under a special law changes in street names become effective on the following March 1.

Exchange st., which was recently widened at a cost of over $2,[illegible] to make it uniform in width with Congress st., of which it now is an extension, has been known as Exchange st. for 112 years. From 1708 until 1817 it was called Shrimpton's lane and prior to 1708 it was known as Royal Exchange lane.

WARM SPELL IS DUE FOR HUB

A "January thaw," with southwest winds and rain, was predicted for Boston tonight and Saturday, as a climax to the cold spell which gripped New England and took three lives.

Steadily rising temperatures were expected to reach a minimum of 38 tonight with possible colder weather Saturday night and Sunday.

At Springfield most hazardous traffic conditions in years resulted today from rain that froze as it fell, coating all surfaces with slate ice. While trolley transportation was not seriously affected, those lines on which buses have been substituted for trolley cars were virtually at a standstill because of the inability of the busses to negotiate grades through lack of traction.

One line was entirely abandoned and on another passengers were transferred to lines operating trolleys. The street railway company announced its intention to attempt to operate the busses after applying chains to the wheels. Conditions that forced many motorists to leave their cars at home threw an added burden on the street railway which it was unable to meet and as a result hundreds walked to their work at risk of limb.

Fuller's First Shop Shown on His Seal

An artistic little picture of the bicycle shop which former Governor Fuller opened in Malden when he was a young man constitutes the seal on the backflap of the new personal envelopes of Fuller.

The seal is circular, a little bigger than a 25-cent piece, is done in several colors and shows a neat single-story white store front, with a sign across the top reading "Alvan T. Fuller." A young tree stands in front of one of the windows with a tiny figure of a man near it. The date, 1895, is set beneath the tree and under the seal is the word "Boston."

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment, and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

LEGION IN ROW OVER PAGEANT TICKETS

Statement From the National Headquarters Is Disputed by State Department

With tickets for the costume pageant and ball at the American Legion convention in Boston next year as the prize of victory, a controversy was started today between the local department and the national headquarters.

National headquarters started the row by issuing a statement to the effect that Massachusetts, now standing last among the departments, has a chance to receive some of the tickets if it increases its membership efforts.

Fifty-five tickets or vouchers for [illegible] will be awarded by the Legion and 55 by the Auxiliary Dec. 31 when a national roll-call of departments will be held by telegraph.

The 10 departments in each organization having the highest percentage of their quotas December 31 will receive 55 tickets divided up so the highest one in each organization will receive 10 tickets, the next highest nine, etc.

The departments in turn will pass the tickets on down to the posts having the highest standing and the posts will dispose of them in any manner they see fit so long as they are used as membership awards.

The Massachusetts department disputes the statement as to its standing, declaring its position will show a great improvement in the course of a few weeks as its fiscal year dovetails with the calendar year.

With a paid-up membership of more than 5500 already for 1930 the local department is looking forward to a banner year.

Not only is the advance paid-up membership more than double what it was a year ago but every sign indicates that the decision to hold the national convention here in 1930 is proving a tremendous stimulus towards the success of the drive for 100,000 members, Asst. Treas. Frederick L. Mellin of the Massachusetts Department said today.

VENTURAS TO HAVE HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Missing Mother Returns, the Father Will Recover, and It Is Home Again

This might be [illegible] as "The Six Venturas" [illegible] were an act for the stage.

But [illegible] a sketch out of real life at Christmas time, a story about God and Santa Claus to renew your faith in both if it is dwindling, and about an orphanage that [illegible] for four little children but couldn't quite grasp them.

[illegible] The Six Venturas [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. John Ventura [illegible] Haverhill, Anna, 13, who [illegible] Orphan Annie in [illegible] and her three small brothers.

The Venturas were a happy family until last August. Not a great many luxuries to be sure, but with enough to eat and for decent clothing and minds untroubled by worries.

CHILDREN TAKEN SICK.

But in August the children fell ill, one after another. Anne first, then the three small boys.

And then the father, working for the city, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Ventura carried on as best she could with a sick husband and four sick children. Nothing came in but the bills and more worries and she finally lost her grip on herself.

One morning she was gone. Police, relatives and friends began a search that was unavailing. In the meantime Ventura was removed to the Gale Hospital at Haverhill for an operation that meant life or death.

CHILDREN SENT AWAY.

The children's aunt, Mrs. Frank [illegible] assumed the care of them for a time, but finally she was obliged to relinquish the heavy [illegible] burden and the four little Venturas came to Boston in the care of [illegible] welfare society, destined for an orphanage.

They never ceased praying for "mama to come home and daddy to get better." The baby, who is two, couldn't do much praying, but Anna and the other boys made up for his deficiency in this regard.

They asked God to be merciful, in the name of little children, and they wrote notes to Santa Claus not to forget they wanted a mother and father for Christmas.

But even with all the prayers and the appeals to Santa, it seemed hopeless today when Mrs. Ventura walked into her sister's home [illegible] and demanded the whereabouts of her husband and her children.

HOME AGAIN FOR CHRISTMAS

She went first to the hospital, where she had a tearful reunion with her husband. Then she came to Boston and wept with the four small Venturas.

So there will be a Christmas after all in the Ventura home. The hospital doctors say the father will be well again by then and the welfare association says the children will be home again by then. And that's all there is to it, except that if you don't believe in Santa, God must have done it, and if you don't believe in either one, what do you believe in, anyway?

The alleged ale was seized in a West Newton residence on election night.

Lawson Disaster 22 Years Ago Today

Twenty-two years ago today, the seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson went to the bottom of the English channel, a victim of the tradition her namesake tried to thwart, the jinx of Friday the 13th.

Old shipping men today recalled the terrible disaster of that bleak December night that claimed, oddly enough, the lives of 13 men.

The huge schooner, named for Boston's colorful financier, was a victim of her own great size when [illegible] before a howling gale and broke her back on [illegible] rocks.

The only seven-masted [illegible] the [illegible] of the world as she slid down the ways [illegible] River in 1902 [illegible] their heads [illegible] size [illegible] after words [illegible] proved.

She was a [illegible] "they couldn't [illegible]."

She was employed in the coastwise coal trade between Boston and Norfolk for nearly five years and then her first and her last trip abroad was planned.

With a cargo of oil aboard she reached the English channel. Capt. George W. Dow of Melrose was her [illegible] and Edward Rowe of East Boston her [illegible] engineer. They were the only survivors of the wreck.

On the night of Friday the 13th a heavy blow set in similar to the one that wrought havoc to shipping this week.

Finally the anchor chains gave way and she [illegible] on to Gunner's rocks in the Scilly islands.

The British pilot who went aboard to [illegible] her in and 12 members of the Lawson crew drowned.

Lawson would never admit awe at the circumstances of the mystic 13.

SUES HUSBAND OVER CASH

Mrs. Anna M. Greene of Medford has brought a bill in equity in Middlesex Superior Court, in which she asks her husband, Don H. Greene, be made to give an accounting of money which she claims she provided to set him up in the restaurant business on High st., Medford.

Mrs. Greene claims she gave him the money to purchase the business and that they worked together until November 22 last, when he ejected her.

The petitioner further states that in September her husband began to waste the assets of the business and unless he is stopped it will be destroyed.

She also seeks to have the court enjoin Greene from transferring the property and to establish her right of ownership. A hearing was fixed for December 20 at 10 a. m.

According to her attorney, John S. McCann, Miss Somerville was asleep in bed and was awakened when a bullet struck her hip. Paul testified he had carried the pistol 15 years because he had been threatened by some ex-convicts.

LEAVE it to the grownups to carry on the love theme and the villainous hatreds, too. That gives the children a chance. Here they come trooping into their own and "on their own," for a [illegible] feast of fun in "The Marriage Playground" now at the Metropolitan. MUCH of the dialogue is bright too, thanks be! That is as it should be, for the story is based upon Edith Wharton's "The Children." There is no need to rehearse the plot of this revelation of the divorces and marital mix-ups in the "upper crust," and of the harum-scarum lives of the children of such matrimonial muddles. It is sufficient for us to be grateful that the children are here, and that Miss Brian has a role among them, and as one of them Paramount is to be congratulated that it has trained an "Our Gang" of its own. Its proteges are really delightfully clever. They create an atmosphere that puts "The Marriage Playground" into the class of "film naturals"—sweet and wholesome to see and hear.

IT [illegible] to be forgotten that the cast has a number of names well known to the fans. Of them Kay Francis is the best. Lilyan Tashman is fair. Seena Owen not so good. Mr. March does well enough with the love lead. Mr. Austin squeezes comedy out of the lordship role. But here the children are "the thing", even the baby is mighty amusing.

THE stage presentation is novel and excellent. It is a musical comedy, "White Caps," produced for Publix by Lewis McDermott; Pauline Gaskins and cast serve up the fare in fine fashion.

FINE CLOTHES ADVOCATED

DOROTHY MACKAILL, feminine charmer in "The Great Divide" at the Scollay and Fenway tomorrow, believes that women should be as extravagant as they can afford to be in the matter of clothes.

While some husbands will automatically take a firmer grip on their pocketbooks at this assertion, the star backs up her statements.

"I think it is a compliment to men when women dress well and the men should feel flattered," said Dorothy, who is considered one of the best-dressed girls in Hollywood.

"I think any woman is foolish who squanders all her money on things to wear, but if she selects wisely and isn't foolish about unimportant things, she is bound to get more enjoyment out of life and give her husband a feeling of satisfaction over her smartness."

Miss Mackaill believes it is smarter to buy an expensive coat and a cheap dress than it is to buy a cheap coat and an expensive dress, for the simple reason that when one is away from home one prefers to look more elegant, and the wrap covers the frock anyhow.

He Would Be King

JOHN BARRYMORE

RICARDO CORTEZ IS DESERTER FROM UNEMPLOYED ARMY

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13. Some days you can't lay up a cent, other days you can't get a job. Ricardo Cortez told me that for eight months he hadn't worked. He couldn't understand why jobs were so scarce, and I cannot either, for he certainly is a good looking young man and he knows his screen technique.

His streak of bad luck has apparently ended, for he was signed last night for the heavy in "Montana," Joan Crawford's next picture.

Louella Parsons

Mr. Cortez tells me his wife, Alma Rubens, is improving and will soon be home. He seems confident that she will be completely restored to health. That will be the pleasantest Christmas present that he could have and certainly a Christmas gift to everyone of Alma's friends who have been holding good thoughts for her ultimate recovery.

Marriage hasn't interfered with the public's interest in Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. These two appeared at an opening the other night and the sidewalk fans gave them a great welcome. Apparently Fox is trying to keep this romantic screen team intact by encouraging them to appear in public together. Their next picture is "High Society Blues."

Janet's husband, Lydell Peck, must have given up his law practice in San Francisco, for he can be seen every day in the scenario department at Paramount studio, busily trying to learn the film business.

The late has are resounding in every corner of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot getting ready for "Naughty Marietta," Victor Herbert's opera. The powers that be at that well known studio have let it be known that all the stars who can warble and act will be corralled for this big moment, and there is nothing in the world like preparedness.

Probably Carlotta King will sing, also Ramon Novarro, Charlie King and so on.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum is going after the film people with a vengeance. William McCaffery, New York booking agent, has been scouting around Hollywood for the past week lining up talent and making arrangements to sign up available film stars.

It is no secret that vaudeville last year would have been a sorry affair if it hadn't been for the drawing power of the film people. When business was at low ebb such stars as Irene Rich, Leatrice Joy, George K. Arthur, Charlie Murray and others were rushed into the breach.

We're pleased when a good friend whispered that Cecil DeMille's next picture, "Madame Satan," is nothing more or less than a musical talkie version of "Why Change Your Wife." But unless it were true no use in printing it, so we called up Barrett Kiesling, who is nothing if not tactfully evasive.

"Is 'Madame Satan' a revised version of DeMille's former success, 'Why Change Your Wife?'" we asked. "And is Gloria Swanson, as we have been reliably informed, going to play the lead, with Reginald Denny opposite her?"

"'Madame Satan' is not 'Why Change Your Wife,'" Mr. Kiesling emphatically declared, but he did not deny that it was a story of divorce in the modern way and he would not deny that there might be a possibility of bringing 'Why Change Your Wife' into the talkies. Neither would he deny that Miss Swanson had been negotiated with for "Madame Satan," but cryptically stated that "Miss Swanson is not at present on the list of those being considered."

Just in passing, we hear that Joan Bennett has gone to New York to spend Christmas with her mother, the former Adrienne Morrison, who recently was married. That Sammy Lee will again stage the dances in the Hollywood Revue. He is just back from a vacation. Carmel Myers, who is in the bridal party of Bessie Love, is entertaining for Miss Love a week from Saturday. Clive Brook has just been signed for one of the important roles in "The Benson Murder" by Paramount. Louis J. Bartels and Phillips Holmes are also in the cast.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood, collected at random: Virginia Sherrill and her fiance, Buster West, refusing to walk under a ladder. Leo Diegel, golf champion, dancing with Winnie Law. Walter Hagen at a nearby table, the guest of friends at the Roosevelt. Mrs. Grauman, mother of the one and only Sid, singing and playing for a few of her friends. Ricardo Cortez lunching at the Montmartre, buying himself a pair of roller skates. Bessie Love trying to do Christmas shopping, trousseau shopping, and arrange for her wedding and at the same time, hold down her job at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Nils Asther giving eager visitors a glimpse of himself at the Holly Plaza Hotel. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

FESTIVAL FOR LOEW HOUSES IN JANUARY

JANUARY is going to be "festival month" at Loew's State and Orpheum when these two houses stage especially ambitious screen and stage shows and provide many other special stunts.

Joseph H. Brennan, manager at the State, and Victor J. Morris, who serves in a like capacity at the Orpheum, are already at work arranging for this special four-week program.

Messrs. Brennan and Morris announced that "festival month" is to be part of a nation-wide observance by Loew Theaters stressing a festival of optimism and good cheer with the slogan "Good Times Are Here!"

The "good times" festival by Loew's national organization is in response to President Hoover's plan to boom prosperity and the Loew interests are giving their united co-operation in the amusement field.

The great photoplay producers are co-operating with Loew's to release exceptional pictures next month and "good times" stunts will be directed at the audiences to educate them that any depression idea that may exist is purely mental or psychological.

The State and Orpheum will be decorated in honor of the occasion. Automobile clubs will also be asked to distribute stickers reading "Good Times Are Here!" with festival insignia.

NAN HALPERIN IS BOOSTER

THAT the minds of audiences differ from season to season, continually changing and always demanding a variety in their choices of entertainment, is the belief of Nan Halperin, diminutive star of footlight fame, who tomorrow appears at the Keith-Albee. "People, everywhere, want the same names—if the persons behind those names have made them stand out prominently for any commendable reason," says Miss Halperin, "yet I think that they want a different style of work from those name-artists.

Nan Halperin

"My idea is not to give the public too much of any one style of work. For that reason I changed my act in its entirety the past two seasons, and this year in my tour over the RKO circuit, I am proud to give something brand new in the way of entertainment.

"For, where an artist keeps changing, he or she is sure to keep improving—to keep growing with the requirements and choices of the world of amusement-lovers. During the World War one could give the public anything. Today it is different. The public goes shopping for its entertainment."

"There Sure Is a Santa Claus"

JANET GAYNOR

OLD SAINT NICK seems to have remembered one of the screen's most popular young stars a bit ahead of time. Janet Gaynor, Fox Movietone player, in "Sunnyside Up," now at the New B. F. Keith's, is the lucky girl. She had a dream that Santa paid a visit and, here's the proof. She received a stocking crammed full of goodies.

'WHOOPEE' TO CONTINUE

"WHOOPEE," the Florenz Ziegfeld production now at the Colonial, has extended its engagement one week, so that now the show which was scheduled to depart tomorrow night will remain at the Colonial through Dec. 21.

The extension is due to the splendid business "Whoopee" has been enjoying, and the demand at the box office for opportunity to see the production. This resulted in Mr. Ziegfeld changing his plans to permit the longer stay here. From Boston "Whoopee" will go southward, first visiting Baltimore.

Eddie Cantor, inimitable comedian, is the star of "Whoopee." There is a galaxy of other talent with gorgeous scenery and tuneful music.

DRAMATIST TO DO 'LINCOLN'

Stephen Vincent Benet, novelist and poet dramatist, has just been signed by United Artists Corporation to write the story and dialog for the forthcoming D. W. Griffith production, "Abraham Lincoln." Benet is the author of the prize-winning hundred thousand word poem drama, "John Brown's Body," the first edition of which ran into 65,000 copies. With "Abraham Lincoln," Benet makes his debut as a screen writer and dramatist.

"Sarah and Son" Booked as Picture for Women

A picture by, of, and presumably for women, will reach the screen early next year in "Sarah and Son." Ruth Chatterton is its star; Zoe Akins wrote the screen version; Dorothy Arzner will direct; Verna Willis will do the editing, and Henrietta Cohn is business manager of the unit. Mere man is represented, however, by Producer Jesse Lasky.

CONGRESSMAN GIFFORD HEADS COMMITTEE

Washington, Dec. 13—With 7500 Legislative proposals before the new session, the House is today ready for business after re-organizing its standing committees.

Republicans took 14 seats on all committees of 21, because of their majority of 102, reducing the Democratic seats from 8 to 7. The other committees were nearly all divided proportionately.

The Republican and Democratic slates and assignments to fill vacancies on 44 committees were quickly approved.

Difficulties had been ironed out in party conferences and only a few changes were made after the slates were submitted to the House.

The newly organized committees, however, will have little opportunity to make such heads as on the mass of proposed laws before the Christmas holidays.

Representative Zihlman, Republican, Maryland, who was indicted this week on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the operations of a local investment house, was re-elected chairman of the District of Columbia committee.

The liquor charge against Representative Denison, Republican, Illinois, who was recently indicted, did not affect his place on the interstate commerce committee and he was re-elected.

Five new chairmen of committees were named. They are: Military Affairs, James of Michigan; Claims, Irwin of Illinois; Postoffice and Post Roads, Sanders of New York; Invalid Pensions, Nelson of Wisconsin; Election of President, Vice President and Representatives in Congress, Gifford of Massachusetts; Elections No. 3, Simmons of Nebraska.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Democrat, Florida, was assigned to the Foreign Affairs Committee through a special rule permitting 22 members on a standing committee of 21. The Democrats gave a place on the Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee to Representative Pearl Peden Oldfield.

QUINN 'NOT IN' VOTE PROBE

Denial of any connection whatever with the proceedings leading to an investigation of the campaign expenditures of R. Laid M. Russell, mayor-elect of Cambridge, has been made by Mayor Edward W. Quinn.

In view of the appearance of Francis J. Roche, son-in-law of Mayor Quinn, as witness in the proceedings before Judge Cox in the equity session of the superior court Wednesday, Mayor Quinn was asked:

"Are you back of or in sympathy with these proceedings?"

"Absolutely not, in any way whatever," he replied.

"How do you explain the appearance of Mr. Roche, your son-in-law, as a witness?"

"Whatever he did was done absolutely without consultation with me and entirely on his own account. For my own part I have no sympathy with these proceedings. I congratulated Mayor-elect Russell on his victory and I have not the slightest desire to inquire into his campaign expenditures."

Club Women Assail Paris Skirt Style

New York, Dec. 13.—"No Foreign entanglements" over the long skirts decreed by Paris style dictators have been denounced by New York clubwomen.

After hearing the skirt debated at length yesterday at a meeting sponsored by the New York State Federation of Clubwomen, the 600 delegates indicated by applause their approval of a statement that "American women cannot be dictated to by a small coterie of money-seeking Frenchmen in Paris."

Miss Gertrude Lawrence, English actress, wearing a skirt 12 inches from the floor, defended long skirts. She said:

"The new styles with their long graceful lines are more artistic. They are easier to look at and that should be a determining reason for us. They make tall women look less like bean poles, short women look taller and fat women look more svelte."

Miss Rita Weiman, short story writer, arrayed in a frock which was 17 inches from the floor, voiced the declaration of American independence of Paris style tyranny in a speech championing the short skirt. She said:

"After years of comfort we find ourselves trying to manipulate dresses that drag on the dance floor with their bugles, their tulle, their ruffles, bows, and flounces."

Six models, three dressed in the short skirt of last year and three in the new longer style, were called to the platform. The short skirts won a popularity vote from the audience.

MILK DEMAND IS ON INCREASE

Durham, N. H., Dec. 13.—A steadily increasing demand for milk on the Boston market is causing New England producers to give up their cream market, W. H. Bronson of the New England Milk Producers' Association told the New Hampshire Extension conference.

Outside sources of milk he said need not be sought if New England dairymen will even up their production, and the new modified surplus plan is a step in this direction.

Under this plan each producer receives a base equal to his average production in October, November and December. All production up to double this base during the other nine months will be under this surplus plan and will be paid for accordingly. Production in excess of double the base will be paid for at Class 2 or manufactured milk prices.

FULLER'S "IF" CAUSES STIR

"If I go to the United States Senate."

This clause in a letter from ex-Gov. Alvan T. Fuller to the Canadian Club of Boston explaining his reasons for not attending the club's annual banquet at the Hotel Somerset gave local political circles another point of discussion in the rumor that the former governor is contemplating running for the Senate when Senator Gillett retires.

When this point in the letter was read at the banquet by President Daniel H. Rose it caused a stir among the guests. The significance of the statement, however, should not be taken too seriously.

"It just happened to work out that way," said former Governor Fuller when questioned by a reporter. "I wouldn't take it too seriously."

Volstead in Visit to White House

Washington, Dec. 13.—Andrew J. Volstead, father of the Volstead law, called at the White House with [illegible] prohibition administrator of the fourth district, which embraces Minnesota and certain other Northwest states, and saw Walter H. Newton, the President's secretary, a Minnesotan like himself, but did not see President Hoover.

PHILCO HOUR ON COLUMBIA NETWORK

Sweeping changes in Philco's [illegible] plans for 1930—changes which include discontinuance of the Theater Memories, the broadcasting of a new Philco [illegible] over the Columbia Broadcasting System, and expenditure in the neighborhood of one million [illegible] for radio in the new year, were announced today.

After [illegible] years of [illegible] Theater Memories, Philco has determined upon an entirely new [illegible] under the [illegible] of Henry M. Neely, who [illegible] on the first Philco Theater Memories feature. It will bring [illegible] over Columbia's 46-station hookup outstanding personalities in all walks of life. Leading names of the theatrical, the sporting, literary and even the sport news fields will be announced weekly as guest stars of Philco. Names of those to appear are to be announced later.

A series of concerts by the Philadelphia Orchestra, under direction of Leopold Stokowski, will be another feature of the Philco programs of the new year. An all-American program, and possible inclusion of controversial musical works, together with a liberal allowance of compositions by the most widely recognized old masters are promised for the Stokowski series, which will, once more, be heard throughout the United States over a nation-wide network.

The new Philco Hour, under Neely's direction, will be heard [illegible] 10 at every Thursday night [illegible] WNAC and the nation-wide network of CBS.

Radio Unaffected by Wall St. Flurry

The recent flurry on Wall Street will amount to no more than a ripple in radio in the opinion of E. E. Smith, president of National Radio Institute, Washington, D. C. The sales volume already attained and the momentum that the industry has gathered will make 1929 probably the biggest year yet known in radio. Department of Commerce figures show that for the third quarter sales of radio apparatus were 11 per cent above 1928 figures. On October 1, the beginning of the fourth quarter, there were three A. C. sets on order for every five in dealers' stocks. That is indicative of the general state of health in which radio finds itself today, and [illegible] I feel that radio will continue to strengthen its position in the year [illegible] Smith.

Youth Has Chance in Radio Field

Radio, as a life work, presents unusual opportunities to young men of the United States, the Vice President, Charles Curtis, told a group of graduates of the National Radio Institute, Washington, D. C. Speaking extemporaneously, the Vice President congratulated the graduates upon their "choice of radio as a profession." He said: "There is no greater opportunity in America today than radio for men and young men seeking a profession."

Invalid Woman Saved From Flames

Freeport, Me., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Laurence Phelps, invalid wife of the pastor of the Congregational Church here, was taken from the burning parsonage by Mrs. Chester Lunt, who lives in one part of the building, and after she had been deposited on the sidewalk wrapped in blankets she was hurried to the Freeport Hospital.

Both the pastor and his wife are aged, and Mrs. Lunt, scantily clad, hurried to the Phelps apartment and carried out Mrs. Phelps, while her husband went to turn in an alarm.

Dr. Frederick J. Kinsman will lecture on "The Oxford Movement," at the Sacred Heart Country Day school Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

Four Indicted on Liquor Charges

Portland, Me., Dec. 13.—A liquor conspiracy indictment against Edward Sullivan of Fall River, Leon[illegible] Mehanson of Newton, John D. Wynder of Plymouth and Albert Lavton of Mattapoisett, all of Massachusetts, was returned by the grand jury of the United States district court.

It is intimated they will stand trial next week. They were arrested in Harpswell October 21 and a truck that contained 1500 bottles of whiskey was seized. The men were nearby in a car.

Gasparri May Retire

Rome, Dec. 13.—The newspaper Lavoro Fascista published a report that Cardinal Gasparri would resign as secretary of state of the Vatican and be succeeded by Eugenio Pacelli, now papal nuncio to Berlin.

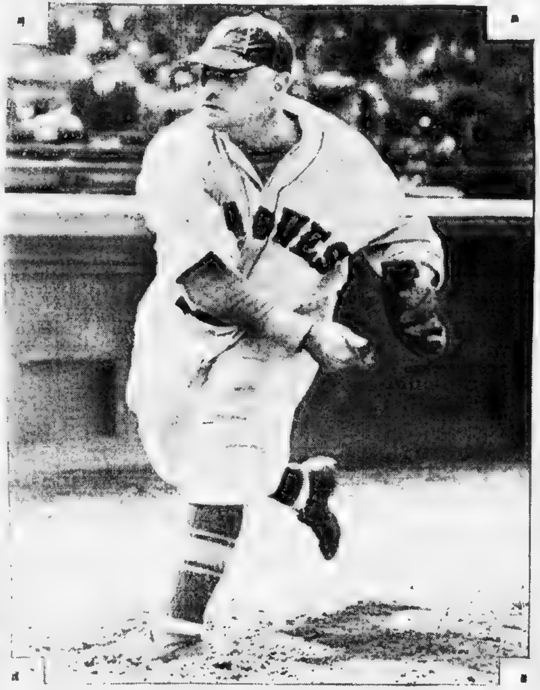
THEY ALL WANT SEIBOLD



Harry Seibold, Braves hurler, was much sought after by other National League clubs during the meeting of the big leagues in New York. The Braves are willing to let him go, provided they can secure a good deal in return.

MANY CLUBS SEEKING SEIBOLD

By NICK FLATLEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—The baseball meetings are over for another year, and nothing happened that was not expected, from the trading of Alexander to the Cardinals to the refusal to peace pact by the warring Brooklyn directors. . . .

This in general are peaceful in baseball, almost too peaceful, which is perhaps a tribute to Judge Landis' ability as an executive and an organizer.

The magnates are all going back home without having put over a single startling idea. But the foundations for several real trades have been laid, and there may be quite a bit of swapping before the boys head south a couple of months hence.

Nick Flatley

Both Boston clubs had offers for their pitchers but all such were turned down for the simple reason that the bids were very lop sided. Bob Quinn had half a dozen chances to give away Ed Morris while the Braves [illegible] a lot of the boys liked was Harry Seibold.

Bob and the Judge would let chuckers go, if the return would help their ball clubs. Robert might even part with Morris, a real star, if he could get a regulation big league shortstop, who could hit, in return.

THE pursuit of Seibold was surprising, but if you recall Harry had a habit of beating the good clubs, like the Cubs and Giants. The winning managers like to pick up the obstacles in their path to glory.

Seibold, who is well into his thirties, was a wonder in his first year as a big league pitcher. With a smart, hustling team back of him, there's no telling how high he might have soared.

He's a brainy, cagey veteran who hasn't too much stuff but what's better, great control of such as he owns and a whale of a baseball head on his shoulders. Harry would help the Braves another season, beyond a doubt, but the club has pretty good pitching and could afford to let one sharpshooter go if the process would strengthen the catching or outfielding departments.

Bob Smith, Cantwell and Ed Brandt were all angled for, but the judge, aided and abetted by his new manager, Will McKechnie, refused to go for any of the bait.

BILL McKECHNIE has given up hope of getting anybody, but the Judge, who has peculiarly persuasive ways with some of his brother magnates, still thinks he may do something. He's willing to gamble with any of the boys if he thinks he's getting any sort of a break.

Red Sox affairs are up in the air and will be more or less that way until the managerial question is settled. Carrigan has promised to give a decision within a few days. It is generally accepted that his answer will be no, William having stated that he was all washed up on baseball, at the end of the last sad season.

Then there is that rumor of a sale of the club, which persists regardless of denials. There's something stirring there, and if anything is going to happen, it will be announced very shortly.

The yarn had a little elaboration during the hours of the joint meeting, the idea being that the deal, if it went through, would see all baseball here going out to Braves Field. The Fenway was to be a real estate proposition.

Both club presidents, though, declared that that was news to them. So now you know as much as we do, about this matter.

THE big leaguers have voted to try to get more men by draft from the minors. Eight comes to each league by the present arrangement, but the boys want to raise the number to 15. They are willing to make concessions to the little fellows to bring this about, but it has to be accepted by the minor association.

The boosters for the plan, owners who have been driven desperate in the last few years trying to get good material without giving the U. S. mint for it, seem to think that the small boys will co-operate with them.

Speaking of the draft reminds

Joe McKenney, Ill With Grippe, Would Not Quit Legion

Joe McKenney, Boston College coach, is back on the job at the Heights after being ill with the grippe. Joe was ill during the Crosscup-Pishon Post football game, last Saturday, but stuck with the team.

On his return home the doctor was summoned and Joe was ordered to bed. Joe was a very sick man for a few days. Sticking to his promise of helping the Legion grid contest is another reason for McKenney's popularity.

HARVARD SIX TO PLAY UNIV. CLUB

Harvard will play University Club at the Arena December 20, according to announcement made by Louis Wadsworth, manager of the Cantabs.

This will be the second game of the season for Harvard, as the Cantabs will open with B. U. in the Arena next Wednesday.

Meanwhile Coach Joe Stubbs of Harvard has ordered his Cantab icemen to take a vacation. After two weeks hard drilling at the Garden, Stubbs thinks the pucksters are due for a rest. They will not practice again until Tuesday.

Although Stubbs has not yet had sufficient opportunity to study his Harvard ice material, he has a rough idea of who his six will be when the Cantabs and the Terriers clash at the Garden.

Elliot Putnam, captain of this year's six, is the outstanding center man on the squad. He is showing aggressive speed and stick work in the daily scrimmages. The wings to be selected by Stubbs are Johnnie Cross, and either Barry Wood, Frank Stubbs or Charlie Lakin.

This Frank Stubbs, brother of the coach, is quite a person on skates. He is starting his first season of varsity hockey and is causing plenty of disturbance among the veterans.

Harvard's goalie situation, although weak, is narrowing down to a competition between Hardy Ellis and Sumner Putnam. Both men are receiving an equal amount of time in the strings, and Stubbs is at a loss to pick the better of the two.

IMPORTANT CHANGES TO BE MADE IN HOCKEY RULES AFTER MANY PROTESTS

By BILL GRIMES

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 13—Protestations against the new code of hockey rules have reached such a stage here, that President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League has called a meeting of the board of governors for next Monday, at which time two important changes will be adopted.

This meeting was originally scheduled for Toronto, but because the Blackhawks are to open in their new home, the Stadium, it was shifted to Chicago. Then came the announcement from Maj. McLaughlin that as he had resigned from the board he was not interested in the meeting. But as the arrangements had been made for the Windy City, President Calder refused to make another change.

After an extensive investigation during which the writer has interviewed prominent fans, magnates, officials and players, it is very evident that the new rules are not getting the support necessary for success.

The outstanding objections center around the rule allowing a player or players to enter the attacking zone before the puck carrier and the lack of protection offered to the goal minders.

During the meeting in New York last September, it was voted to allow forward passing in the attacking zone in order to open up the game by weakening the defense. Then Connie Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs suggested that if

BROWN PREXY PRAISES TEAM

Providence, Dec. 13—Urging the Brown football team to remember that they hold membership in a 12 months' organization and that their actions on and off the campus is just a reflection for good or bad on the whole organization, Coach Tuss McLaughry charged the members of his team with that responsibility at his final appearance before the squad until next fall at the annual Brookhead dinner.

Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of the university, paid tribute to the morale and spirit of the team during a trying season and stressing the training that they have received as an important adjunct to the training of life. Capt. Fud Edwards and Capt. elect Bogarty also spoke briefly.

The dinner was tendered by Fred C. Brookhead of the class of 1905 and officially brought the 1929 football season to a close. Coaches Herrick, Barry, Taylor and Boad of the winter sports teams of wrestling, swimming, hockey and basketball, spoke briefly, outlining the prospects for the respective seasons. John P. Kelleher, recently appointed coach of the varsity baseball team, made his first appearance at a Brown function and was introduced to the undergraduates.

PHELAN COACH AT WASHINGTON

Phelan was reluctant to discuss the salary he will receive at the [illegible] University.

From persons who have been closely associated with Phelan came information indicating that his salary in the new position will be close to $15,000 a year.

Harvard Harriers Re-Elect Aldrich

Capt. Dick Aldrich of the 1929 Harvard cross-country team was re-elected to the captaincy at a meeting of letter-men.

Next year Aldrich, who is a junior now, will be the leader of what promises to be one of Harvard's fastest long-distance teams. It was undefeated in dual meets in the season just past, overwhelming Yale in their annual race, and only one of the squad of sophomores and juniors is expected to return.

Fields Choice Over Jones in Garden Bout Tonight

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

CHAMPION IS TO TRY FOR KAYO

By JACK CONWAY

JACKIE FIELDS, world's welterweight champion, says he will try for a knockout when he battles Gorilla Jones of Akron, O., in a 10-round bout at the Boston Garden tonight.

Jones, who stopped Al Mello, comes right back with the statement he will send the title holder down for the long count. As Gorilla flattened Nick Testo in his last start, he apparently still has plenty of fire left in his right hand sock.

Jack Conway

It will be the second meeting between Fields and Jones since the former grabbed Joe Dundee's welterweight crown. In their previous tussle Fields won the decision after a hectic quarrel on the Coast.

Fields will step to the post a favorite tonight. The speculative element believes that the flashy welterweight boss can lick Jones or anybody else of his own weight.

Fields' title will not be at stake as Jones has agreed to enter the ring above the welterweight notch of 148 pounds.

Fields has been an active campaigner since he won the championship. After his bout with Jones tonight, he will take things easy until after the Christmas holidays when he will start training for a 10-round setto with Young Jack Thompson which will be staged at the Chicago Coliseum on January 17 under the direction of Jack Dempsey.

FIELDS first came to Boston as an amateur. His fine work in the national championships won for him a place on the American Olympic team.

Al Lacy, who helped condition Fields for the Olympics, will be in the champion's corner tonight.

"Fields has changed his style of boxing since he became welterweight champion," said Lacy. "He was always a nifty youngster on his feet and never experienced much trouble in outpointing the opposition. He now parades to close quarters and keeps punching away with both hands.

"Jackie is anxious to knock out Jones. I know Al Mello's friends from Lowell will delight in seeing the champion showering Jones with punches."

JONES is in good condition and is not worrying about the outcome of the match. He intends to set a torrid clip from the gong in the opening round and is of the opinion that he will tip the title holder over if he is able to score with one of his famous right hand wallops.

The first appearance here of Fields as champion against such high class opposition has aroused great interest in tonight's bout. The Garden also made a wise move when it decided to adopt popular prices of $1 to $3. With the Christmas holidays just around the corner, boxing clubs must reduce their price scales to get large crowds.

BACKING up this sterling feature tonight, Buster Brown of Baltimore and Frankie Moore of the North End meet in an eight-round semifinal. In addition, there will be seven four-round bouts.

Scott Fight Films to be Shown Here

Beginning next Monday at the Howard and Bowdoin will be displayed the motion pictures of the recent Scott-Von Porat contest. This is the bout where Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, acted as referee. These pictures will be of real interest, owing to the fact that Scott won on a foul. While the battle was short it was packed with plenty of action.

MEETS GORILLA TONIGHT

Jackie Fields, above, who meets Gorilla Jones in the feature bout at the Garden tonight.

Friedman 10-8 Pick to Beat Rawson

LARRY BIG BOY RAWSON, Dorchester knockout king, will finish training tomorrow at Wamesit for his 10-round battle with Al Friedman at the Arena Monday night.

As the date of the bout approaches, Friedman is becoming a bigger favorite. His experience, his speed, his toughness, and his cleverness have so impressed the curbstone experts that it is probable he will be a 10 to 8 favorite.

Rawson, they say, is an unknown quantity despite his one round knockouts over Jack DeMave, Hambone Kelley and Jone Monte, and despite his record of 22 convincing knockouts in 23 fights. They point out that he has never met a heavyweight of the caliber of Friedman, and they do not think that he will answer the bell for the sixth round.

Despite the predictions of the experts, Mike Carr, manager of Rawson; Al Clemente, his trainer, and Martin Flaherty, proprietor of the Wamesit training camp, are bubbling over with confidence. "The Big Boy will knock out anybody he hits. He'll hit Friedman a couple of good punches, and they'll carry Friedman out just as they carried out everybody Rawson ever fought."

THERE will be more betting on the Rawson-Friedman bout than on any battle staged in a local ring since the famous battle between Young Klobby and K. O Muggsy, many years ago. Rawson is tentatively matched with Ricardo Bertazzolo in three weeks' time. Friedman is signed to box Paulino Uzcudun in Kansas City on Dec. 30. Neither can afford to lose, and so the customers will see a real fight.

Col. Bob McKirdy has come to a definite agreement with the management of the Arena that the ice will be removed for all the shows of his club. Last Monday night, at the amateur show, it was comfortable, and it will be just as comfortable when Friedman and Rawson put up their fists.

McKirdy has lined up a preliminary card that should produce plenty of [illegible] Joe Monte, one belting Brazilian, and Harry Allen, hard-hitting Portugese, will meet for the heavyweight championship of Brockton in the 10-round semi final bout. Like the main bout, another knockout is almost certain to result, for both Allen and Monte are terrific punchers.

TWO more heavyweights, Tom McNeeley of Cambridge and Archie Skinner of Scotland, will meet in a six rounder, and five four-rounders will complete the card. In the four rounders, Lessie Baker of Watertown, formerly national amateur welterweight king will be paired with K. O. Roberts of Fall River, Joe O'Donnell of Roxbury with Ed Pierson of Roxbury, Gus Brown of Canton with Paul Zeramba of South Boston; Pete Herman of Roxbury with Joe Dow of Lawrence, and Gus Russo of Quincy with Sammy Mango of Dorchester.

us that Donie Bush, who will manage the White Sox in the next race, is a great booster for Johnny Nuen, the first baseman gathered by the Braves.

"I saw Johnny for a whole year while I was with St. Paul," Donie told us, "and he looked like one bear of a ball player. He hit .350 all that year, and was one of the niftiest first basemen I ever watched.

"He hits from both sides, and if he can smack that big league pitching at all for the Braves, he ought to be a great man for the club. I'd like to have him myself."

John is the young man who is expected to relegate Sisler to the role of pinch hitter as soon as he works the winter stiffness out of his muscles.

Record Entry List for St. Joe's Show

Due to the tremendous list of entrants for the second elimination event in the New England Golden Glove Amateur Tournament, to be staged in Mechanics Building tomorrow night, "Father Bill" Cuddy, director of the event, announced that the tourney will start at 7 30 o'clock, in order that it may be completed by midnight.

The Golden Glove tourney is attracting tremendous interest throughout New England. The first elimination, out of which eight boxers qualified for the finals, was one of the greatest shows of the year, and tomorrow night, when eight more are to qualify another outstanding amateur show seems assured.

HOCKEY RULES DUE TO BE CHANGED

the board wanted to open things up, why not break them wide open and allow players to enter the attacking zone before the puck carrier.

Without any serious consideration, the board of governors voted this suggestion into the rules and immediately the game became lacrosse on skates.

Up here there has been some fine hockey games, according to no less an authority than President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League. But there has also been two games which left such a bad after impression with the fans as to sound the death knell on the present code.

MAROON-PIRATE GAME FARCE

The Maroon-Pittsburgh game was the worst farce ever perpetrated upon a hockey public and the Detroit-Maroon game was a close second.

Under the new rules, according to everyone in this hot-bed of hockey fans, any defense is at the mercy of a smart offense. The new rules add noticeably to the duties of the officials. They leave goal tenders completely unprotected and have reduced the value of scoring almost to nil.

Unquestionably, after the meeting of the board of governors next Monday two amendments to the present code will be adopted. The puck carrier must be the first player to enter the attacking zone. This rule will eliminate some of the lacrosse from the present game.

At present it is permissible for players to race from the center zone to a position in front or at the side of their opponent's goal without any hindrance. A defending player who interferes in any manner with a player not carrying the puck, is liable to a two-minute penalty.

The players, who reach the attacking zone before the puck carrier, have the same privileges as an inside home in lacrosse. That is they are allowed to a certain extent to hamper the goalie by jockeying around, just so long as they do not block the vision of the goal guardian as a shot is being made.

Smart hockey players are taking up positions at either side of the goals from where they are set perfectly to bat rebounds into the nets before the goalie is able to clear or receive a pass from a team-mate.

Therefore, it can be readily seen that the goal tenders have not a chance against this style of play.

NEW ZONE TO BE MADE

At Monday's meeting, the board of governors will in all probability vote for the adoption of a 10-foot crease in front of the goals. This would do away with much of the present interference with the goal tender's view, and at the same time offer a real chance to clear.

There would be a 10-foot square, running two feet each side of the nets and as far as the present face-off spot.

No player will be allowed in this zone, and any encroachments call for a two-minute penalty. Barring of opponents from this crease will offer the goalie an opportunity to clear and do away with charging the guardians of the nets, which has been so noticeable this season.

Due to the weakness of the present code of rules, the officials are being unmercifully panned this season. They came in for enough criticism in the past, but they are getting it in every game this year. Under the old rules all the officials were required to do during an attack was to watch the puck.

With a two or even a three-man attack it was a simple matter for referees to follow the play. Now, it is possible for nine players to be in the attacking zone, nailing around at a terrific clip and, regardless of the ability of the referees, it is an impossibility to detect every infringement of the rules and at a time when an infraction may be the turning point of a game.

No two officials are capable of watching nine players during the height of an attack. They are at best, only human and while they may watch possibly five or six, the trouble may be staged by one or more of the others.

The powers that be in hockey willingly admit that they were far too drastic with their changes and that the present code has developed the game into shinny or lacrosse on skates.

They allowed themselves to be stampeded and the game has suffered as a consequence. They are now set to rectify matters and the first steps, which will be taken in Chicago on Monday will or should meet with the approval of everyone concerned.

Emanuel to Meet Gagnon at Garden

Armand Emanuel, Los Angeles heavyweight, has been signed to battle Jack Gagnon of this city in the feature 10-round bout of an all-star card at the Boston Garden a week from tonight.

Arthur Flynn of Lawrence will tackle Charley Berlanger of Toronto in another 10. A third 10-round event will bring together Neil Clisby of Los Angeles and Tony Calento of Orange, N. J.

Boxing Team Likely at Harvard in 1930

HARVARD needs only the formal vote of its athletic committee to have a boxing team next year.

In an exclusive interview, William J. Bingham of the H. A. A declared that sufficient interest among Harvard undergraduates would start the ball rolling.

"The move for a Harvard boxing team came up two years ago, after Harvard had staged an informal match with M. I. T." Bingham declared "The meet was highly successful from every standpoint, but strangely enough it was the undergraduate members of the committee who defeated the plan for making boxing an intercollegiate sport here.

BINGHAM WILLING

"I am personally willing to do all that is in my power to further the sport at Harvard," Bingham declared. "If the students express a desire for such a team, the idea will again be put to a vote by the committee. There is every reason to believe that such a measure would go through."

Bingham further pointed out that the new gym, now in the process of erection, has facilities provided for a boxing team. There will be a regulation ring built in the boxing room and all the necessary trimmings.

Larry Conley, popular instructor of boxing at Harvard for many years, pointed out to the reporter that the manly art was attracting more devotees at Cambridge this year than ever before.

OVER 100 IN CLASSES

"Anywhere from 100 to 130 boys work out daily under my supervision," Conley declared. "We have classes of an hour each three times daily, and five times a week. At that we are somewhat overcrowded. In the new gym we expect to be able to accommodate as many more again."

Harvard's sole ring fiesta is held annually in the spring. At this time graduates and undergraduates of the University are equally eligible to compete in the various divisions.

The show, being the only one of its kind, draws a packed house at Hemenway gym every year.

Harvard and Terrier Fives Clash Tonight

FRIDAY the 13th will prove unlucky for some one tonight as Harvard and Boston University open the basketball season in Hemenway Gymnasium, Cambridge.

Both teams are bubbling over with confidence. Harvard has a fast moving quintet, while B. U. has an aggragation of veterans to face the Crimson. There ought to be fireworks for the fans before the evening is over.

The Cantab forward line has three rangey, fast players in Pooch Mahady at right forward, Captain Howie Wenner at left forward, and Max Pierce at center.

B. U. is no less well off with Nims, Mareno and Young making up a trio of smart basketeers.

Coach Ed Wachter, dean of basketball coaches at Harvard places Thomas "Flash" Nido at right guard. Nido, although a great scoring threat will have his work to do when he plays against Barry of B. U.

Young Jud Rex, stocky Crimson left guard will face Stearns of B. U. on the other side of the court. Rex will be playing his third season on the court and is a rugged defence man. He was a former North Shore star schoolboy player.

Both teams have been practicing for over a month for this opening game, and with each team out for a win, the fur ought to fly. This game will be the fourth in a row of openers for the Cantabs and Terriers.

WILKINS COVERS FIRST LAP TO ROSS SEA

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition

[illegible]

Melchior Harbor, Antarctica, Dec. 13 (Via S. S. Melville and KUP San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—The first lap of our Ross Sea journey has been made!

Twelve hours steaming from Deception Island through fog has brought us to clear weather and Melchior Harbor. We are now 1?0 miles southwest of our main base.

After being held up two full days by bad weather finally cleared Deception Island which had been blanketed by dense fog. And we are now on our way to a suitable spot to take off for a flight over Ross Sea.

PLANE RIDE EASILY

Our Lockheed plane [illegible] the afterdeck of the [illegible] Scoresby, [illegible] came from Deception [illegible] ship has been specially [illegible] for it.

The plane rode the deck easily during the 12-hour journey despite heavy rolling seas.

As we entered the harbor, we were greeted with a noise like thunder. It was a great iceberg caving off, breaking up.

We will anchor here a short time and then proceed to Port Lokroy.

In one of the adventures we encountered while preparing the Scoresby for the trip Cheeseman, Porter, Holt and myself were blown out into the harbor while transporting the airplane [illegible] Angle [illegible] the vessel.

We had loaded the plane on a lighter ready for transporting to the S. S. Scoresby. Inadvertently the buy ropes were loosed and the lighter driven by a strong wind drifted into the harbor.

CRASH AVERTED

A crash appeared inevitable as it bore down upon the vessel moored at the shore. The whaler motorboat, usually to be depended upon in emergencies, fouled its propeller on some obstruction as it started to the rescue and was rendered helpless.

Cheeseman, Porter, Holt and myself, who were on the lighter, steered with planks as best we could and managed to guide the cranky craft to the Scoresby.

There willing hands kept the plane wing from being wrecked against the iron vessel. It was a close shave.

After that the loading of supplies went smoothly. We now are all ready to proceed south, seeking a base.

'Texas' Finds More 'Suckers' in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 13.—There are more and better suckers in Chicago than in any other city in the United States, announced Texas Guinan, recognized authority on the subject, here.

That being the case Miss Guinan, with the same mop of yellow hair and the same husky voice which used to entice the customers into her New York play parlor, said she was going to give the New York genus of sucker the go by and open up a night club here.

STAGES DRAMA TO ARREST 2 IN QUINCY

Wallace Landis, 2?, an actor from Toronto, and Miss Fanny Rogers, 2?, a singer, are under arrest pending arraignment in Quincy District Court following a dramatic scene enacted at the behest of Lieut. James H. Whelan of the Quincy police.

It all came about in this manner. Mrs. Landis arrived from Toronto, Canada, and told the lieutenant her husband had deserted her and her eight-year-old child. She also informed Lieut. Whelan that Landis was living in River rd., Houghs Neck.

The police lieutenant and Mrs. Landis went to the River rd. house and found Miss Rogers there alone. Mrs. Landis was left outside while Whelan questioned Miss Rogers, and after winning her confidence learned that Landis was expected at the house at any moment.

Then Whelan stepped from his role as an ordinary police official and assumed the role of a director, arranging the scene where his trap was to be sprung and giving instructions to the two actors.

ARRANGES CHAIRS

[illegible] Mrs. Landis to Miss Rogers. Then he arranged the furniture in the parlor of the house, pushing a big armchair in the corner of the room with its back to the door. In this chair he told Mrs. Landis to be seated. She obeyed. Then he placed a chair near the table in the center of the room. Here he instructed Miss Rogers to take her seat. He warned Miss Rogers that she was not to make any scene and was to greet Landis upon his arrival in the usual manner.

Then he hurried to the front door, instructing Mrs. Landis just before he [illegible] that she was to remain seated in the armchair until he [illegible] her cue to step forward and complete the little drama.

A few minutes after outlining the parts the women were to play an automobile pulled up outside the house. From the machine stepped Landis with a smile on his face. Lieut. Whelan greeted him with a glad hand as he entered the hall of the house, and escorted him into the room where the women were.

REAL WIFE APPEARS

In accordance with the police lieutenant's instructions, Miss Rogers greeted Landis in the usual way as he entered the parlor. Landis, suspecting nothing and noticing nothing unusual, gave her a hug and a kiss.

"By the way, is this Mrs. Landis?" asked the lieutenant, indicating Miss Rogers.

Landis replied, "Yes, this is my wife."

The police lieutenant smiled.

"Been married a long while?"

"Yes, about a year." Landis is credited with answering.

Miss Rogers, playing her part correctly, simply smiled and said nothing.

Then the police lieutenant gave Mrs. Landis her cue.

She stepped adroitly, but with fire in her eyes, from her seat and confronted her husband.

The police lieutenant smiled benignly and asked: "And who is this woman, Mr. Landis, may I inquire?"

Then Landis' face dropped, according to the police.

"I'll see a lawyer first before I'll answer that question," he replied.

At police headquarters Landis was booked for deserting his wife and child.

Owns Antiques

Miss Audrey Talcott

OWNS RARE OLD CANDLESTICKS

Miss Audrey Talcott of London is exhibiting the only known set of eight antique English silver candlesticks in the world at the Hotel Statler where the first Boston Antique Exposition closes this evening.

These candlesticks are each marked with the two suns used by Matthew Bolton, one of the three early masters of Sheffield silver. They are beaded on rims and bases with the sterling silver that characterizes the work of this artisan. The eight candlesticks are valued at $350.

Miss Talcott is the visitor who reported the loss of her purse containing $250 in U. S. money and $125 in English currency from her booth. Her small collection of old English silver is valued at $5000.

POISON RUM IN BOSTON FOR HOLIDAYS

Federal agents and police are preparing to combat the flow of poison liquor into Boston for the holidays.

The officials are prepared to cope with the situation and a sharp watch will be maintained on questionable resorts and it was hinted today that "secret police" will begin to function throughout the city to obtain evidence against speakeasies.

With the death of a young woman here from alcoholism the police fear that already there is a large supply of poisonous liquor in the city.

The woman was dead when she was taken to the City Hospital and at once the police started an investigation in the hope of tracing the source of the liquor. The woman has not been identified.

This is the first case of the death of a woman from poor liquor for some time. During the last several weeks, however, a number of men have died suddenly from that cause. Some of the victims, it was learned, had been frequenters of speakeasies.

A few weeks ago Supt. Crowley issued a warning stating that an effort would be made to bring a large shipment of rum into Boston and he ordered the police to watch all incoming trucks, while the harbor police scrutinized suspicious-looking craft coming up the harbor. At the time the superintendent said that information received by the police indicated that a large part of the liquor was deadly poison.

The federal and local police will be unusually active from now until after the holidays and every effort will be made to see that Boston has a dry Christmas.

Grange Wants State Police Force in N. H.

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 13—Resolutions passed at the New Hampshire Grange session, call for the establishment of an adequate State police force, for prompt and equitable settlement by the State of damage to crops and fruit trees by protected game, for an increased appropriation of the State publicity bureau, and for adoption of the tax reform measures recommended by the interim tax commission, provided their program meets the approval of the Supreme Court.

BOSTON RETAIL TRADE SHOWS INCREASE

Statistical facts and opinions of leading Boston retailers tend to show that the buying power of Boston's public has not been visibly affected by the recent stock market crash. Christmas shopping has been entirely satisfactory to store owners.

Federal reserve figures show that for the week of November 25 the business of Boston department stores increased by 2½ per cent over the business for the corresponding period of 1928.

The women's apparel shops showed a 9.4 per cent increase over 1928 for the last week of November. For the first week in December, department stores showed an increase of 2 per cent over the corresponding period last year and women's apparel shops a 11 per cent increase.

The figures for November as a whole show a slight decrease this year from last—0.4 per cent for department store and 1.4 per cent for women's apparel shops.

Merchants believe that this is partly or largely due to the unseasonably warm weather during the early part of the month. If it was partly the result of hesitation on account of financial uncertainty, the hesitation, for the time being at least, has definitely passed.

Retailers have found Christmas shopping up to the anticipated peak. As for the near future, most of them are unwilling to predict, but this seems to be because prognostication is always dangerous—as dangerous now, but no more so as at any other time.

There is a profound optimism among the store men concerning the long term future of New England industry, it is likewise generally believed among them that New Englanders, with their inborn prudence and conservatism, have probably suffered fewer actual losses than persons in other parts of the country.

Friday, 13th, Brings Hull $3000 Fire

Friday the 13th was the date of first fire in Hull since the big Nantasket fire, an alarm being sounded for fire which destroyed an unoccupied two-family wooden dwelling on Revere st., owned by Nazzareno Devito.

Fireman prevented the fire from spreading to another house and a garage. The house is in the center of the summer residential section. Damage was estimated at $3000.

Seek Companion of Missing Man

Dover, N. H., Dec. 13—Little progress has been reported in the hunt for Harold E. Winn, local candy salesman, who dropped out of sight after being seen conversing with another man at the stairway entrance to the Bellamy Club.

I. W. Dearborn of Boston, Mrs. Winn's brother, who is directing the search, said that search for the other man is being made.

Speakeasy Sleuth Got $850 Expenses

New York, Dec. 13—The inside story of how a prohibition agent, working for what dry advocates then called starvation wages, managed to collect $850 in expense accounts during two months, began to unfold before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard.

The case was that of George Lederer, assigned to sniff out speakeasies in Brooklyn during 1926, and now on trial on charges of defrauding the government.

Human Heart Is Made to Take Own Picture

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP).—The human heart has been exhibited as its own photographer at a demonstration of a new X-ray device at the Franklin Institute.

An electrical engineer and a roentgenologist of the University of Pennsylvania have perfected the apparatus, which scientists predict will revolutionize X-ray detection and supervision of disease in the upper portions of the human body.

The device was invented by Charles E. Weyl, assistant professor of the Moore school of electrical engineering, University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. F. McPhedran, roentgenologist of the Harry Phipps Institute, collaborated with him in its perfection.

The instrument is said greatly to reduce variation in X-ray photographs which hampered physicians in making accurate pictures of conditions in the lungs and heart, which always are in motion.

By an elaborate system of electrical connections, percussion instruments, mirrors, fans and electric lights, the heart is made to take pictures of itself and the lung cavity at any point in their cycle of movement that the doctor may desire.

The device is known as the "pulse relay." A rubber bulb similar to those used by photographers to open and close a camera shutter is cut diagonally across and left open. This open bulb remnant then is pressed against the carotid artery in the throat in such a way as to make the pulse beat it like a finger squeezing air through the rubber tube which runs to the relay box and electrical amplifier.

In explaining the working of the instrument, Dr. McPhedran said that at every pulse beat electrical contacts were made which refracted light on mirrors, which in turn set off a chain of electric connections that resulted in exposure of the X-ray plates on the illuminated heart and lungs at regular intervals.

Careful use of the device, he said, would make possible the photographing of the heart at any stage of its movement after the elapse of any amount of time.

3 CITIES FIGHT FLAMES IN EVERETT

Firemen of three cities fought a flash fire which burst through three floors of the Charles H. Spaulding & Co. knitting mill on Spaulding st., Everett.

Two alarms were sounded for this fire and while the Everett department was fighting it, a single alarm for a flash of flame at the Beacon Oil Co. plant called firemen and apparatus from Revere, Chelsea and Malden.

At the Spaulding st. blaze the firemen were told it was a small fire in the boiler room but when the door leading to that section was opened the flames burst forth on all three floors, which they had reached before discovery.

Because of the lint and other flimsy stuff in the place and which fed the flames and created a dense smoke, firemen were unable to enter the mill and fought the fire through windows. After three hours the fire was controlled.

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 13. Dartmouth's new indoor hockey rink will serve as a landmark for planes, it was learned when workmen began to paint "Dartmouth College" on the roof of the rink.

The letters will be about 20 feet in height and will extend the whole length of the roof.

HAITI QUIET, STILL UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dec. 13. The Island Republic of Haiti which has furnished for several years one of the most difficult problems of American foreign policy in the West Indies, was less strictly patrolled by American marines and Haitian gardes, but martial law continued in force.

Colonel Evans, commanding the national garde, said he believed martial law would be in force for some time, although he could set no definite term to it.

The fact that the presidential elections are coming in April has already set the political pot to boiling and there is a crowded field of candidates. The strike in the schools and the customs service has been checked for the moment.

Arrests still are being made and the curfew law is rigidly enforced. Seventeen Haitians were arrested by the garde and later released with orders to leave the city.

Prison Bureau Bill Before Congress

Washington, Dec. 13. Chairman Graham of the House judiciary committee introduced a bill to provide for a reorganization of federal prison administration through the establishment of a bureau of prisons in the Department of Justice.

HAIR grows at the rate of three-eighths to three-fourths of an inch each month. Before a new hair appears on the scalp, for instance, it may take as long as 50 to 70 days. Hair restorers are sometimes dangerous. Care should be taken in their use.

DON'T BE ARTIFICIAL OR SELF-CONSCIOUS

May Be Overcome in Time, Says Noted Psychologist

BY LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Dr. L. E. Bisch

HAVE you [illegible]

[illegible] The w[illegible] was [illegible] nervous [illegible] to be composed and well-balanced in her more natural moods.

This sort of self-consciousness is a fault of many people.

To be sure they may overcome it, but often their real true selves are permitted to be revealed only when it is too late. And first impressions are [illegible]

The most vivid mental pictures are the [illegible] very first [illegible]

Try to [illegible] from the very start!

Don't be [illegible] what people are [illegible]. Act naturally [illegible] are. Forget [illegible] introduced. Pretend [illegible] your [illegible] self-consciousness! Practice, in its stead, self-assurance.

[illegible] of artificial behavior, [illegible] the "I'm [illegible]" attitude.

If [illegible] are introduced to someone and he or she in question has heard heard so many [illegible] things about you, has been longing to meet you for years, considers this meeting a momentous occasion, etc., etc., well, it [illegible] all right, but in your heart you know full well such talk is [illegible]

You [illegible] safely distrust people who [illegible] that way, who [illegible] with flattery.

What [illegible] relationship needs as much as anything is naturalness.

Cut out shams, artificiality, pre[illegible]

If an individual hasn't the real stuff in him, if he's merely a bluff at best, he's certain to be found out in the end anyway.

Don't create the suspicion of bluff.

So many people, for no good reason at all, act as though they had something to hide. They are timid, embarrassed and afraid. They are so eager to be well thought of that they become clumsy of speech and movement and in the end make a worse impression than they possibly could have made had they deliberately [illegible]

It may take practice to overcome artificiality, but it is worth doing. Self-consciousness is responsible for much unhappiness and many men and women shun social contacts because of it.

Let your behavior always be natural. Never be artificial.

Two-in-One-Girl -:- -:- -:-

DRAWN BY
Nell Brinkley

"BRIGHT angel Monday; dark divvy-angel Tuesday; haloed Wednesday, horned Thursday, good baby Friday; ba-a-ad baby Saturday. And Sunday—just my best girl, be she dark or bright—angel or divvil. That's my girl!"

Like Cleopatra of the hair that nobody agrees upon—some say gold, some black, some red—but whose eyes and learning and fascination there has never been any dispute about my girl is unchanging in her infinite variety. Perhaps that's why I come back Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, AND Saturday, AND Sunday. Perhaps I am only coming, curious to see WHO I will find at her house this time. Perhaps that's why I never make a wide jaw—ho, hum!—when I'm with HER. Perhaps that's why my legs carry me her way when the sun goes down, why I get heart failure—if that's what you call a kind of breathless suspense—toward five o'clock p. m., why I find all trains earth-worm slow and buses like tortoises for speed.

When Love grows older, if he's still at my house, his food will be a more substantial thing. But just now he feeds upon the deliciousness of a rounded chin, the sound of a laugh and a song—but chiefly upon anticipation of change.

And my rose of the world can change. She is a Burbank rose—half one thing and half another. She is more than Burbank-rose—she is half one thing and half another in the morning and neither of those two colors in the afternoon!

She will fall upon my neck and wind herself around my heart, and admire another pretty girl in the twilight. And she will not speak to me, will be as far off as the sun itself, and will glower at that same pretty girl's name in the moonlight of that same eve.

Hi, ho for my girl. She is my two-in-one girl. My dark girl with a silver lining. My dark spirit of trouble. HEART-trouble.

NELL BRINKLEY.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Elsie Robinson

IT'S a common enough story . . . perhaps that's why it touches one so.

He's thirty-five . . . married . . . three kids. Last year he was running a small neighborhood theatre . . . doing pretty well. F[illegible] suddenly he got sick of it. All his life he'd been bo[illegible] dirty [illegible] and seeing sordid city sights. Now his youngsters were growing up that way, too. His little girls would be flirting around wearing fake jewelry, living fake lives. His boy, maybe, would be one of those patent leather sheiks. He couldn't stand the thought of it . . . it got his goat.

Suppose he broke away . . . took them with him? Got a little place down country? He'd never farmed, but there couldn't be anything very hard about farming . . . other fellows were making a go of it. Perhaps he wouldn't make as much as he could in a movie, but they'd be really living at last.

Well, he did it. Of course every one raised Cain . . . said he'd fail . . . pitied his poor wife and kids. But they couldn't budge him. It was the only big idea that had ever come to him . . . his one glimpse of Truth. If you're religious you might call it his one glimpse of God.

(You'd be surprised to know how many tired business men get glimpses like that.)

He's been there over a year now, and he has certainly had a tough time of it. He's still sure that it was a great idea and he feels that if he can hold on, he'll make a success of it. But the other night he got the blues and he sat down and wrote me how discouraged he was. Said that he didn't know himself why he wrote to me, a total stranger . . . but he was "sunk so low" he couldn't talk to anyone else. "Seems like everything has failed me," he cried. "Maybe I was crazy to tackle it."

Hundreds of letters like that come. They're not really written to me at all, though they bear my address. They're a cry in the dark. They usually come from people who are trying to do something fine—but unpopular. People who are trying to write or study music after working hours . . . or who've cut loose from some bad environment and are gnawed by loneliness. People who've seen some glimpse of Truth or Beauty . . . then lost it, temporarily, in the fog.

Mighty few of us but have known that hour!

When it comes to me I clutch at the memory of those who are going or have gone through it, too . . . like you'd clutch a hand . . .

There's that story they tell of the Christ. He, too, had His big glimpse and made the sacrifice. In spite of our twistings, that record remains immortally beautiful. I am sure that He felt that it was worth all that it cost Him. And yet even He had His black hour. Just before the end everything seemed to fail Him and He gave that terrible cry, "My God! My God! Why hast thou forsaken me?"

That sense of loneliness and defeat—it's part of the price one pays for a glimpse of the Truth. If one can think of it that way, as a price rather than a punishment, it helps.

Try Love's Strategy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

I met a boy five years ago and it seemed to be love at first sight. I went with him about four years, then he didn't care for me any more. I thought I would leave him for a while and see if he would come back, which he did.

My girl friend and I had a quarrel, so I went with my other girl friend to the movies. One of the boys and his girl friend were there, sitting with my boy friend. I thought he would sit with me, but he did not. The girl I had quarreled with came in and sat next my boy friend. Her boy friend then came in and talked to me.

Soon my boy friend and the girl I had quarreled with came and sat right back of us. She began giving me digs, as people say, and my boy friend would tell her, "That's right—rub it in."

After the show they went to the park and didn't ask me. I still love this boy. Will you please advise me what to do?

BROKEN-HEARTED BLOND.

WHY do you not try your own successful strategy once more, my dear, and leave your "boy friend" alone "for a while" to see if he will come back? Like little Bo-Peep's sheep, a young man sometimes does come back when he is left alone for a while.

If you make scenes, and nag, or cry until your eyes and nose are red, or say mean things about the girls and boys, you will make matters worse. Instead, look your prettiest, act your sweetest, and treat them—well, a little casually but with amused good humor when you see them. And go your way serenely. I suspect that you are all very young, indeed, from your letter, and that before this reply reaches you all your quarrels will be made up and forgotten. I hope so, good luck to all of you—and don't quarrel.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There is a man I meet occasionally. From his appearance I admire him very much, although I am not acquainted with him. There is no one I can ask to introduce me to him. Will you tell me of some other way of becoming introduced?

HOPEFUL.

I AM sorry to discourage you, Hopeful, but the only wise and safe way of making the acquaintance is through an introduction by a friend who knows him well enough to assume responsibility for him as an acquaintance.

to flee. She half crouched on her elbow, half pulled herself upright when one of the men sprang about. Almost as though he read her thought.

She dropped back to the bench. But he came and stood over her. He stooped down and peered in Pat's face. He pulled open her eyelids, pushed her further into the corner, stacked more cans in the cabin.

They were cans of gasoline. Now the motor was started. Now they were taking off.

Rising again! Soaring into wild, impenetrable mystery. She called in loud desolation. Her voice went down in the roar of the engine. But still she cried. She stood up and screamed piteously.

The men in the cockpit did not even turn. Then Pat huddled in a corner and, frantic, repeated over and over: "Oh mother—oh God!"

As though her shouting, her desperate sobs would halt these mad, flying miles—miles that went plunging between her and all things she knew and loved.

Suddenly words stuck in her throat. And she cowered with a strange, creepy, utterly haunting sensation. Something moved against her flesh. She reached out and gingerly touched a bundle that lay on the seat beside her. The bundle moved under her hand. The bundle was alive!

She was starkly alert now, her pulses leaping with terror. Crimes she had read about flashed into her mind. "Then I took a piece of cold steel and hit him on the head. We hid the body in the culvert." And that other: "I kept her two days. Then I came up behind her and threw the towel over her face. I pulled it until she grew quiet!"

These horrible phrases made her cringe. And her heart went with striking thumps high in her throat. The bundle moved again.

"It's little," she thought, keeping her eyes straight ahead and trying resolutely to ignore the mysterious, animated object wrapped in a blanket and lying there on the bench, so close that she felt its every quiver.

Now, mingled with the roar of the engine, she fancied she heard cries. And now, forced in spite of herself to stare at it, she saw, protruding from the opposite end of the blanket, the top of a human head. Surely a head! Surely that was soft human hair.

She was about to reach out and pull down the blanket when one of the men stepped from the cockpit into the cabin. He was tall and thin. He had a lean, strong jaw and cold, piercing eyes. What daunted Pat was his mouth, his grim, unscrupulous mouth.

He looked straight into her eyes, went to the corner where Guy had the radio and attached the tubes to his ears. He sat with his legs crossed, listening intently, but his glance never moving from Pat's face.

She grew used to his presence. Impelled by a sudden recklessness, she leaned forward and shouted "Where are we going?"

He appeared not to have heard though he knew from the movement of her lips what she asked. He continued sitting there. Hours—long, appalling hours, they seemed to pat. Occasionally a faint, triumphant smile lit up his scornful face.

What word was flashing over the radio? What news that cheered him in this bold, incredible crime? Surely the wires of a dozen states must be hot with inquiries for the vanished Patricia Dawn. How frantic Laura would grow as the hours piled up between them.

Pat glanced at her watch. Eleven o'clock. This must be 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. A thousand miles might already lie between her and home. She might never see the loved ones again.

They flew on, cutting with clamor and tumult over vast, undulating reaches of meadow land. In the distance were blue peaks, luminous in the sun. She had no idea where they were, north or south, whether this was California or whether in the night they had crossed the borders of the State. Great, singing valleys unrolled beneath them. The farms looked like bunches of parsley and the cows were brightly painted little toy cattle meandering down the hills.

In those farms were contented folk, sitting down to the mid-day meal now. If she could but scream down to them. Or if they, looking up, could but guess the fearful, unknown doom to which she was plunging.

She seemed to have been flying years through this droning roar. All the while aware, sickeningly aware of the blanketed form moving so uneasily against her side. She made out the contour of the head and wondered if it were a child. Whose child? What do these evil fellows plan? Would they make away with it? And with her? Had they half killed it already? She stared into clear blue heavens, her very veins dilated with fright.

All at once, Pat sat bolt upright. In the same lightning instant, the man at the radio pulled the tubes from his ears and jumped to the cockpit.

There—sweeping right upon—flashing in the crystalline sky was a plane. Two planes! Great, white-gleaming birds.

Pat pressed her face to the window. She trembled wildly. She said aloud, and sobbing. "Look! Oh, God—they gain!"

The Truth

ABOUT GRACIOUS PEOPLE
By ELINOR GLYN

Elinor Glyn

LET us suppose, Gracie and Maude, that you live in a tiny home town, where you have very few chances of comparison, but you have a desire to make yourselves into refined ladies.

You must begin by determining to speak correctly and make your voices sound agreeable to the ear.

Then you must think about your manners and be polite to every-one, even when circumstances are difficult and upsetting.

I remember going to tea at the little apartment of a sweet girl who worked in a shop. A friend of hers was already there—reclining in the best chair. She never rose to greet her hostess or me.

She showed, during the hour I remained, an insolent casualness which an eastern potentate might have displayed before his subjects. My little friend was very uncomfortable and came out with me to apologize for her.

"She thinks that's grand," she said, "and that she's showing you and me that we have not on up on her!"

The poor girl, far from convincing us that she was superior, only showed that she was very common herself, and did not even know the simplest rules of society.

Remember, Gracie and Maude, refined persons are always gracious, they can be as aloof as they please, but never condescending.

They must think of the comfort of guests if they are receiving—and must never be insolent to fellow-guests if they are visitors also.

How Best to Address Christmas Cards

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct to address a Christmas card to Mr. and Mrs. Johnathan Smith and family?

F. T.

NO, it is never correct to use the term "and family" in an address for a greeting card, letter, or for an invitation or announcement of any kind.

The phrase "and family" on an envelope is too inclusive a term to give individual honor to the members of the family besides Mr and Mrs. Now the reason that we send greeting cards is to pay seasonal compliments to the friends to whom they are sent. Therefore if the form we are using does not accomplish this, we of course should not wish to use it, and should discard it.

Although this very definite rule of not using the inclusive term "and family" may to some people seem at first a hardship, it needn't be, if it is considered practically.

First, let us consider the ideal thing to do: this is, of course, to address one greeting card to "Mr. and Mrs." and then address a separate card to every other member of the family whom we wish to greet.

"But," some people will at once object, "that takes a great many cards, more than I have or can afford." Very well, then, let's use the substitute: address the card to the various members of the family by indicating them individually; gauge your spacing carefully and perhaps make your writing smaller so that the envelope will not look crowded.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I am going to a dance this week-end with a boy I know but never have gone out with. When he comes to call for me, should I say, "It's very nice of you to take me," or shall I wait until we return from the dance.

2—What shall I say when a boy comes to ask me for a dance while I am talking to my escort? Should I say something to my escort?

SWEET SIXTEEN.

IT would be gracious and polite for you to say something of the sort that you suggest. Perhaps "It's very nice of you to ask me to go to the dance" would be a bit better than "take me" to the dance. Don't you think? Or, "I am so happy at the thought of going to the dance," or any other amenity that would make your escort feel your appreciation.

2—The boy who is asking for the dance will ask you first, and then should say something like "Do you mind?" to your escort. Then you say, to your escort, as you leave for the dance, "Will you excuse me?" or something that politely "makes your excuses."

Some Christmas Cookies

Martha Lee

FRUIT COOKIES remind us of grandmother's cookie jar, which sat in the cool recesses of the pantry, and to which we were wont to go much more often than the poor harassed lady wanted us to.

These cookies sometimes contained raisins and nuts, sometimes they had merely a glistening top of sugar, but always they were crunchy and good. How we longed, when children, to have a perennial feast from this cookie jar, how vehemently we then proclaimed that if we ever grew up we'd have a cookie jar of our own which would never fail to be filled!

Our modern cookie jar comes in sanitary wrapped boxes of sweet crackers, in tins filled with goodies, and in quick home-made bakings which are usually eaten before they can be stored away in a space-saving cookie jar, which is usually a tin container, on which the cover fits tight.

SCOTCH PEACH CAKES

Cream 1/3 cup shortening and 1/2 cup sugar, then add well-beaten egg. Press enough canned peaches, fruit and syrup through a sieve to make 1-3 cup puree. Add to first mixture. Add 1½ cups pastry flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. soda and a few grains of salt sifted together. Add 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal. Chill. Drop by small spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Leave 2 inches between, as they will spread. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for about 10 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen.

ALMOND APRICOT SQUARES

Cream ⅓ cup shortening and ½ cup sugar. Add 1 well-beaten egg, then ¼ cup apricot puree, made by pressing stewed apricots, fruit and syrup through a sieve. Add 2 cups pastry flour, ¼ tsp. soda, few grains of salt, sifted together. Stir in 2-3 cup finely chopped, blanched almonds. Chill well, roll very thin, and cut in squares. Place on a greased sheet. Will not spread. Bake at 400°, a hot oven, for 8 or 9 minutes. Makes 5 or 6 dozen.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

FIRST SENIOR SUPPER DANCE IS TONIGHT

THE FIRST SENIOR SUPPER DANCE of the year is being held this evening at the Copley-Plaza where there is sure to be a brilliant assemblage of Boston's elite. Many are entertaining at dinner and the theater before going on to the dance. Mr. [illegible] of Fay State [illegible] of these. In her party [illegible] Marquis Agostino [illegible] former [illegible] general, who, with the Marchioness Ferrante [illegible] down from their home in Ottawa, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Gorham Brook. IN HONOR OF HER DEBUTANTE daughter Miss Helen Warren, Mrs. Samuel Dennis Warren is to be the hostess tonight at a dinner in her home on Marlborough st. to about 80. About 200 more have been invited to come in in the evening for the dancing. Quite a number of older people will be at this dance. Of this number are Mr. and Mrs. George Saltonstall West and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson.

MEMBERS OF THE VERY young set, sub-debutantes and even younger, are anxiously awaiting the Christmas holidays, for that is the time of year when the attention of society centers itself on them. December 21 is a red letter day for them, as one of the Whitney Hall assemblies, the second in a series of six sponsored by Mrs. Foden Cabot of River st., will take place. A number of dinner parties, whose guests will go on to this affair, have already been planned, including ones to be given by Mrs. J. Mott Shaw of Concord, Mrs. John Richardson of Milton and Mrs. Francis A. Harding of Chestnut Hill. Mrs. Harding is giving the ushers dinner as Mrs. Stoughton Bell is unable to give it on account of illness. The remaining four dances are to take place Saturdays, January 11, February 15, March 22 and May 3. Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. J. Colby [illegible], Mrs. Stoughton Bell, Mrs. Charles Collens, Mrs. Ma[illegible] Fabyan and Mrs. Malcolm B. Stone are the patronesses for these parties.

ANOTHER SET OF DANCES enjoyed by this same set of young people is that known as the "Fisher Hills." The next one falls on Friday, January 3, at the Brookline Country Club. The last of the group comes on April 26. The list of matrons sponsoring these dances includes Mrs. Theodore O. Barnard, Mrs. Arthur E. Grannis, Mrs. Frederick Holdsworth, Mrs. E. Douglas Mercer, Mrs. A. Eliot Richie, Mrs. F. R. Carnagie Steele, Mrs. Miles W. Weeks and Mrs. Stanwood C. Wellington.

AT A TEA IN THEIR COMmonwealth ave. residence yesterday afternoon, Mrs. James Montgomery Newell presented her daughter Miss Alice Blake Newell, a debutante of this season, and her daughter-in-law Mrs. James Montgomery Newell Jr. The latter's sisters, Miss Austin Sayre and William Sayre of Essex Falls, N. J., were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newell. Mrs. Howland Seabury, who entertained recently in Miss Newell's honor at a dinner at the Chilton Club was in charge of the tea tables. Those pouring included Miss Jesamina Gordon, Mrs. Benjamin Tenney, Mrs. Roger Converse, Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Miss Isabella Grandin, Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike, Mrs. Henry C. Stetson, Mrs. Charles A. White, Mrs. John Yerxa, Miss Caroline Wildrick, Mrs. Sumner Andrew, Mrs. Blake Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Sanders, Miss Laetitia Orlandini, Miss Elizabeth Hobbs, Miss Anne Frothingham, Miss Josephine L. Sturgis, Miss Nancy Fitzwilliams, Miss Mary D. Cleveland, Miss Helena Thompson, Miss Elizabeth Holmes, Miss Elsa Ogden, Miss Ethel Grew, Miss Elizabeth Bossley, Miss Ruth Lovering, Miss Jean Lamont Proctor, Miss Mary Cool and Miss Mary D. Chase. The debutantes in this group were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. George W. Vaillant at her home on Commonwealth ave.

Rebecca Benson Susan Bradlee

Junior League Players take the boards at the Elizabeth Peabody House in their presentation of "Beauty and the Beast." Miss Susan Bradlee plays the part of "Gupilka," and Rebecca Benson that of "Ayesha." Both girls are busy reading the script.

"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST" and "Little Black Sambo" are being presented by the Junior League Players today at 4:30 p. m. at the Elizabeth Peabody House on Charles st. Two more performances will be given on the morrow, one in the morning, the other in the afternoon. Three different groups of League girls are to usher during these two days. All, however, will receive their orders from Miss Anne Clifford, as head usher. Today's group is comprised of Miss Rosamond Holton, Miss Elizabeth Hobbs, Miss Elizabeth Hamlin, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Miss Alison Towle and Miss Priscilla Bramhall.

MANY BOSTONIANS ARE considerably interested in the New York ice carnival, entitled "In the Land of the Midnight Sun." This splendid entertainment is to be presented in Madison Square Garden, January 6, as a benefit for the New York Music Week Association. Irving Brockaw will be king of the carnival. Among the Bostonians to perform in the skating events are Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard, Mrs. C. Frothingham and Frederick Church. Sherwin C. Badger of Scarsdale, N. Y., and formerly of Boston partnering with Miss Beatrix Loughran, is among the skating Adagio dancers. The carnival promises to be a particularly popular one, over half of the boxes having already been sold.

TWO JUNIOR LEAGUE members have fo[illegible] lure of department store life and have secured positions in a store on Tremont st., where a number of other society girls have been working for some time. One is Miss Marguerite Wentworth, Vincent Club member, whose social bow was made several seasons ago. Her position consists of directing people about the shop. Just which department Miss Elizabeth Loveland is in I am uncertain.

MISS KATHARINE C. GRAY daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham Gray of Beacon st., who has been studying singing for some time both here and in Europe, is to make her debut on the concert stage in January, which is great news to all her admirers. Her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cunningham Gray, Jr. are living on Lake View ave., Cambridge. Before her marriage last April, Mrs. Gray, Jr., was Miss Priscilla Rothwell of Bay State rd.

GOOD DIVIDEND ACTIONS ARE IGNORED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Good dividend actions by numerous [illegible] were [illegible] selling [illegible] prices [illegible] advance [illegible] Local reaction becomes due. We called attention of readers the first of the week that the market would do the unexpected if it long continued its spectacular upside performances of recent days. Wall and State Streets heard a good deal of talk about a rise until Christmas" but there was no solid foundation in that upon which to base wild hope of quick profits. Many stocks are decidedly cheap in Wall Street but there is nothing to justify another orgy of speculation such as has been witnessed.

Discussing Pennroad Corp., which was recently reported to have acquired control of the Boston & Maine, a State st. broker says: "This company issued rights to stockholders of record October 18 last to purchase at $16.50 per share new stock in the ratio of one share for each two held. In addition to a controlling interest in the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton R. R. the company is said to have acquired a substantial amount of stock in Raritan River R. R. connecting the Pennsylvania and Jersey Central roads near the Metropolitan terminal area. Quite recently it was announced that the road had acquired control of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway Co. from the Taplin interests.

"As has been the case with other acquisitions details of purchase price, etc., were not made available. Very recently it was reported that the company had acquired a substantial interest in Boston & Maine R. R., believed to be a 10 per cent to 15 per cent interest purchased through acquisition of voting preferred stock. It is difficult to analyze Pennroad Corp. stock due to the limited information which has been made available. However because of its strong management we are inclined to feel that the stock at its current price of around 15 has excellent long term possibilities."

Stockholders of the Pennsylvania R. R. were given the right to subscribe to stock of the subject corporation at $15 a share on the basis of one share for every two shares of Pennsylvania held, rights expiring on June 11 last.

The authorized capitalization of the subject company is [illegible] shares of no par value, of which 5,800,000 are now outstanding. Five hundred thousand shares have been reserved against options for the purchase until July 1, 1933, at the following [illegible]

The corporation was organized under Delaware laws in April of this year by the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. and has broad powers. Among other powers it is allowed to invest its funds in securities of any company or other agency including those engaged in transportation of any description on land, water or air, but without power to operate railroads. What the company's investments will comprise is not yet known but it is not improbable that the Lehigh Valley and Wabash holdings of the Pennsylvania R. R. may be included in its portfolio. It is also thought the company may take a position in some of the air transport companies.

In some quarters the idea appears to prevail that Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is going to move right into Boston and start "railroading" from this point. It has been declared that Gen. Atterbury is president of Pennroad. Pennroad's president is H. H. Lee. Gen. Atterbury is a member of Pennroad's board. Stockholders will not overlook the fact that Pennroad is without power to operate railroads.

'FRIDAY 13TH' GIVES THRILLS IN WALL ST.

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

New York, Dec. 13 (AP).—F[illegible] [illegible] provided plenty of [illegible] both [illegible] traders on the New York Stock Exchange today, as prices swung up and down in [illegible] fashion.

The market opened irregular, rallied spectacularly before the end of the first hour, broke sharply before mid-day, rallied and then turned heavy again in the early afternoon when most stocks were selling below yesterday's final quotations.

The wild gyrations apparently reflected the struggle for control of the price movement between opposing speculative forces and was not directly associated with any development in the day's news.

However the increase in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, additional shipments of gold to Europe and the publication of disappointing cement statistics tended to keep in [illegible] buying in check, and discouraged any extensive public participation in the market.

Wall Street also was of the belief that some of today's selling was prompted by the necessity of raising proceeds to pay the last quarterly installment of the federal income tax, which becomes due Monday. In some quarters the increase in brokers' loans was construed as the return of a weak speculative following into the market.

[illegible] traders who sold stock heavily in the last hour of trading yesterday and resumed their selling in some of the specialties at the opening, were driven to cover by the appearance of strong buying support soon after the opening with the result that a long line of issues were carried up 2 to 13 points. The rapidity of the advance, however, brought forth heavy offerings of stock and when prices started to go down again, the "bears" resumed their attacks.

General Electric advanced [illegible] points to 237 and reacted to 226. A. M. Byers 14½ points to 97½ and dropped to 82. J. I. Case jumped 13 points to 200 and fell back to 187½. Columbian Carbon advanced 9 to 179 and slipped to 160½. Standard Gas & Electric was marked up 8⅜ to 122¾ and tumbled to 180. and U. S. Steel common climbed 5½ to 172 and dropped to 161½. Brisk recoveries from the low levels in the early afternoon buying movement occurred.

Meanwhile, Jersey Central dropped 49 points to 251 on a few sales, and Midland Steel Products preferred, Brooklyn Union Gas, Atlas Powder, Otis Elevator, Detroit Edison and Fox Film sold 5 to 13 points below last night's closing quotations, the last named touching a new 1929 low at 34.

The market turned upward decisively in the last hour and several important shares registered large advances. Auburn Auto [illegible] 10 points above the previous close, Western Union 9½, Pullman 3[illegible], Sears Roebuck 5, Radio 1½, and Bethlehem Steel and Republic Service of New Jersey 3½.

Prices generally did not recover to the high figures of the forenoon, but the rallies from the day's low levels were substantial, General Electric rising 14 points. Final dealings saw fresh selling in spots. The close was irregular. Sales approximated 4,500,000 shares.

CHEERFUL ON OUTLOOK

Pres. Arthur E. Blackwood of Sullivan Machinery Co., manufacturer of air compressors, diamond drills and various other types of industrial and mining machinery, says:

"I am optimistic on the 1930 outlook for Sullivan Machinery Co. No cancellations were received during or subsequent to the recent stock market unpleasantness and our business has continued the improvement over 1928. Unfilled booked orders at present are highest on record. As of Dec. 1 they were 3½ times those of the first of the calendar year. Sales for the full year will establish a company record, except only 1920, the year of the post-war boom. There is no sign at this time of either depression or recession and I look for continuance of the prosperity of the past six months. The Claremont plant has been operating at capacity for six months and the Michigan City Plant, for nine months.

"In 1929 new machines have been developed, cost of which has been borne by current earnings and gain from which will accrue largely to future years. They are now in production and will be placed on the market early next year. Whereas 10 years ago Sullivan was largely dependent upon the coal mining industry, today the company is dependent upon no one industry. Use of air compressors is growing rapidly in factories and for road construction. There has been developed practically a new line of core drills for mineral prospecting and for structure testing and production drilling in the oil industry. Approximately one-third of total business is in foreign fields."

Extra Dividend

Security Trust Co. of Lynn declared an extra dividend of 4 per cent ($20 par stock) payable December 16 to stock of record December 13. Dividends paid during 1929 now total 20 per cent, including 12 per cent extra. Dividends for 1928 totaled 16 per cent.

'Human Nature Is Everywhere Same'---Untrue

In Some Cities Business Leaders Co-operate; in Others, Fight

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Dec 13—"Human nature is the same everywhere." That is true and it isn't true.

In certain cities the atmosphere is entirely different from the atmosphere in certain other cities. In one you find an admirable spirit of friendliness among the leading citizens; in another you encounter little but backbiting. In one place you discover an excellent civic spirit, a readiness and eagerness to co-operate for the benefit of the community; in another, each man is out for Number One.

B. C. Forbes

So, it is as untrue as it is true that "human nature is the same everywhere."

I have just had a delightful experience in Detroit.

As you probably know, there is much talk there as to what has happened to this, that and the next automobile giant. Rumor has this one busticated by the stock market, and the next one up against it in his business.

In talks with motor leaders during a visit to America's motor mecca, I did not hear one unkindly word from a single one about any competitor. True, some of them readily admitted that conditions were none too pleasant through overproduction or through the stock market break or through the hesitancy caused by recent events. Henry Ford, for example, remarked to me, "We have a big, hard job ahead of us—a very big job." Other manufacturers confessed they had overproduced and that all dealers were not happy. There was more self-criticism, however, than criticism of the other fellow.

I was particularly impressed by the comments of one General Motors leader concerning another prominent motor man whom rumor has depicted as in a tight place.

"I happen to know," he remarked, "that ——— has millions of dollars out on loan through the banks at this moment. Instead of having been caught overloaded with stocks when the crash came, he was all prepared for it. As a matter of fact, he began trimming sails well ahead of the rest of us. There are not many men in the motor industry that can see farther or clearer than he can."

This struck me as a very gracious tribute.

The Detroit Times has just opened a beautiful $2,000,000 new plant. In a mammoth issue devoted to "Progress" there is a full-page advertisement which reveals the existence of this amicable attitude among leading citizens toward one another. Theodore F. MacManus, one of Detroit's outstanding successful citizens, pays this tribute to fellow-citizens; there is room for only brief extracts and for only a few of the names mentioned.

"There are no three men associated in business in America who work harder than Joseph, Robert and Ray Graham, of the Graham-Paige, Libbey-Owen and other large interests. They were not only 'raised on a farm'—they raised a farm of 5000 acres and still operate it. So they know what hard work means. And yet, at the height of the recent unpleasantness, Ray Graham telephoned me: 'We thought we were working hard. Now we find that we have not been working at all. We are going to work. Remember it is not the victory but the fight that counts.'

"When I think of Frederick J. Fisher and his six brothers I think particularly of their capacity for thinking and working. When I think of Walter Chrysler I think of the bulldog determination and the fierce energy which will now be given a reincarnation. When I think of Dubois Young of Hupmobile, I think of him for what he is—an indomitable worker risen from a bench to a corporate presidency—with his pride aroused and, metaphorically speaking, his overalls on once more. And beside and behind him I think of the sane, sober, solid counsel of Charles Hastings with his great fund of human sympathy and understanding.

"I respect Alvan Macauley, of Packard, for all that he has done. I respect him especially because he was able at the very height and heat of the battle to steal a week-end and calmly go hunting to collect his thoughts and chart his plans.

"Some men work so quietly that the shallow and superficial miss their real worth—until a crash comes. Charles T. Fisher is such a man, but the way he has risen to his responsibilities is too complimentary to be told. Walter Briggs is not a spectacular person, but the things he has been doing at his desk from early morning till far past the dinner hour every day have been spectacular in their significance to Detroit—and would be spectacular in the telling if he would permit them to be told.

CURB MARKET STOCKS SHOW MIXED TONE

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Dec 13 (AP) Curb stocks worked irregularly lower today, as prices fluctuated widely during the skirmishes between speculators for the rise and the fall.

Bears were sent into hurried retreat soon after the opening, but after a brisk upturn on covering, prices once more dipped sharply, reaching new low levels for the new decline.

The market remained almost entirely professional, and price movements reflected speculative rather than business or corporation situations. While renewed outflow of gold was seized upon by bear professionals as a bearish development, bankers were not concerned over it.

Electric Bond & Share was a strong spot, and managed to hold from 1 to nearly 3 points above yesterday's close, allowing for the dividend which came off today. Hydro Electric was strong at the opening, but soon began to sag. American Gas & Electric shot up more than 10 points, then lost most of its gain.

Commonwealth Edison, after showing an initial gain of 3 points, dropped about 10. Allied Power & Light was under fairly steady pressure.

The oils turned notably heavy. Cities Service was again highly active, but moved in a comparatively narrow range. Standard of Indiana lost about a point, and Humble and Gulf sagged 3 points and more. Intercontinent Petroleum, one of the lowest priced shares of the group, began to sag after its recent upturn on reports of finding gold in its properties in Ecuador.

Illinois Pipe Line, recently strong on reports of an exchange offer by Ohio Oil, which formerly controlled it, dropped several points.

Industrials were highly irregular. Further operations for the advance were evident in Dubilier during the early trading. American Cigar, American Solvents and National Aviation were in fair demand during the morning.

American Cyanamid B, however, was heavy and Fox Theaters A was again under pressure. U. S. Finishing lost more than 3 points and Aluminum Co. of America dropped several points.

The investment trust shares were easy, but mostly moved in narrow ranges.

NEW EXTRAS ORDERED

More new extra dividends swelled the mounting flood for 1929 with the first announcements today coming from a New England insurance company.

At Hartford the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. declared an extra dividend of 10 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents on $10 par stock, both payable Jan. 1.

Hanover Fire Insurance Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents, placing stock on $1.50 annual basis, against $1 previously. It also declared an extra of 20 cents. Both dividends are payable Jan. 2.

Corporate Thurst Shares, a fixed type of investment trust comprising common stocks of 28 leading American corporations, will pay on Dec. 31, 1929, an extra dividend of 40 cents and regular semi-annual dividend of 25 cents.

American Commonwealths Power Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent in Class A stock on the Class A and Class B stocks, payable Feb. 1.

City Ice & Fuel Co declared extra dividend of 3 per cent in stock, 1½ per cent payable Mar. 1 to stock of record Feb. 15 and 1½ per cent payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 15.

Telautograph Corp. declared extra dividend of five cents a share and quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, payable Feb. 1. Quarterly dividends places the stock on a $1.20 annual basis, against $1 previously.

Will & Baumer Candle Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents on the common, payable Feb. 15.

Torrington Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents and extra of 50 cents a share, both payable Jan. 2.

New England Fire Insurance Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent (25 cents per share) payable Jan. 2.

New York, Honduras & Rosario Mining Co. declared special dividend of 50 cents, payable Dec. 28.

Parke, Davis & Co. declared a special dividend of 35 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable Jan. 2.

Ritter Dental Co. declared extra dividend of 50 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 62 cents on the common, payable Jan. 1.

Ohio Oil to Get Illinois Pipe Line

Cleveland, Dec. 13—Ohio Oil Co. has called special stockholders' meeting for December 30 to vote on increase in capital stock by issue of a new 6 per cent preferred and exchange of the new stock for that of the Illinois Pipe Line Co.

U. S. AID GIVEN TO INDUSTRIES OVERSEAS

The extent to which foreign countries are turning to the United States for help in organizing their own industries is illustrated by the export report of the National Association of Fan Manufacturers, which shows air conditioning and ventilating equipment shipped to practically every corner of the world for industrial use.

To China, where fresh eggs sell at four cents a dozen, and where the fastidious Chinese would not consider eating an egg that had not been properly aged, the International Food Products Co., an organization that does a large business in the United States, shipped 72 complete American-made air drying units for use in drying eggs. These were divided between Nanking and Hankow, large centers for this industry.

Whites and yolks of the eggs are separated, dried, flaked and sent all over the world for use by large baking companies and certain other manufacturing plants. The United States imports a considerable quantity.

Large ventilating fans and air conditioning equipment were shipped to India to be used in the development of textile plants, heretofore impractical in that particular section because of unfavorable air conditions. Success of such equipment in textile plants in the United States pointed the way for this development.

Brazil and Argentina imported a large amount of air conditioning equipment for use in packing plants.

One large American fan manufacturer reported shipping parts for a complete ventilating and air conditioning system to Japan for use in the newly constructed Tokio bank, the Mitsui, the largest building in the world devoted entirely to banking. This shows how the trend in American office building construction is followed abroad.

Russia, which has inaugurated a large program of industrial development, bought among other things, suction equipment for use in recovering lint from cotton seed, a by-product formerly wasted but now used extensively in the manufacture of Duco and other paint products.

Reports received from the New York Blower Co., the Ilg Electric Ventilating Co. and the Garden City Fan Co. of Chicago; the Bayley Blower Co. of Milwaukee, the American Blower Corp. of Detroit, the B. F. Sturtevant Co. of Boston and the Buffalo Forge Company of Buffalo indicate that 1929 exports of ventilating and air conditioning equipment will exceed those of 1928 by 25 per cent. Exports lead to about 10 per cent of the annual output of the American manufacturers.

LAMONT FINDS BUILDING UP

Secretary of Commerce Lamont stated the daily average award of building contracts in 37 states for first week in December was $21,722,000, against $21,466,000 the previous week and $17,000,000 in like week a year ago, as reported by F. W. Dodge Corp.

New life insurance written by 62 companies gained 9 per cent in November over November last year. Twenty-three companies in New York state showed 6 per cent gain over 1928, while 17 companies in New York city showed 2 per cent gain.

Secretary Lamont said the preliminary survey of the new division of public construction, just created by Commerce Department on request of President Hoover, reveals widespread, prompt and efficient mobilization of effort to expedite public construction.

The new division serves as a clearing house for information on methods and plans. In general it is hoped to co-ordinate differences of federal departments and State and local governments in business stabilization and employment programs by speeding up construction.

The new unit is making an intensive study of federal projects under way or which can be put in motion within a few months. Such information is necessary for effective mobilization of the government's own efforts.

State governors in response to President Hoover's telegrams have assumed responsibility for work in their own States. Some governors indicate they wish to be informed of measures and methods used elsewhere, and the new division is analyzing reports from this point of view.

Lead Shipments in Month Are Lowered

Domestic shipments of lead amounted to 63,066 short tons in November against 71,459 tons in October and 70,038 tons in November, 1928, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

$700,000,000 PROGRAM FOR TELEPHONE

Chicago, Dec. 13—President Gifford of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., before Chicago Association of Commerce on "Prosperity," said that since the telephone was invented by Bell only slightly more than 50 years ago tremendous strides had been made.

In the relatively short time since human speech was first transmitted electrically, the telephone business has been so organized and developed here that today practically anybody, anywhere, can talk at any time of the day or night with anybody anywhere else—not only in the United States, but in Mexico, Cuba, Canada and most of Europe.

"The ability to render a service of this magnitude rests upon a nation-wide organization, employing over 450,000 American men and women, operating physical properties representing an investment of four billions owned by more than 500,000 shareholders. The progress of the industry has been rapid, steady and continuous. We shall spend over $700,000,000 in 1930 for plant extensions, additions and betterments."

In regard to the recent break in stock prices, Mr. Gifford said: "The sensational break in stock prices has recently engaged the attention of every one. While this break has made it clear that the future progress of the United States cannot be discounted in the market to such extent that any one period should unduly profit, it is my judgment that for those who are willing to do their part in promoting that progress there has never been a place or time which offered such assurances as the United States does at present."

BOND MARKET LOWER AND ACTIVE

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—In moderately active trading bond prices dropped again today. There was, however, a distinctly firm undertone in the highest grade issues which have developed strong resistance even in the thin trading that has characterized the market this week.

Additional gold shipments to London received some comment, but otherwise no change was noted in the monetary situation. Time funds were dull at 4½ to 5 per cent and call loans renewed at 4½ per cent. The supply of the latter in the outside market, offered at 4 per cent, was reported to be diminishing.

Observers expect to be sluggish for the remainder of the month in view of the preparation by corporations for dividend and interest payments coming due on December 15 and January 1. Although the so-called reinvestment demand after the latter date is regarded as somewhat nebulous, it is nevertheless believed that a considerable proportion of these payments which will include a large number of extras on equity holdings, will find its way into bonds.

United States Government securities were taken in small blocks, for trading marked time pending award of the government's $100,000,000 issue of treasury bills which are to be sold at a price discount determined by competitive bidding.

Declines in the domestic corporation list were minor and appeared chiefly in secondary and semi-speculative loans. The first-grade rails held steady and a few were able to make small advances. The violent fluctuations of stock prices doubtless sent many smaller investors to sound bonds, where yields are still larger than those offered by many of the active shares.

Convertibles moved in a wide range as they adjusted their position to share quotations. American Telephone 4½s traded within a 5-point margin during the early dealings.

RAIL FREIGHT RECORD SET

New records in speed with which freight traffic is handled were established by railroads in October, says the Bureau of Railway Economics. The average movement per car per day was 36.3 miles, never before attained in any month. This was an increase of one-tenth of a mile above the best previous average in October last year. It also was 1.6 miles above October, 1927, and two miles above October, 1926.

In computing the average daily movement account is taken of all freight cars in service, including cars in transit, in process of being loaded and unloaded, undergoing or awaiting repairs and on side tracks for which no load is immediately available.

Average speed of freight trains was 13 miles an hour, the highest for any October on record and an increase of .4 mile above October last year.

Average load per car was 26.0 tons, including less than carload lot freight as well as carload freight. This was a reduction of one-tenth of a ton below October, 1928, but was four-tenths of a ton above October, 1927.

Steel Operations Seen as Good Business Index

By W. S. COUSINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—For the last three or four weeks the mid-week surveys of the steel trade have furnished an important clue to the industrial situation, and those who wish to keep in close touch with the factors of outstanding importance in the next few critical weeks should study carefully steel tonnage, steel mills operations car loadings bank clearings, short and long term money rates and related factors.

The prophets of gloom who have been predicting 50 per cent steel mills operations before the first of March are basing their calculations on the continuation of declining outputs from the big automobile plants and a falling off in building and public works consumption. They refuse to open their eyes to the fact that automobile manufacturing always falls off in November and December, the period of smaller buying demand and the close season for the final dolling up of new models.

The Iron Age shows in its weekly survey that, even without the usual demand from the automobile trade, the plants of the United States Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Corporation are operating at 60 per cent of capacity. These are by far the major units in the American industry, though they by no means have a monopoly of the business.

District operations in Alabama have risen to 65 per cent capacity; in Chicago and Pittsburgh to 65 per cent capacity and in Buffalo and Youngstown, where readjustments are under way, operations have temporarily receded to 40 per cent.

* * *

Sentiment in the iron and steel industry, we are told by the same authority, has improved. December will be a poor month, both in shipments and production, but this fact is not causing concern, since most consumers of steel are reducing their stocks to a minimum preparatory to taking inventory.

What has impressed the steel trade is the reassuring manner in which business has reacted to the stock market crash, which incidentally, is not exclusive with the steel trade, but is shared by other industrial heads, railroad steel orders, shipbuilding contracts, steel fabrication work and specifications.

* * *

From farm equipment makers have been consistently good volume, apparently unaffected by the stock market deflation. Two of ers are already in the field for first quarter 1930 steel bars, and from present indications buying is not going to be niggardly.

* * *

A prominent Cleveland economist has predicted for next year among other things:

1. Total output of iron and steel distinctly less than in 1929. As partial reasons therefor.

2. A decrease of between 500,000 and 1,000,000 in the number of automobiles produced in the United States and Canada;

3. Building construction on about the same volume as 1929, and not differing by more than 5 per cent in either direction.

* * *

Analyzing the figures of the automobile industry, let us see what this means. Output this year will aggregate about 5,600,000 vehicles, admittedly an overload for the consuming public. Subtracting from total the "more than half a million" suggested by Col. Ayers would bring the total to about 5,000,000, barring 1929, the largest year in history. Deducting a million cars leaves a total of 4,000,000, or slightly above the 1926 and 1927 totals.

* * *

Automobile manufacturers, who probably know more about their own business than anybody else, estimate the normal replacement at 3,000,000 cars a year. Expansion of family uses for small and big cars and the steady creation of a new-owner clientele builds a market for at least a million cars and the steady increasing foreign consumption can be counted on for another million. This expansion along special lines in the future, which in a rich and prosperous country like America is bound to come.

The days of prince-or-pauper for the steel trade are past and gone. The prince has come into his own.

LOWELL FIRM TO MOVE PLANT

Lowell, Dec. 13—The local plant of the U. S. Bobbin & Shuttle Co in Rogers st. will be closed down within a few weeks and the activities transferred to the Lawrence factory of the concern.

Local employes of the concern, the number ranging from 75 in the dull season to 200 in the busy season, will remain in its employ, commuting daily to work. The company officials stated that they were faced with the problem of either moving to Lawrence, where they have plenty of room for expansion, or building a new plant here, and the former course was adopted as the most economical. the largest automobile manufactur-

PRINTING HAS BEST YEAR

Capital stock of the F. W. Hall Printing Co. was admitted to trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday (Thursday, Dec. 12). The stock is also listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

The company reported to the stock exchange consolidated net earnings of W. F. Hall Printing Co., Edward Langer Printing Co. and Central Typesetting & Electrotyping Co., after interest and depreciation but before Federal taxes, for the six months to July 31, 1929, of $860,934 compared with $415,297 for the first six months of the previous fiscal year.

These earnings represent about $2.30 per share for the half-year, before Federal taxes, on the 375,000 shares now outstanding, compared with $1.38 per share on the 300,000 shares outstanding a year ago.

The present year is the best in the company's history. Based on business on the company's books and in prospect, it is expected that earnings will continue at the present rate or better. In March, 1930, the company will begin production under a 10-year contract to handle 50 per cent of the printing requirements of Sears, Roebuck & Co., which amounts at present to about $5,000,000 a year. Additions to the Chicago plant to handle this business have been financed largely out of earnings.

The company is the largest printing establishment in the world engaged in the volume production of mail order catalogues and magazines.

BOSTON TRADE MORE ACTIVE, SAYS DUN'S

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston: Business is more active at the present time than was generally expected at the first of the month, and in most lines merchants are receiving about as many orders as usual. The hide market is steady and quite active, but the leather market is seasonally quiet with quotations tending lower.

The output of the shoe factories still is decreasing as the end of the season approaches. A few manufacturers of the more staple lines are receiving some fair-sized orders and more activity is expected in every quarter before long. The recent storms have stimulated sales of rubber footwear and retail business continues fair. Tanning materials are slow.

The mills are fairly well supplied with raw wool and are purchasing in as small quantities as possible. Prices are lower. Carpet wools are quiet, with a downward price trend. Wool goods at retail are showing increased sales.

While there has some sacrifice of values of heavyweight clothing the amount offered has not been as large as first appeared and the market is in much better shape. There is more activity in women's wear, and retail sales in all lines are being well maintained.

This has caused a better outlook for cotton textiles as well, though currently there is only a light demand for the staples, as well as the fancy lines. Prices are lower. The production of gray goods is being somewhat restricted. Raw cotton is up in price, but the New England mills are not disposed to make purchases at the current level.

The cotton yarn spinners have difficulty in maintaining quotations. There is moderate activity in some counts, but the total volume of business is not large. There is very little new business coming in to the worsted and woolen yarn mills, though they are fairly busy on old orders.

They are not anxious to accept much business in the present price level, but are unable to prevent further price concessions.

Lumber prices are firmly held, and the demand is increasing somewhat. There has been a slightly increased call for hardwoods from the furniture manufacturers. Heavy building materials are moving slowly. Although money is more plentiful, and rates are lower, speculative builders who are endeavoring to replace their construction loans are finding difficulty in doing so on a satisfactory basis.

The banks, many of which are carrying property taken over on foreclosures during the past year, are scrutinizing their loans on apartment and dwelling houses very closely.

GREAT MERGER OF RAILS SEEN AS NEEDED

New Haven, Dec. 13—A great consolidation of railroads which will "provide in advance an adequate system of transportation for rapidly growing population, steadily advancing in its standard of living" was described as a vital need of the 13 northeastern states by Leo Loree of Delaware & Hudson railroad, in an article published in the Yale Daily News.

"The railroad system of the Delaware & Hudson Co. has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission is designed to protect the future needs of the 13 northeastern states, which, having one-third of the population of the country and employment of 47 per cent of its industrial workers, raise less than 6 per cent of the foodstuffs of the country, and must bring the raw materials and largely ship out the finished product of manufacture," Loree said.

He advocated a "special organization developed out of the present officers and employes who have achieved an especial attitude in these localities and circumstances."

NEW AMERICAN EXPRESS BANK IS PLANNED

New York, Dec. 13—Plans of the American Express Co. for the organization of a new bank to be known as the American Express Bank & Trust Co. were revealed today through the filing this morning of the necessary legal notice of intention with the superintendent of banks of the state of New York.

According to Frederick P. Small, president, the establishment of this bank is looked upon as a logical development in the activities of the American Express Co., and is made convenient by the release this year of the large capital investment which the company had in the express transportation business.

The new bank and trust company will engage in a general banking and trust company business in the city of New York, thus supplementing the financial services now rendered by the American Express Co. and developing business which is not now available to that company.

Application will be made for a trust company charter under the New York law, and it is expected that the new institution will begin business early in April, 1930 with a paid in capital of $10,000,000 and surplus and organization reserves of $16,000,000. Its principal office will be in the American Express Building at 65 Broadway, New York City.

The directors of the new institution will include: Joseph F. Abbott, president, American Sugar Refining Company; Martin J. Alger, president, Merchants Despatch Transportation Company; William D. Baldwin, chairman, Otis Elevator Company; F. Higginson Cabot, Jr., vice president, Stone & Webster, Inc.; William C. Dickerman, president, American Locomotive Co.; Frederick Ecker, assistant treasurer, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; William B. Given, Jr., president, American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co.; Paul L. Haid, president, American Eagle Fire Insurance Co.; William T. Hoops, president, L. C. L. Corporation; Arthur F. Lafrentz, first vice president, American Surety Co.; Frank A. Merrick, president, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.; Bernon S. Prentice, of Dominick & Dominick; John W. Prestiss, of Hornblower & Weeks; Charles S. Sargent, of Kidder, Peabody & Company; Frederick P. Small, president, American Express Co., and Graham C. Woodruff, chairman, United States Freight Co.

The president, official staff and additional directors will be announced later.

Initial capital will consist of 100,000 shares of the par value of $100 each. The subscription price will be $160 per share, or a total of $16,000,000 to be paid in.

There will be no offering of stock to the general public. American Express Company will subscribe to at least 54 per cent of the stock, 10 per cent will be reserved for subscription to the officers and directors, and 36 per cent will be offered to American Express stockholders in the ratio of one share of new bank stock for each five shares of American Express stock.

MISS LUMBERT HOSTESS FOR AIR DANCE

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Tonight's the night.

We mean for the aviation ball to be held at Payson Hall, Belmont, tonight, under the auspices of Cliff Lovewell and his boys.

And one of the best parts of the whole proceedings will be the fact that Miss Martha "Pat" Lumbert of Falmouth will be hostess, and will proceed from the very start to make everyone feel at home. This is one of "Pat's" many public appearances, for she was one of the foremost figures at the Falmouth airport during the past summer, especially during the air meet down there.

Lovewell stated that he was very fortunate to have Miss Lumbert grace the occasion with her presence, and that he was positive the airport boys and girls would be entirely set at ease from the first second they enter Payson Hall.

While the ball will take most of the evening, there will also be a vaudeville show, in which various celebrities will appear. "Jake" Jacobson, famous for his sax wielding; Frankie Vingneau and Peg LaCentra, to name but a few, will be on deck, doing their stuff with alacrity.

The evening's fun will not call for formal attire, but Cliff and his cohorts hope no one comes in a flying suit. That, as they say, would be just too bad.

All in all, and without much doubt, there is a lot of fun coming the way of the attaches of Boston Airport, Dennison Airport and Muller Field, Revere, out in Belmont before dawn arrives tomorrow morning.

BEVERLY ACTIVE

Despite the fact that the winter breezes are blowing, more and more activity is being noted at Beverly Airport, where the Wetmore-Savage Aircraft Corp. holds forth.

The field, located a short distance out of town, and away from the smoke nuisance, besides being far enough inland so that the morning fogs do not bother, is under the direction of Alton McNeill, of Beverly, who serves as operations manager, and Bob Bernson, of Brookline, who officiates as business manager. Both boys are in the know when it comes to commercial aviation activities, and are keeping the Arrow sports busy with student work.

Lyle "Slim" Halstead is chief pilot, and has the honor of instructing two very charming young ladies. They are Miss Frances "Billy" Nelson, of Beverly, and Dolly Bernson. Just to show that the female fliers are still not yet on a par numerically with the male, Wetmore-Savage has five men students taking instruction. These include Jule Hamilton, of Beverly, Hank and Bill Mitchell of Salem, Jack Smith of Beverly, and Bill Oberhauser of Beverly.

Beverly airport is located near the Hood Company's Cherry Hill Farm, and is a part of what is known as Swift Farm. The main runway is 1800 feet at present, and lies directly into the prevailing wind. The cross runway is 1300 feet, and will be lengthened as soon as the spring rolls around. There are plenty of fields surrounding the airport for use in case of a forced landing.

We will hear more about this outfit in the future.

PLANE SERVICE

Deciding that the 300 horsepower Wright Whirlwind engine powering Sound Airways' Travel Air cabin monoplane needed an overhaul, Dave Sher, general manager for the New Bedford company, and Hank Olden, chief pilot, flew the job up to Boston, where East Coast Aircraft Corp. installed a service engine for use until the original one is given the double-O.

Dave declared that he never thought the day would come when the owner of an airplane could taxi up to a service station, leave the ship for a day, and return to have another motor, brand new, installed and ready for flight. This is just an inkling of the type of service East Coast will purvey when they are completely ready for business. "A great outfit," said Dave, "and I don't mean Hello, either."

That chap, Backstrom, chief of student instruction for Curtiss-Wright, turned Wharton, another one of his students, solo. Six hours or so of dual work, and then that young man is on his way, taking the Fledgling off, making the circle of the field, and landing.

If this keeps us, Backstrom will have a record for solos on the Airport for one week, and there are still two days to go.

FREDDY DROPS IN

Deciding that he liked the hot coffee sold at the restaurant at the Boston Airport, Freddie De-Jardin wound up his Whirlwind engined Waco and popped down from his field in Worcester. Freddie is one of the gang who takes in all the air meets, and whenever he arrives, it is always a signal for a little barracks flying, talking over the various shows of the preceding season.

Freddie's young brother, Lucien, who obtained his state commercial license a week ago, is so tickled with his acquisition that he can hardly be dragged out of the ship. An air-minded family, we think.

Youth Drinks 22 Cups of Coffee

Providence, Dec. 13—A stretch in the navy gives a man a great capacity for carrying liquid nourishment. Edward Norton, former sailor and now head pin-boy at a local bowling alley, said.

On a wager, he drank 22 cups of coffee in rapid succession. Norton reasoned that at Columbia, professors were of the opinion that a man's capacity was 12 cups of coffee. "They haven't seen anything yet," he cried in triumph, as he waved his 22d empty cup.

Fear New Floods in English Towns

London, Dec. 13—With rural areas in the South and West already under from two to eight feet of water, England's swollen rivers continue to rise, menacing with fresh disaster the storm-wracked country.

While the torrential rains of the past week have now ceased and the winds abated, fear is expressed here that cities in the Thames valley, Somerset County and the Midlands have yet to bear the brunt of the storm in the shape of floods.

The lower grounds of Windsor Castle were still submerged today.

As the Thames threatens to inundate the Southlands, so do the larger Western rivers, swollen to the danger point, threaten to submerge large areas along their banks. Already the Usk, the Tyne, Severn, Wye and Parrett have poured tons of water over miles of surrounding countryside.

Two Candidates File Expenses

Newburyport, Dec. 13—Only two candidates for city positions in the recent election have filed their expense returns. Eugene Twomey and Moses H. Wright, Jr., both successful candidates for the City Council, paid $29.50 and $12.70 respectively for printing and advertising. All candidates must file a list of the expenses they incurred in the political fight.

Give Furniture for Xmas

A Well Furnished House Is the Foundation of Family Life

(Copyright, 1929)

WHATEVER else you buy for Christmas, as you select presents for parents, brothers, sisters, intimate friends, KEEP A PIECE OF FURNITURE IN MIND, as a present, always welcome.

A beautiful chair, an artistically made table, a rug of fine quality and workmanship, a lamp to ornament and light a room.

The furnishings of a house tell what its inhabitants are, reflect their taste, indicate their place in the scale of civilization.

GIVE FURNITURE FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

The first thing a wise bird does is to get a soft, beautiful lining for the nest.

On the outside it may be rough, made of twigs, clay, straw. But inside you find a lining of fine hair and often another lining of soft feathers.

The wise mother and father birds know that the right start for young birds is a nest well furnished.

As with birds, so with human beings. The American people need many things, but first they need A HOME, COMFORTABLE, BEAUTIFUL, WELL FURNISHED, reflecting the good taste and affection of the father and mother.

To such a home the children's memory returns as long as they live.

The comfortable sofa, the big armchair, the pretty carpet, soft curtains at the windows. Those are memories that remain forever associated with the parents and the home.

Furniture excellently made, and permanently durable, is not expensive. The science of producing fine furniture in this country has been developed with an economy and efficiency not excelled even by the art of automobile production.

To give a comfortable chair or sofa, a beautiful rug, lamp, picture, is to prove that you THINK of your friend's comfort.

The friend or relative whose house you visit will deeply appreciate a Christmas card reading: "Merry Christmas, I thought this little table (or chair, or table lamp) might fit well in one of your rooms."

Under the general heading of FURNITURE are included talking machines with a carefully chosen "library" of dance music and other records, a radio which brings the art and the intellect of the world directly into the home.

Included also are pictures, linens, artistically chosen china, porcelain and ornaments.

Make your own home BEAUTIFUL, and to give real Christmas pleasure to a friend send something that will make HIS home more comfortable and more beautiful.

BUY FURNITURE FOR CHRISTMAS.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Thoughts while strolling: Broadway movies with electric signs on all day. The batteries of phones in ticket agencies—one direct to each theater. Drooping piano thumpers in song sheet shops. Justine Johnson looks the same as ten years ago.

Hall-room-sized haberdasheries with bediamond proprietors. Tiny gown shops that rarely have a customer. And that umbrella renting shop that only does business on a rainy day. Charles Darnton, the Beau Brummel of the dramatic critics. Major Bowes.

The Times Square "drug store" selling nothing but sandwiches and soda. Where do soft drink clerks go in the winter time? Glittering nut stores. You can usually spot an acrobat by his leather wrist supporter. Nothing so invigorating as the smell of pine.

The Indian who runs a chili parlor and has a sign: "Everything hot—but fire water." What became of canes with leather loop handles? Charles Hand, a reporter, who became secretary to Mayor Walker. Bobbe Arnst who pouts if you spell it Bobbie. Sign on a reducing parlor "The way of all flesh!"

Broadway's bloated and mocking cackle. Tweedy fellows in wide flat brogues. Who smoke comfortable pipes and saunter. Jack Baragwanath, Neysa McMein's husband. Tickless hospital clocks. A lone man looking at a ticker tape. An all white plush bath robe.

The weighty Latin inscriptions on university clubs. Rex Beach, an Atwood, Michigan, boy, who made good in the city. A Negro family with a limousine and liveried chauffeur. Maury Paul bouncing along. Al Wood's cigar and tousled hair. Betty Compson.

What became of tete-tete chairs? Walter Huston—and about the best actor on the stage. Lillian Lauferty. (The original Marion Fairfax.) And she writes novels, too. That handsome boy who poses for the halitosis ads. Drake's restaurant—where women cannot smoke. And always crowded.

They occupied a seat on a bus top discussing with a little too much enthusiasm the clear, calm chill of a beautiful evening. It was the sole topic for ten blocks when conversation went into a tail spin. After a few blocks, he suddenly roused himself to observe: "No matter how you look at it, it is still a beautiful evening!"

George Jean Nathan's frequent companion to the theater is the fragile Miss Lillian Gish. Their friendship is one of many years—each year of which has included at least three announcements by rumor specialists of their engagement.

For some time I have been observing those policemen who drive around town in green P. D. cars. So far the only upholding of the law I have noticed is to stop and frighten some lady into muzzling a fluffy little bulbous eyed dog.

Above the early morning ash can roundelay today, a voice called out, "Hey, Pete! What does a guy git for reaching the North Pole?"

"He don't git nuthin.' But science gits a break," was the reply.

A young man writes that he has lost his job because his employer caught him "niggling" with a cross word puzzle. Until I looked it up I did not know there was such a word.

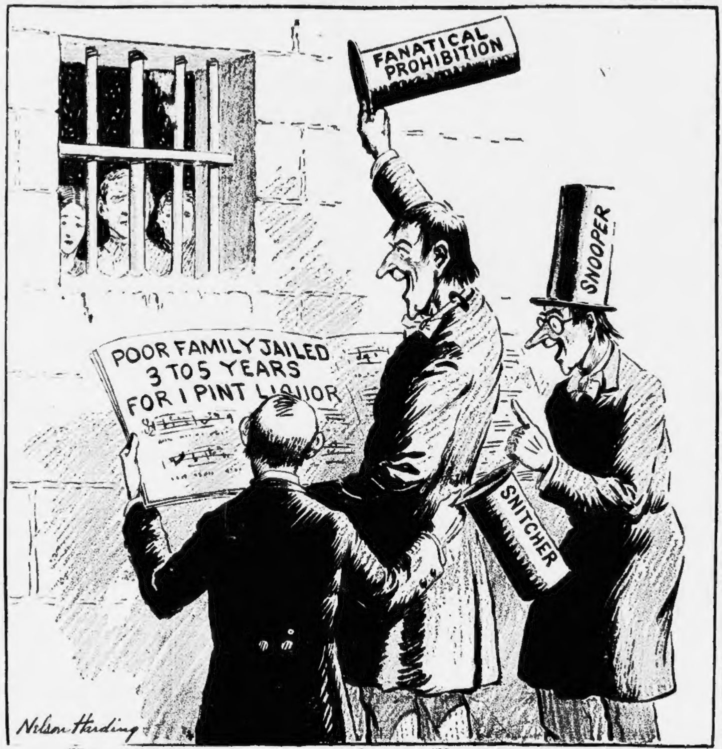
Christmas Carol

By NELSON HARDING



What a cruel Christmas carol
Over which to proudly gloat.
What a harsh, unchristian chorus
From the so-called Christian throat—

"Many Christmas Days in prison
Wish we for our fellowmen,
And may many fines go with them.
Dry Law Christmas, come again!" — N. H.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Wilbur Glenn Voliva still insists that Commander Byrd has a narrow escape from falling off the earth.

Mr. Voliva claims that the earth is just as flat as the kitchen floor.

He is one egg that Columbus cannot stand on end.

When we went to school we were taught that the earth was round. We believed it because our teacher was pretty.

We thought that the cruise of the Graf Zeppelin last summer would convince Mr. Voliva of the miscalculation of his detours.

There can be no doubt that the Zepp flew around the village pump and back again. We saw the German sky liner leave New York and merge with the Eastern horizon.

We were in California when it came twisting out of the Pacific zone, and either our eyes deceived us or our ear-muffs had slipped.

Mr. Voliva lives in Zion, Illinois. Every day he sees the sun come up out of Lake Michigan and set in Iowa. And he still claims it is a fake.

All of the statistics and all of the explorations are nearly breakfast food in a feeble factory. Columbus, Magellan, Balboa, Zepps and Byrds mean nothing in Zion.

We believe that the earth is round because the labels on our trunk prove it. Mr. Voliva says the earth is a corcular plane and that you can fall off, which is carrying jay-walking out to the sixth decimal point.

If he is right, and the earth is flat, we hope the edges are beveled.

Scientists say that this expensive chunk of real estate is flattened on the ends. That may shorten the distance some but we don't care for those kind of Dutch corners.

We have never circumnavigated the nationalized apple. We started once and got as far East as Monte Carlo, where the roulette wheels are also circular planes.

At another, and more remote date, in Philadelphia, we were convinced that the earth was round because it kept slipping out from under our feet.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

THE condition is known as cretinism. In most cases cretinism and myxoedema can be cured by administering a regular dose of thyroid extract with the food. It is probable that slight thyroid deficiency is very common for in many cases administering thyroid to people of middle age has a beneficial effect, reducing corpulence and promoting the growth of hair.

H. G. Wells

Effects produced by an over-active thyroid are seen in the disease known as exophthalmic goitre. There is quickening of the pulse, and even palpitations, there is also wasting, and a curious bulging of the eyes. For this reason we do not recommend our readers to try the effect of thyroid extract without proper medical supervision.

The thyroid is not essential to life. Life and its oxidations continue even when the whole thyroid is removed; but they continue very sluggishly, thus the rate of oxidation falls to about 60 per cent of its normal value, and the temperature tends to be subnormal.

The thyroid hormone acts like a draught to the fire of life. The draught is necessary to get a bright fire; but without it, the fire will still smoulder on.

The pituitary gland is a small, reddish-gray, egg-shaped body, about half an inch across, and projecting from the middle of the lower surface of the brain, with the substance of which it is continuous, into a little cup in the base of the skull.

It is made up of two distinct halves, each of which produces its own influence on the working of the body.

The hinder half or postpituitary is mainly concerned with the body's chemistry and chemical supply.

Its secretion excites and augments the movements of the bowels, keeps the blood-vessels toned up, and stimulates the kidneys to do their work. In addition, if it is deficient, the utilisation of sugar by the body is disturbed. A high proportion of the carbohydrate consumed is turned into unnecessary fat instead of being used as fuel; the result is great obesity and an exaggerated appetite, especially for sweet things.

The front half or pre-pituitary, on the other hand, is mainly concerned with growth and development. Over-activity of the pre-pituitary (such as occurs when a tumor grows in the gland), if it occurs before the bones have "set" and finished their growth in length, results in an overgrowth of the whole body, especially in height, which, however, is far more marked in the long bones of the limbs than in the trunk.

Most of the giants of fairs and circuses owe their peculiarity to this cause, while the fat lady in the next booth gains her living through a deficiency of the other part of the same minute gland.

If over-activity of the gland does not begin until full stature has been reached, the bones can not grow in length and the excess growth takes place mainly in the hands, feet and part of the skull, giving rise to a disease called acromegaly.

The bones of the fingers usually develop abnormal bony outgrowths. The pre-pituitary affects not only growth, but also stimulates the development of the reproductive organs.

When the pre-pituitary is deficient, children do not grow up properly; they remain undersized, though of perfect proportions, and they fail to mature sexually, giving one of the most typical pictures of what is called infantalism.

The pituitary also helps to regulate temperature. Human beings with deficiency of the pituitary as a whole are generally sub-normal in temperature, and in addition often somnolent to excess.

Add to this the tendency to lay on fat and the enormous appetite and we realize what an unexcelled picture of an under-pituitaried individual Dickens gave us in the fat boy in Pickwick.

These effects of pituitary thyroids have been turned to account by Nature. To prepare hedgehogs and dormice and other hibernating mammals for their winter sleep, thyroid and pituitary become damped down. Fat is put on, the creatures grow sluggish, cold and drowsy, and finally succumb to sleep.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

NEXT to being fat, the saddest fate is to find yourself a tall and languorous Gibson girl or a subtle siren type, in a "Hey-hey-girl" generation.

Now that New York debutantes have decided that all parties must break up at the "early" hour of 3 a. m., those snappy young business men can get home almost in time to have a cold shower and snatch a bite of breakfast before showing up bright and peppy at the office.

When a woman gives a man up, it always leaves a void in her life; but when a man gives a woman up, it is usually because some other woman is crowding her out.

Now that all the other necessities of life, including the kitchen range, are being glorified and dolled up to charm the eye, many a woman secretly wishes that her husband could be made just a teeny-weeny bit more ornamental to harmonize with the color-scheme.

Just about the time a woman has discovered how many minutes her husband likes his eggs boiled and he has discovered where she keeps the witch hazel, incompatibility sets in.

A woman would hate to miss the thrilling sensation of feeling herself fall in love; but, to a man, falling in love is like taking gas; he doesn't know that anything is happening to him, until it's all over and he wakes up to hear the minister saying "Amen."

It doesn't so much matter whether or not there IS such a thing as future reward or everlasting love. It's your BELIEF in them that makes life worth living, and gives it all its flavor.

Turning a "good fellow" into a good husband is seldom a success; the man who is all things to all men is never much of anything to any woman.

The hardest thing for the woman, who got him, to live up to, is a man's glorified memory of the woman he didn't get.

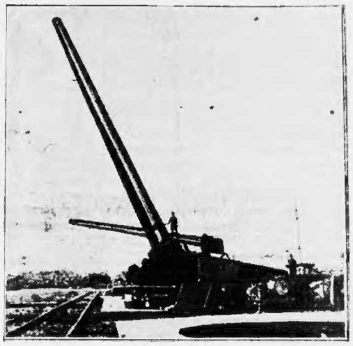
MacDonald Saw This Gun

He Smiled, Probably

(Copyright, 1929)



U. S. Army Photograph

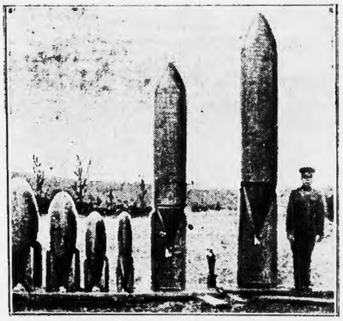
SHOOTS THIRTY MILES, BUT WHAT OF IT?

ON his way from the peace talk with President Hoover, Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Prime Minister of Great Britain, passed by the United States proving ground at Aberdeen, Maryland, while the army was exhibiting some United States war machinery.

The picture at the top showing a gun which Ramsay MacDonald may have seen presents one of our "coast defense" guns. Carrying sixteen-inch shells, this gigantic rifle can send a projectile weighing one ton thirty miles out to sea.

Ramsay MacDonald, who knows what future wars will be, probably smiled as he saw that.

If another war comes, nobody is going to send any battleships within thirty miles of our shore. There won't be anything for our magnificent coast defense pop guns to shoot at except air and sea water.



U. S. Army Photograph

THESE AIRPLANE BOMBS WILL DO THE REAL WORK

Any ships that come to attack us will anchor a hundred or two hundred miles off the shore, release their bombing and gassing airplanes at that distance and then go back whence they came. Or they will release aerial torpedoes with gyroscope pilots, risking no life of their own.

If real war comes, airplanes will be released from gigantic submarines. The thing is done already in Great Britain, and will be perfected.

At a convenient spot near the shore the submarine will rise to the surface, release its airplanes, then submerge. No coast defense gun will play any part.

The second picture column shows you what really WILL count.

Here you see the various sizes of airplane bombs, compared in size with a man.

The smallest bombs weigh twenty-five pounds, the giant "demolition bomb" weighing two tons, is well named.

It would DEMOLISH any battleship ever built.

A flock of airplanes dropping such bombs would wipe out a city or destroy any battle fleet on earth.

After a while this country will stop wasting money on guns and battleships that will never be used, and concentrate, as European countries do, on the latest improvements in flying machines and submarines, by which all future wars will be settled.

Already, it is understood, President Hoover, who is an engineer and understands the use of power, has made up his mind that battleships, nothing but targets for airplanes, shall be abandoned.

The cost of one battleship would give us a fighting air fleet really worth having.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

SCENT of budding lilacs,
Scent of cherry bloom,
These are what the wind brings
To April's twilight gloom.
Scent of ruddy apples
Ripening on the trees,
Scent of rose and jasmine
Come with Summer's breeze.
Drifting clouds and smoke wreaths,
Floating golden haze
Trail their changeful banners
Through the Autumn days.
But what gifts do wintry
Winds, frost-laden, bring?
Memories of Autumn,
Promises of Spring!
